Clark was instructed to write this letter by the legislative committee. The whole thing resolved itself into the question of whether the legislative committee had exceeded its powers in instructing the secretary to communicate with the other labor councils of Alberta before it had passed through the Edmonton council, and whether the secretary had exceeded his powers in writing such a letter.

Contended Should Report. R. J. Knight and a number of other delegates claimed that the committee and the secretary had wrongfully arregated authority to themselves in the matter. They contended that the committee should have reported to the council and embodied in their report the recommendations which they believed necessary.

While admitting that such was the constitutional mode of procedure the secretary and members of the committee present stated that owing to lack of time and the absolute necessity of hurrying the matter through so that the bill could be presented at the opening of the legislature it had been found necessary to deal with it in this manner. The majority of the members pre sent appeared to be heartily in accord with the action of the committee and secretary, believing that they had act ed in good faith in the matter. However the house was fairly evenly di vided and when R J. Knight introduced a motion to censure the secretary and members of the legislative committee and calling for their resignations, some nasty personalities were indulged in. This motion was finally withdrawn by its mover and one substituted, calling merely for a vote of censure. This was voted down in the stormy moments preceding the breaking up of the meeting. The exact text of Mr. Knight's motion was as follows: "That this council pass a vote of censure upon secretary T. H.
