

Obituary.

These records would not be complete without a reference to our departed comrades. Two patients have died at Bear Wood since its inception, and two patients moved to Reading War Hospital died a few days after their transfer there. One patient who died here was removed for burial by his relatives to Stirling, Scotland. The other three, along with Flight-Lieut. J. D. P. Scholfield, R.F.C., were buried with full military honours in the peaceful, beautifully kept cemetery of St. Catherine's Church. All have quartered oak crosses erected, with brass tablets placed on same, by their Bear Wood comrades. Further, a brass tablet has been placed in St. Catherine's Church by the Officer Commanding and the members of the Sergeants' Mess in loving memory of Flight-Lieuts. Scholfield and Pilling, both killed while flying in England. Both were excellent characters, members of the staff of this Hospital previous to their joining the Air Service.
