THE HOTWATER QUESTION.
What at one time was an obstacle to the more general use of gas for cooking, namely the difficulty of obtaining hot water when the kitchen range was out of use, has been overcome by the invention of efficient and economical gas-heated apparatus, whereby a constant supply of hot water can be secured at reasonable cost quite independently of the kitchen range boiler.

Police Force go on Strike for More Pay

ST. CATHARINES, July 31.—This city is looking for an entire new police force with the exception of the chief. Trouble started with the desire of the men for an increase in pay, but the strike, it is claimed, came not over a question as to whether or not the claimed of the men were valid, but over a point of insubordination, which the commissioners say the entire force is guilty of, because of the manner in which the demand was made.

On Tuesday last, the day before the meeting of the commissioners, the first intimation was given that the men were going to insist on an increase in pay. It came in the form of a demand containing a new schedule signed by all members, setting down Aug. 1 as the date it should go into force. With this first suggestion also came the verbal information through the detective sergeant to the chief, that the men would go out in two hours' notice if the demands were not met at once.

The board of commissioners considered the mode of procedure decidedly arbitrary, and passed a resolution at a special meeting, which was this afternoon read to the men. It declared their act to be that of insubordination, and the commissioners called upon the members of the force to state their intention, so that if it should appear necessary, the board could take the necessary steps to furnish the necessary police protection.

The answer came this evening in a joint resignation, signed by all the members except the chief. The resignation, nine in number, including Detective-Sergeant McCarthy, two sergeants and six constables, were all accepted, to take effect July 31st. Lieut.-Col. Burleigh, commanding the land canal and frontier protective force, was called upon to furnish sufficient men when necessary, and until such time as a new permanent force can be engaged. The increase of pay demanded by the men averages 20 per cent. The chief admits that the demand was laid on his desk nearly three weeks ago, but the commissioners state that no word of the condition of affairs was made known to them until this week.

Rounded up by Shrewdness of Old Woman

A combination of circumstances which did not enter into the calculations of Frank Brown and Samuel Moncton resulted in the arrest of the pair yesterday on a charge of robbery. Their miscalculations were the shrewdness of an old lady and the suspiciousness of Plainclothesmen Marshall and Robertson, of Court Street Station.

Late in the afternoon while walking along Duke Street the officers noticed a man standing at the end of a lane which runs in the rear of No. 24. They at once proceeded to make an investigation, and arrived just in time to see the man's comrade in the act of taking a drink from a flask a little farther down the lane. The plainclothesmen began to question the two men as to why they were in the lane. One said that they merely went there to take a drink.

While they were talking an old lady walked past from her cottage and told the officers that she saw the men take a drunken man into the lane a few minutes earlier. Marshall and Robinson at once arrested the pair and commenced to look for their supposed victim. The latter was found sleeping peacefully among some weeds, near a fence, a few feet away. Near him was also found a Dominion Bank passbook, which showed that he had drawn $50 from his account during the day.

When searched the sum of $35 in Dominion Bank bills was found in the possession of one. The three men were taken to the station, where the intoxicated man gave the name of Robert Thompson, of 194 George Street. Brown gave his address as 40 Seaton Street and Moncton as 31 Taylor Street. A charge of being drunk was laid against Thompson, to hold him as a witness against the other two on a charge of robbery.

When a man feels out of sorts he takes a drink; a woman goes and gets her hair dressed.

DON'TS FOR HUNTERS

Don't rest your rifle on any hard support. It will shoot off aim if you do. Instead, rest your body or your elbows.

Don't think it necessary to mangle your victim's throat with a bowie knife. It spoils the head for mounting. Stick him in the chest—and be sure he's dead before you do it.

Don't run after a wounded deer, give it time to lie down and bleed. The chances are that it will never get up, if well hit. About the only exception is when falling snow is obliterating the trail. Don't hurry—that's a game where the deer has you beaten.

Don't go out without matches, a compass and a bite of something to eat stowed about your person. You may want to stay out longer than you anticipated. And again, you may have to when you don't want to.

Don't let getting lost fuss you. It'll take you about a week to starve to death and you won't freeze as long as windfalls give shelter from the wind and wood and matches make a fire. Remember, your companions will begin looking for you the next morning and that a bonfire sending up a big smoke from the top of a hill will help them in finding you.

Don't shoot at anything you can't see—the chances are you won't hit it, unless it is something you don't really care to hit—your hunting companion, perhaps.

Don't hustle around in the woods looking for an animal with the architecture and action of a cow—the creature you're after more closely resembles a collie dog seeking an interview with the neighbor's cat.

Don't believe all the dope handed you by the "deer slayers" assembled in the general store of the settlement where the cars drop you—and don't expect them to believe anything you tell them.

Don't neglect to make a careful study of the bullet holes in the carcass your guide has hung up for you. It is sometimes embarrassing to be suddenly asked to account for a broken hind leg on the buck you dropped with a single ball through his heart.

Don't go crawling through thickets on your hands and knees. The attitude won't deceive any deer but it may mislead some well-meaning stranger into endowing you with a couple or three soft-points just where they will do you the least good.

Don't fail to shoot when you see a deer. Shoot at him, if possible, but by all means shoot—it makes a better impression upon the bystanders.

Urges the Seizure of German Cash

Sir Henry Dalziel Would Thus Retaliate for the Fryatt Shooting

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Sir Henry Dalziel told the Tribune correspondent today that he intended to follow up his campaign for the confiscation of all German funds in Great Britain, in retaliation of German barbarism. He would carry on the campaign not only in Parliament, but also, throughout the country, if necessary. "It is the only way of dealing with the Germans," said Sir Henry. "We can't stoop to retaliation by shooting some of our prisoners in return for the murder of Captain Fryatt. The only way is to seize their money, an enormous quantity of which is held in Great Britain. I believe this course will commend itself to the whole country, as well as impress the Huns as nothing else can."
