Curious Flowers.

The Brazilian flower known as the running antelope is so called because its white petals have a series of well defined, dark colored lines and dots in which the imagination can readily trace the form of an antelope with its limbs outstretched and head thrown back, seemingly fleeing for its life. In the "caricature plant" one species has the imitative form on the petals, and another has it outlined in the ribs and shading of the leaves.

The last mentioned curiosity bears a remarkably well executed likeness of the Duke of Wellington and has on that account been named "Arthur and His Nose." Among the orchids the imitative form is entirely different in character, being exhibited in the shape of the flower itself. Some are exact counterfeits of bees, butterflies, moths, etc., while others take upon themselves the form of worms and beetles.
Naturalists believe that in the first instance it is nature's trap to lure other bees, moths and butterflies, but in the case of the worm and the beetle, orchids or those that are the exact counterparts of toads, lizards and huge spiders, they do not attempt to explain.

Recreations of Cabinet Ministers.

It is probable that the recreations of the cabinet ministers of the present time when on vacation are, however frivolous, slightly dissimilar from those of their eighteenth century predecessors. Fox, for instance, spent a morning in Bond street counting cats against the Prince of Wales, and as he chose the sunny side of the street he saw thirteen to the Prince's one and won the coach. Lord Oxford, too, riding in his coach with Swift, used to count poultry with him all the way to town, and whoever counted thirty-one first or saw a cat or an old woman was the winner. Lord Boling-broke, joining them one day for the purpose of discussing European affairs, was at once interrupted by Ox-ford's saying, "Swift, I'm up; there's a cat!" and left them in disgust. As Swift wrote, "Such tattle often entertains my lord and me as far as Staines."—London Chronicle.

Dressmakers on the Street.

An odd fact about dressmakers is that nearly all of them have the same fault—on the street they cut their friends. A noted dressmaker said in explanation of this fact: "The street is to us dressmakers what a picture gallery is to artists—a grand storehouse of ideas. On the street we are always on the lookout for new fashions, and from the neck down we study every person that passes, for from one we may get a new skirt pattern, from another a new sleeve, from a third a new collar, and so on. We are never busier than when on the street; our eyes are never more alert, but they don't reach up to the face level; they can't spare the time from their study of dresses to go any higher than the neck. And hence on the street we cut impartially our mothers, our sisters, our best friends."

The Blood of Men and Apes.

Between the blood of men and apes there are many points of similarity and evidences of a distinct relationship, but the blood of monkeys can readily be distinguished from that of men. The difference is more or less marked, according to the species, the greatest resemblance being seen in the case of the gibbon and the least with the lemur, a small species about the size of a cat and having a face somewhat like a fox. A singular fact is that, judged by the blood, there is less evidence of relationship found in the American families of apes than in those of the old world.

Ostriches in Harness.

There are several instances on record where in South Africa the white master or black servant has trained one or more ostriches to harness and has driven them regularly in a light trap or even ridden them like a horse.
It need hardly be said that ostriches are extremely swift when used in such a way and can cover a tremendous number of miles a day if not given too heavy a load. They have even been known to show real signs of enjoyment and pleasure at being in harness, and certainly they go to work with a will when thoroughly tamed in this manner.

India Sewing Man.

Sewing is a masculine occupation in India, and the derzie, or sewing man, is a past master in his art up to a certain point. He is possessed of little initiative, but is a wonderful imitator, besides being an exquisite needleman, and from riding habit to a pretty blouse or frock he can copy almost anything in reason, rising to the high water mark of triumphant achievement in such garments as require minute stitchery and clever broderie.

Badly Expressed.

The orator of the corner store was giving forth his views of a popular congressman whose death had been chronicled in the evening paper. "I tell you," he said gloomily, "he's roting to be a loss to all that have known him or known of him. He has died, as he has lived, unanimously re-gretted."

Enlightened.

"Auntie, do you always say expire?"
"Why do you ask, dear?"
"Oh, just because papa said you were one of those people who never say die."

A Certainty.

Caller—I am so sorry your mistress is out. Do you think she will be at home this evening? Maid—She'll have to be; it's my night out.

Injury revolts, while irony makes one reflect, and gaiety disarms.—Voltaire.

Women

Instead of Going to Paris

To consult Dr. Hugo, one of the world's greatest specialists in diseases of women, and paying $50 for a consultation and prescription

A Specialist Comes to You

In the form of Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets for Women, which is absolutely the same remedy prescribed by Dr. Hugo for the ills of women. You can now secure

At a Cost of 50c.

that for which thousands of women have gladly paid $50. Why not avail yourself of the prescription of this great and good physician.

Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets

For WOMEN

Make HEALTHY WOMEN

Isn't it foolish to take remedies cold for men and women alike, which cannot contain the special uterine and other female tonics you need?

Isn't it also foolish to take old-time remedies, perhaps good in their day, but not containing the latest discoveries in medicine?

Isn't it more foolish still to continue sick, tired and rundown, or to suffer from any menstruation or uterine disorder when the remedy of a specialist, which has cured the ills of thousands of women, is within your reach?

The risk is small and you need the medicine more than the 50c. which buys 72 tablets. 24 more than are usually given. The results are great. Buy a box to-day. At dealers or by mail from B. N. Robinson & Co., Catonsville, Md.

Extra value is given in auction bills placed at a box office.

Please send contributions to J. H.
Robertson, Chairman, or to Douglas Davis,

Children, College Street, Toronto.
