GENERAL INTELLIGENCE. CHINA.

PROGRESS OF THE REBELLION .- RE-CAPTURE OF AMOY, AND EXECUTION OF 1000 OF THE BEBELS.

Hong Kong, Nov. 27.-The local news of this place is of the usual dull character, of this place is of the usual dull character, and is of trifling interest, but the intelligence which the present mail conveys to Europe is important in relation to the progress of the rebellion, which is fast breaking up the Chines Empire. The health of Hong Kong is somewhat unfavourable, owing to the late hot sultry weather, and has been marked by increase to the sick list of the garrison. Civilians, too, have felt the effects of the high tempe-rature. Of the garrison no less than 113 are in hospital, and of this number 75 be-long to the 50th Regiment. Fever, bowel, and chest complaints have been and are still prevalent, and four deaths have taken place in the garrison since the middle of the shin prevalent, and not been been middle of the month. About seventy invalids will shortly proceed home, and the whole of the Ceylon Rifle Regiment is in orders to return to Ceylon, leaving the military strength of the garrison very low. At Canton, and in its immediate vicinity, all was quite. The number of executions for political offences affords clear evidence that the Imperial authorities are anxious to strike terror into the minds of all classes of strike terror into the minds of all classes of the population. From Shanghai advices have been re-ceived to the 19th instant. The belliger-ents keep up a desultory warfare with little or no effect, and the struggle is aided and prolonged by some injudicious foreigners, who, for the profit attaching to the sale, do not heritet to formit the instancial and not hesitate to furnish the imperialists and the insurgents with arms and ammunition. But for the supplies so furnished it is pro-bable that both parties would quietly endeayour each to tire out and exhaust the patience of the other, instead of which they are tempted to struggle for mastery without the probability of accomplishing anything. It would also appear that the Imperialists, having heard that some guns were about to be removed from a foreign hong to the head-quarters of the rebels, endeavoured to prequarters of the rebels, endeavoured to pre-vent the coolies carrying the guns away; and it would also seem that these imperial>-ists had provided materials which induced the foreign community to believe that they designed to burn down their houses. The designed to burn down their houses. The consequence was a general turn out of all the foreign residents, aided by armed par-ties from the ships-of-war. With Mr. Wade, the British Vice-Counsel, at their head, the foreign residents drove the Imperialists from their settement, although not without archaesing abetic in which armed in a from their setlement, although not without exchanging shots, in which some six or seven of the Imperialists were wounded. On the following day Messrs. Wade and Meadows were sent by the British Consul with a despatch to Keih, the judge, to de-mand an explanation; that functionary stat-ed that the imperial soldiers were under the general, and that strict orders had been given them not to enter the British limit. given them not to enter the British limits. On the 18th November Keih informed the British consul that on their return to camp British consul that on their return to camp the imperialists had reported that they were driven back by rebels dressed up in foreign clothes. The British consul has issued a notification relative to the attack, in which he deplores the loss of life that ensued, and congratulates the foreign community that take the city, but failed, after a most despe-rate attempt by sea and land. Early on the morning of the 9th No-vember, the ex-Taoutae despatched spies through the city to report that he proposed to quit for Chin-Keang-Foo, and when his fleet got under weigh, the report was deemed well founded. The wily mandarin, after a little manœuvring, suddenly sailed right for the city, and opened a brisk fire upon the insurgents' batteries, which could not be returned from the latter without firing into insurgents' batteries, which could not be returned from the latter without firing into the neutral fleet. Shortly after the insur-gents commenced a cannonade, doing much damage to the Taoutae's fleet. The second gents commenced a cannonade, doing much damage to the Taoutae's fleet. The second division attacked the square-rigged vessels Glenlyon and Snipe, belonging to the insur-gents, and obtained possession of them, not by boarding, but by throwing on board a shower of stink pots; the smoke and flames were such that the crew were compelled to jump overboard, and endeavoured by swim-ming to reach the shore; the boats of the Taoutae attacked the poor wretches in the water, and speared every one that appeared above water. The imperialists, assisted by several foreigners in the Taoutae's fleet, made repeated attempts to capture the forts, but were bravely repulsed. After this, the imperialists' boats proceeded along the shore and set fire to one of the suburbs, which destroyed about 1,500 houses and an immense amount of property belonging to the rich merchants and shopkeepere in the
