

Not Utterly Bad.

"Yes," said the old salt, concluding his yarn, "we drifted about for more'n a month, but our provisions gin out. It was Bill eat me or I eat him. So I eat Bill, an' just as I'd finished the last of him I was reaked."

"I would commit suicide before doing that," said a listener.

"Maybe, you would. I ain't a very religious man, but shiver my whole lumber yard if old Jack's wicked enough for that!"—New York Sun.

I never saw anything in the way of wood as large as the trees in the Yosemite," said Philp. "No," snapped Mrs. Philp, "you never saw anything in the way of wood, anyway."

It was her stress on the "any" that made Philp look uncomfortable.

NOTICE.

To David Simpson and Mary, his wife, and to all others to whom it may or shall concern.

WHEREAS David Simpson and Mary, his wife, in order to secure to John T. Smith, his executor, administrators and assigns, the payment by them of the sum of seven hundred dollars and interest, did make and execute to him, the said John T. Smith, his executor, administrators and assigns, their certain Indenture of Mortgage bearing date the fourth day of November, A. D. 1871, and of the County of Westmorland, in and for the County of Westmorland, by the No. 30,505, Folio 19, Libro F. 3, of the Records of the County of Westmorland, and did thereunto convey by the said John T. Smith, his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns, certain Lands and Premises in said Indenture of Mortgage mentioned and described as thereby bargained and sold, subject, however, to a certain proviso in said Indenture of Mortgage contained for the payment of the said sum and interest; and

Whereas the said John T. Smith did afterwards assign, transfer and set over to David Purinton, late of Sackville, deceased, his executor, administrators and assigns, the said Indenture of Mortgage, the debts, monies, bonds and interest thereby secured, and the Lands and Premises therein conveyed by Deed of Assignment bearing date the 21st day of March, A. D. 1876, and duly recorded in the Registry Office in and for the County of Westmorland, by the No. 35, 108, Folio 345, Libro 23, of the Records of Deeds, etc., in and for said County of Westmorland; and

Whereas the said David Purinton has, since said assignment to him as aforesaid, become deceased, having first duly made and published his last Will and Testament, and thereby appointed the undersigned Eliza B. Knapp and Arthur W. D. Knapp, and David P. Knapp, sons deceased, the executors thereof.

Notice is hereby given that under and by virtue of a Power of Sale contained in the said Indenture of Mortgage, and in order to satisfy the principal money and interest due on said Indenture of Mortgage, default having been made in the payment of the same, contrary to the proviso therein contained, for the payment thereof, there will be sold by Public Auction on Monday, the 6th day of February, A. D. 1888,

At the hour of four o'clock in the afternoon, at and upon the Lands and Premises mentioned and described in the said Indenture of Mortgage, to wit: the following LANDS and PREMISES, viz: A certain tract or parcel of Land situate, lying and being in the Parish of Sackville, in the County of Westmorland, and bounded as follows, viz: North-easterly by Gaspeaux River, north-westerly by land formerly in possession of John Carey, Esq., and now conveyed by David Johnston, south-westerly by land formerly owned by the late Thomas Gooden, and south-easterly by land owned by Edward Ogden, and containing eighty-eight acres, more or less, together with the Buildings thereon and the easements and privileges thereto appertaining.

Dated this twenty-first day of December, A. D. 1887.

When Piping Winds Do Blow.

When piping winds do blow,
And whistle loud and shrill,
And dancing feet o' the snow
Glide down the long white hill—
Tis then the world is gay; is gay
With brave bright skies aglow
For the long, long play of the winter day.
When piping winds do blow!

"Tis then the world is gay,
With naught to preach of gloom;
N'er e'er a frow' o' the May
To push into bad and bloom;
With never a blade of grass, of grass
To coax till its lances show—
But the long, long play of the winter day,
When piping winds do blow!

Never her scouts need run,
And to the skies complain
Of scorching heat o' the sun,
Or drenching blight of the rain;
N'er an apple to pluck to pluck,
Or an ear of corn to pluck,
But the long, long play of the winter day,
When piping winds do blow!

No bird in hidden nest
To woo to flight and song,
Or rock to sleep o' the breast
Of tall pine green and strong;
No music to teach the wave, the wave
As it breaks on the sand—
But the long, long play of the winter day,
When piping winds do blow!

She hath no care to heed
If Autumn falls to reap
The fruitful wealth o' the seed,
And golden fleece of the sheep;
Whether the stock be high, be high,
Or when the shears are in the fair,
When piping winds do blow!

Al! when the winds do blow,
And whistle loud and shrill,
And dancing feet o' the snow
Glide down the long white hill—
Tis then the world is gay; is gay
With brave bright skies aglow
For the long, long play of the winter day,
When piping winds do blow!

But the long, long play of the winter day,
When piping winds do blow!

Why no Scotchmen go to Heaven.

Long years ago, in time so remote that history does not fix the epoch, a dreadful war was waged by the King of Scotland. Scottish valor prevailed, and the King of Scotland, elevated by success, sent for his prime minister, Lord Alexander.

"Weel, Sandy," said he, "is there n'er a King we can conquer nee?"

"An' it pleases your majesty, I ken o' a King that your Majesty canna vanquish."

"Who is he, Sandy?"

"Lord Alexander, reverently looking up, said, 'The King o' heaven.'"

"The King o' whaur, Sandy?"

"The King o' heaven."

The Scottish King did not understand, but was unwilling to exhibit any ignorance.

"Just gang your ways, Sandy, and tell the King o' heaven to gie you his dominions or I'll come myself and ding him out o' them; and, mind, Sandy, ye dinna come back to us untl' ye hae done our bid."

Lord Alexander retired much perplexed, but met a priest, and, reassured, returned and presented him.

"Weel, Sandy, said the King, 'hae ye seen the King o' heaven and what he has to oot bidden?'"

"An' it pleases your Majesty, I have seen o' his accredited ministers."

"Well, an' what says he?"

"He says your Majesty may o'en hae his kingdom for the asking o' it."

"Was he an evil?" said the king, warming to magnanimity. "Just gang your ways back, and tell the King o' heaven that for his civility the dail Scotchman shall set foot in his kingdom."

Where Titles Were Cheap.

It was about an old Scotch minister who was very poor and very pious. He lived in the old days of Scotland, when, on the payment of a small sum of money, the college of St. Andrews would give a man the degree of LL. D. Now the old dominie had a servant, a faithful man who had taken care of his bed and his board, his garden and his table for many a year. One day he called upon Jamie to come with him for a tramp to St. Andrews. And Jamie dutifully followed his master to the college and home again, having been a witness to the many negotiations of the two days in visiting the seat of the parish.

"Very well, sir," said Jamie, "may I make bold to ask you a favor, sir?"

"Yes, sir," said the dominie, benignly.

"Weel, sir," said Jamie, "if anybody comes to ask for me, sir, will you kindly say that the doctor is weedin' the garden or the doctor is scrubbin' the stable or makin' the kitchen fire? I just thought, sir, at the degree was so cheap at St. Andrews, I'd like to say on my self, 'so, sir.'"

Bob Would Ask Questions.

"Pa," said Robby, who had been allowed to sit up a little while after dinner with the distinct understanding that he was to ask no foolish questions, "can God do everything?"

"Can he make a two-foot rule with only one end to it?"

"One more question like that," said the old man, "and you will be packed off to bed."

Robby nodded sleepily for ten minutes and then asked the question.

"Pa, can a camel go seven days without water?"

"Yes."

"Well, how many days could he go if he had water?"

The next thing Robby knew he was in bed.

A little boy being reproved on Sunday morning for having a dirty face, retorted: "Well, I wored dirt face to Sunday 'cool, anyhow."

A German professor was remarkably absent-minded. Whenever he was very busy engaged in his studio solving some abstruse problem his wife was in the habit of bringing him his dinner. His favorite dish was pancake and molasses. One day his wife brought him a large pancake and a jug of molasses, and went down into the kitchen. Pretty soon she heard the professor ring the bell.

"Why, is it, Gretchen, that you bring me nothing to eat except molasses? Why have you brought me no pancake?" asked the absent-minded professor.

"Ach," exclaimed the wife, "you have tucked the pancake around your neck, thinking it was a napkin."
