SACKVILLE WOMAN HAS NARROW ESCAPE FROM

SACKVILLE, June 1.--A Sackville woman, Mrs. John L. Wry, had a very narrow escape from death on Friday evening last when a shaft of lightning struck the sash of a window at which she was sitting. Fortunately, she was not injured though naturally the shock sustained was great and necessitated the calling of a physician. Mrs. Wry was sitting near a window in the front of her home in Bowser avenue, workng at a sewing machine, when the lightning struck the woodwork at the on the wall, and the curtains about the escape from being struck may be judgthe had been sewing on the machine was also set on fire and almost en tirely burned before it was put out. So far as is known this is the only case of damage done by the lightning of Friday in this vicinity.

STOLE BY WHOLESALE

Wealthy Farmer Did Big Business Under Assumed

Name-Caught

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 1.-Robert H. Greene of Waynetown, vice-president of the Farmers and Merchants' Bank of that plaace, prominent member of the Methodist church and one of the wealthiest young farmers of the State, is under arrest charged with horse stealing.

Two animals stolen from Judge Mc-Cabe were found in his possession, two others were in a car ready for shipment to Chicago and not less than fourteen in all, besides carriages, which have been recovered, are known to have been stolen by Greene. Rewards offered for the thief and for the horses stolen by him aggregate $5,000.

Greene was arrested here under the ame of Frank Ross, when a negro groom employed by Judge McCabe recognized two of the horses in his posession. The man said he was from Chicago, and the police soon discov ered that he had ordered a box car and had placed feed in it for the horses. Greene has been speculating in grain of late and is supposed to have turned norse thief in order to recoup his

Japy, which occurred in the artist's residence in the Rue de Baugirard in the early hours of Sunday. A number of the newspapers, which are laying stress on the mysterious element of the crime, dwelt upon the fact that the police refuse to allow anyone to communicate with Mme. Steinheil, who still is suffering from nervous shock after her terrifying experiences, or her sixteen-year-old daughter, who returned from the country today. They also point out that jewels, which Mme. Steinheil declared yesterday had been stolen by the murderers were today discovered in a concealed safe. QUICKSAND; MEN WOMEN RESCUED

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 1 .-Caught in quicksands on the Meadows S., son of Henry Elliott. Mrs. W. E. in the lower boathouse district during the heavy storm today, a party of prominent Philadelphians were marooned in a half-sunken omnibus, whose driver had mistaken the read and guided the horse into the dangerous spot. Men in the party worked for an hour with the aid of rescuers on solid ground to get the women to safety, and a score of men afterward pried out the horses which had sunk until only their heads were visible.

A. E. Maltby, a prominent Philadelphia automobile man, headed the party, and his companions were Mrs. Maltby, Miss Ada Anderson of Hadden Heights and Walter Rhodes of Madia. They arrived this morning, and started for a visit to Miss Ethel Anderson who was to entertain the party over Sunday in a Ventnor boathouse. In the storm the driver of the bus failed to follow the safe road and drove directly on a tract where dredges had just pumped out fifteen feet of soft sand. Before the wagon had gone ten yards the crust broke and the team and vehicle sank in the quicksand. Screams of the women brought assistance from boathouses, while men in the party tried to reach shore. One man sank to his shoulders, but was rulled back to the roof of the bus. A mminent danger to themselves the men on the bus and on shore then built a bridge from boards torn from nearby buildings and the frightened persons were carried to shore. Men in charge of the pumping operations declare that the storm caused the went back to coffee again. That was quicksand to form and guards have been placed around it to prevent an-
