POISONED BY STRYCHNINE.

Verdict of the Jury Which Enquired Into Henry Perkins Death.
Canfield, Jan. 23.—We find that Henry Perkins died by the administration of strychnine poisoning, but by whom we cannot say.

Such was the verdict of Coroner Arrell's jury given at the inquest yesterday at Canfield, upon the death of Henry Perkins.

After an array of witnesses in quick order by Crown Attorney Murphy, the jury returned their verdict in 15 minutes.

Four doctors present, when asked, after the evidence was in, for the cause of death, all swore that death was due directly to strychnine poisoning, administered in large quantities.

Rumors of suicide are scouted from the fact that deceased had dictated a telegram to a friend a couple of hours before his death, to come at once. William Spencer of Welland arrived too late.

AN HOTEL FOR BABIES

A POPULAR INSTITUTION IN THE HEAT OF LONDON.

What Is Being Done to Help Mothers, Who Want a Temporary Home—The Patrons of the Establishment—The Suite of Rooms—Fit the Small Visitors—Unique and Charming Feature.

Situated in one of the healthiest parts of London, at 7 Pembroke Square, is a hotel exclusively for babies. It is known as the Norland Nurseries, and besides affording excellent accommodation for its tiny visitors, serves as a final test of ability for the nurses of the Norland Institute before taking up private work.

What Are Its Patrons.
The hotel is intended for little children from one month old up to seven or eight years of age, and is especially patronized by Indian officers and others on foreign service, widowers, widows, members of the theatrical profession, and other parents desiring a temporary, safe and happy home during their enforced absence.

The little visitor lately arrived all the way from America. The nurseries are beautifully arranged in a suite, each having a day and night nursery. The rooms are large, airy and cheerfully decorated, and each has a pretty name, such as Forest-Me-Not, Daisy, Speedwell, Peacock Bay. Each little resident has individual attention of an efficient nurse, while a fully-trained nurse of long experience superintends the health of all infants and children. All the rooms the furniture is of diminutive proportions—tables, chairs, washstands, jugs, etc., all exactly.

Fit the Small Visitors
for whose use and convenience they are designed. During the season the hotel presents a most engaging and novel sight. Tiny tots preparing to take a morning ride in their mail car or perambulator, others enjoying a nap, while the play rooms others are occupied with their toys.

The coach house is excellently arranged for the reception of visitors' mail carts and arriages, which can be at the door in readiness to convey "his Majesty" Kensington Gardens or elsewhere in a minutes' notice.

Parents of infants under three months of age pay two guineas a week. Older children pay from thirty shillings to two guineas a week, or from £50 to £80 a year. These charges are inclusive, but do not, of course, embrace a doctor's and dentist's fees, which are extra.

The very small infants are kept quite apart from the older children. Each wee mite has its own special nurse who studies its nascent needs and desires, finds out all the essential characteristics of its dietary, and, indeed, lives only to bring happiness and joy into its little life. Each suite is arranged for a model family of three children, and is made as nearly as possible like a nursery in its private home. Besides the suites already mentioned, the hotel contains four special rooms set apart for infants under four, five and six months of age; also for a child of exceptional delicacy, or for any small operation which may be necessary.

A Unique Feature.
An unique and charming feature of this babies' hotel is that its inmates are privileged as soon as the hot weather sets in to repair to the seaside, exchanging the more modified pleasures of the London squares and parks for the fresh air of the coast, and goat chaises, and wilding spade and mail, for the Norland Nursery has a beautiful situated cottage at Bognor, in Sussex, here, for the single extra charge of traveling expenses, its little visitors may repair. Consequently, during the summer months the babies' hotel is almost depleted of its small patrons, who revel in all the delights of delirium in long stretches of silver sand and bathing and paddling in a quiet sea that creeps up the beach so gently and softly at which only the conscious of its duties in safeguarding the tender lies entrusted to its mercies.

The Highest Inns.
There are half a dozen inns "well up in their," as country people say, in England, writes a correspondent in The Manchester Guardian. Tan Hill Inn is 127 feet above sea level. The Cat and Fiddle near Buxton comes next, 1,600 feet up; and its comparatively near neighbor, the Travelers' Rest at Lash, on the Leek and Buxton road is third, 1,535 feet. The next three inns of the series are further afield. There is the Isle of Skye Inn near Holmforth, 1,500 feet above sea level. The Travelers' Rest at the top of Rikstone Pass, between Windermere and Patterdale, 1,467 feet; and the Newby Head between Black Hawes and Ingleton, 1,420 feet. These high-placed inns are not the most remote from customers even in the winter time. The Cat and Fiddle, for example, gets customers on the bleak, days mid-winter. Very different is the experience of the Barrel Inn on the ridge between Eym and Hathor. There are some weeks in the winter months in which one has to wait the testimony of a former holder of the license not a shillingworth of beer is sold. But that is partly because the current of traffic in modern times has been diverted from the old Sir William road, on the hill-top, to the valleys. These figures take no account of Wales; the hotel at the top of Snowdon is, of course, the highest in the British Islands.

They'd Be Grateful.
"I have never taken the trouble to trace my ancestry."
"Well, if your ancestors could speak they would probably thank you for that."

All diseases peculiar to women are treated with success. This consultation by letter is absolutely free. Every letter is treated as strictly private and is held confidential. Answers are mailed promptly giving the best of medical advice. All answers are sent in plain envelopes bearing no trace of the name of the writer. Write without fear and without fee to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Brakeman Killed.
Toronto, Jan. 23.—Charles Wilson, C. P. R. brakeman on the transfer between Toronto and Port Credit, was killed Monday night in front of Port Credit depot while shunting his train. He lived on Queen street, this city, and leaves a widow and family. He had been railroaded for only two weeks.

For Fair Wage Officer.
Ottawa, Jan. 23.—The Trade and Labor Association of Ottawa will endorse the candidature of James Waters for the position of fair wage officer. He is a printer. The Deputy Minister of Labor has received a large number of applications.

HOW IT SPREADS.
The first package of Dr. Leonard's Hem-Roid, the infallible Pile Cure, that was put out went to a small town in Nebraska.

It cured a case of Piles that was considered hopeless.

The news spread, and although this was only two years ago, the demand prompted Dr. J. S. Leonard, of Lincoln, Neb., the discoverer, to prepare it for general use. Now it is being sent to all parts of the world. It will cure any case of Piles. There is a month's treatment in each box. Sold for $1.00 with absolute guarantee.

It is for sale by druggists, or by The Wilson-Fyle Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont.

Buttermilk a Beautifier.
Good buttermilk, the country cousin of the sophisticated, city dairy variety, is a sure charm to capture beauty. It should be welcomed both internally and externally, and its continued use will make beauty more than skin deep. A true milk peptone is the real buttermilk and is very easily digested. It is also a decided laxative, and for kidney trouble, diabetes and dyspepsia it has no rival in the drug store. Rheumatism flees before it and gall stones lose their sting if enough of it is taken. With one's "works" in good order the complexion naturally clears up, but even more swift is the return of rosy cheeks if the buttermilk is also applied externally.

THE ORIGIN OF GALL STONES.
They are simply dried bile, made up of crystalline constituents of that fluid. Very common is this disease among merchants, clerical men, shop-girls and those of sedentary habits. Prevention consists in maintaining correct action of the liver and bowels, which is best accomplished by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. No person using this medicine need fear gall-stones, nor will they ever be bilious. Good digestion, good appetite, a clear color will evidence the healthy giving properties of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which are the safest and best for general family use. Insist on having only Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. 25c. per box at all dealers.

Lots of wives never understand why their husbands should really enjoy any spending money.

HER 100TH BIRTHDAY

MRS. E. P. OSLER CELEBRATES HER CENTENARY IN TORONTO.

A Gathering of Six Sons and Daughters and Many Grandchildren and Great-Grandchildren at Her Home—Some of the Unique Features of a Most Unique Celebration—Portrait of the Mrs. Osler of To-Day.

Mrs. Ellen P. Osler, widow of the late Rev. Featherston Osler, on the 14th Dec., 1906, at her home, 82 Wellesley street, Toronto, celebrated the centenary of her birthday. It is giving to few people to live one hundred years, and to still fewer to see the completion of a century with unimpaired faculties and a fair degree of health and strength.

Mrs. Osler has lived in the reign of five Sovereigns, and the chief feature of the decorations of the day was a handsome five-story birthday cake emblematic of the reigns of George III., George IV., William IV., Victoria, and Edward VII. The cake was surrounded by one hundred brightly-burning wax candles, significant of the number of years Mrs. Osler has lived to be a blessing to others.

The celebration naturally took the form of a home-gathering of children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren, nephews, nieces, grand-nephews and grand-nieces. About thirty-five people were privileged to be present at this historical reunion, and they represented widely-distant parts of Canada, England and the United States.

There are six children living, three of whom have a conspicuous place among eminent Canadians—Mr. Justice Featherston Osler of the Court of Appeal for Ontario, Toronto; Mr. E. B. Osler, M.P., Toronto, and Dr. William Osler, rector of medicine in the University of Oxford, England. The other surviving children are: Mr. E. L. P. Osler, barrister, residing in the Northwest; Mr. Francis L. of Summerland, B.C., and Mrs. Gwyn, wife of Lieut.-Col. Gwyn of Dundas. A noted son was the late Mr. B. B. Osler, a leader at the Bar in Canada. The late Mrs. Williamson, president of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Church of England, diocese of Toronto, was a daughter of Mrs. Osler.

The birthday cake was in five layers, adorned with five score red and white candles, red icing traceries on the white ground, and bearing symbols of some of the chief inventions of the century. On the top story of the cake is: "E. P. Osler, Dec. 14, 1806, George III., Rex." Each of the other layers respectively bears the dates of the accession of the other four Sovereigns in whose reign Mrs. Osler has lived: "1820, George IV., Rex." "1830, William IV., Rex." "1837, Victoria, Regina." "1901, Edward VII., Rex." The progress of the race in the era in question is typified by designs of an old-fashioned coach in the first reign, and thereafter by developments from crude conditions to the era of the gasoline launch, the modern man-of-war, the bicycle and automobile.

Dainty and valuable souvenirs of the happy occasion were given by Mrs. Osler to each of her children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. These were continental silver spoons in three sizes, with a design by Mrs. Gwyn of Dundas of the Cornish Cross on the handle of each, and engraved with the Cornish motto: "One and All." Also with the ancient Cornish motto: "In God is My Trust." On the handle was lettered the date of Mrs. Osler's birth, Dec. 14, 1806, and 1906. The children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren were delighted with the tokens.

The moment Mrs. Osler gave her nephews, nieces, grand and great-grand nieces and nephews, and a few old friends was a small Colpolet plate, a modern reproduction of the celebrated Salopian-Colpolet, Indian Tree pattern, with her monogram and the dates in gold. Ninety-six of these plates were given by her. In their congratulations to Mrs. Osler they made it clear that they were not only proud that she had lived so long, but that she had lived so well.

One of the first acts of the honored centenarian in connection with the celebration of her one hundred birthday was the taking of communion at the hands of Rev. John Pearson, D.C.L., rector of Holy Trinity Church, an old friend of Mrs. Osler and her late husband. Congratulations from many points were received.

Mrs. Osler was born in Cornwall, England, in the reign of George III. In 1837, the year of Queen Victoria's accession to the throne, she came to Canada with her husband, Rev. Featherston L. Osler, to whom she had been married but a short time. They were accompanied by a brother of Rev. Mr. Osler, Rev. Henry Osler, the well-known York Mills clergyman, whose death occurred several years ago. They settled at Bond Head, Ont., where they experienced the privations and trials peculiar to pioneer life. A loghouse was their home. Mrs. Osler was possessed of the true missionary spirit, and she was a devoted helpmate to her husband in his mission work. In caring for dispossessed Indians, ministering to the welfare of incoming white settlers, giving comfort and help to missionaries and their families, and in self-denying work of various kinds Mrs. Osler worked side by side with Rev. Mr. Osler. One of her experiences in those early days was the making of bread in scooped-out gourds, as bowls were scarce. In 1857 Rev. Mr. Osler and his wife removed from Bond Head to the Dundas and Ancaster parish, where they remained for 19 years. Then Mr. Osler retired from the active ministry, and he and his wife came to Toronto to reside. Mr. Osler died in 1895.

Mrs. Osler is in possession of her faculties to a remarkable extent, and last August some of the visiting members of the British Medical Association who met her expressed surprise at her gift of repartee. She has been an active member of the Woman's Auxiliary, in which she is still deeply interested. While she remains indoors practically all the time, this is due more to the habit acquired during her husband's illness than to lack of strength. She is able to move from room to room at her home, and she continues to be interested not only in her numerous descendants, but in other matters as well.

AMBASSADOR DURAND.
Noted British Diplomat Who Will Soon Leave Washington—Man of Unusual Ability.

The discussion regarding the forthcoming retirement of the British Ambassador to the United States, Sir Henry Mortimer Durand, has directed attention to the unusual ability and versatility of the present representative of King Edward at Washington. The British Ambassador at Washington has one of the most difficult positions in the diplomatic service of any nation. In the first place, he is expected to keep up good relations between Great Britain and the United States. In the next place, he is supposed to be on the watch for any infringement upon the rights and privileges of the British possessions in North America and the West Indies by the people or Government of the Republic to which he is credited. Sometimes these duties are somewhat conflicting. Sometimes, indeed, the colonies in the new world put forth claims upon the Government of the United States which the Imperial Government in England does not feel disposed to indorse. The British Ambassador often finds his way beset with thorny problems on this account.

Sir Henry was born in India in 1850, comes of a fighting family and has been a fighter himself. His grandfather fought under Wellington and won laurels at Waterloo, and his father spent forty years in the midst of wars and perils in India. The Ambassador devoted many of the earlier years of his manhood to the interests of the empire in India. In 1893 he was sent on special mission to the Amir of Afghanistan and succeeded in negotiating an important treaty with him. In recognition of this service he was made minister to Persia and in 1900 was promoted to the Embassy at Madrid. His appointment as the British Ambassador at Washington was made three years ago. Last year he came near killing the Russian general, Kuropatkin. Sir Henry is fond of the cavalry sport known as tent pegging, where the rider tries to transfix a tent peg with his lance. He was testing his skill in Persia, where Kuropatkin had been sent as envoy to the Shah when the Russian general came suddenly in line with the flying lance and narrowly escaped being transfixed.

A Village of Girls.
The rural village of Toppefield, in North Essex, has become prominent on account of a remarkable phenomenon in the births that are recorded there.

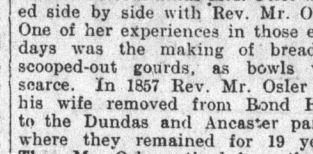

During the last decade the great preponderance of girls born in the parish over boys has been noticed, and at the present moment the scholars attending the village school comprise ninety-three girls, but only thirteen boys. In consequence of this, the county education authority is contemplating the substitution of a schoolmistress for the present schoolmaster.

But among those belonging to the place, the present state of affairs has aroused considerable concern, and the question is being asked where the farm laborers of the future are to come from if matters do not change.

Women's Idea of Thin.
"Here's a clever thing in oil," said she at the art exhibition. "It's called 'When the Cat's Away,' but I don't see the artist's name. I wonder who painted it."

"Evidently a woman," replied her sport. "See what a gorgeous expression she has given the mice."
