PLANETS IN AUGUST.—Mercury is an "Evening Star" through the whole month; visible after sunset for the first ten days. He is in conjunction with Jupiter on the 4th, and reaches greatest elongation E. of 27° 21' on Aug. 6th. Saturn runs close to a star in Gemini on the morning of the 5th. Jupiter and Venus—the two brightest planets—are in close conjunction on the 6th. Venus passing North of her giant brother. Mars and Saturn—both "Morning Stars"—are also close together on the 6th, the two being near the crescent of the old Moon on the following morning. The New Moon is near Jupiter, Mercury and Venus on the 11th in the evening. Uranus passes close to Venus on the 24th.
