A disastrous fire one morning in 1878 laid in ruins the old College building that had stood for many years a monument alike of the educational zeal and liberality of the Baptist denomination. Those who had labored long and faithfully there turned from the ruins with sorrowing hearts, but with the firm resolve that another edifice, equal in all respects to the old one, should arise in its stead. The picture we present today, procedure to the college, and for the College, Messrs. Rhodes, Curry & Co. also erected a handsome building for the Ladies. Acadian for the college, Messrs. The Baptist denomination com-menced the work of higher education fifty-one years ago. The early ef-forts and struggles of the leaders and pioneers in the cause of education, who founded this and kindred and form one of the nost interest ing chapters of our social progress. Those were days without railways, or telegraphs or steamboats, or other modern contrivances we no *adays find so necessary. These Provinces were then a wilderness, with sparsely populated settlements widely separated from each other. and communication was no easy affair. The resources of the people were small and wealth did not exist;

the means of the richest were but slender. To design a system of higher ed cation under circumstanerse required undaunt do carry it out in the erec-ne old Horron Academy was efculean task. The work once commenced did not flag. In 1838 Queens, afterwards Acadia College came into existence. Those were days of ignorance and intolerance, ittle understood in these days of liberty of opinion and freedom of ponscience—so fast do the times move on. The Established Church was then dominant in politics and jealously fought against any in-fringements of what she neld to be only after hard fighting.

Although often in great straits Acadia has fought its way nobly and successfully, and has contributed but exerted a wholesome and pro-

The tenders for the College were opened on 3th Jone, 1878, and the work awarded to Messers. Rhodes, Curry & Co., of Amherst, whose large wood-working factory gave them advantages over other parties tendering. The sum was $21,000. This enterprising firm pushed the work along so well that in February a portion of the building was occupied, and on 4th June following the anniversary exercises were held in them. The huilding was handed over to the Governors before the pontract time had expired. The work was superinteaded by Mr. N. A. Rhodes, and inspected by Mr. Wm. Rounsefel. The building committee were Rev. Dr. Sawyer, and Messrs. Bigelow and Johnston. DR. H. R. STEVENS:—
Dear Sir.—My daughter after having a severe attack of Whooping Cough, was left in a feeble state of h-alth. Being advised by a friend she tried the VEGETINE, and after using a few bottles was fully restored to hea'th.

I have been a great sufferer from rheumatism. I have taken several bottles of the VEGETINE for this complaint, and am happy to say it has entirely cured me. I have recommended the VEGETINE to others with the same good results, it is a great cleaner and purifier of the blood; it is pleasant to take and I can cheeffully recommend it.
