THE HOLLOWAY STUDIO, LIMITED,'PHONE 768.*Corner Bates' Hill and Henry Street, St. John's Nfld.*War News.*Messages Received Previous to 9 a.m.*GERMAN CASUALTIES.

PARIS, April 24. Heavy losses already have been inflicted upon the Germans in the fighting about Ypres. Despatches from points south of the battlefield state that fighting continues over a front of about eleven miles, but that the German attacks seem to be weakening under the fire of the artillery massed against them, and that they are being forced back. Messages from St. Omar estimate the German casualties at more than 9,000 in the attacks that resulted in their forcing a passage of the Ypres canal. The hamlet of Poelcapelle, which was occupied by advance guards of the Germans in their first plunge forward, has been recaptured by British troops. The Germans finally were driven out early this morning, after they had fought hand to hand with the British soldiers for five hours.

FRENCH WAR OFFICE REPORT.

PARIS, April 25. The War Office statement this afternoon follows: In Belgium our counter-attacks continued successfully in close co-operation with our Allies. The Germans, who attacked us with two army corps, continued to employ asphyxiating gases. During the day some of their projectiles which did not explode, were found to contain a large quantity of these gases. We have made sensible progress towards the north, on the right bank of the Yser canal. The British troops, notwithstanding the violent attacks of the Germans, of which we spoke last night, have, on our right, maintained all their positions; and in Argonne we took a German trench, captured 2 machine guns, and made some prisoners. The action was a local one, although it was of a most violent character.

On the heights on Memie, at Colonne trench, the Germans made an attack with an entire division on a front of one kilometre, about two-thirds of a mile. At first they compelled our first line to give way, but we quickly regained this position by a counter-attack.

FAVORABLE TO ALLIES.

PARIS, April 24 (Official). To the north of Ypres the battle continues under conditions favorable to the troops of the Allies. The Germans have attacked at several points along the British front from various directions in the north, northeast and southwest, but they were not able to gain ground. On our side we have progressed on the right bank of the canal, and delivered three vigorous counter-attacks. On the rest of the front there is nothing to report.

FRANCO-BELGIAN TROOPS.

LONDON, April 24. Official statement by the Belgian Legation says: Lizene (Belgium), west of Ypres canal, which was taken by the enemy on Friday night, has been re-taken to-day by the Franco-Belgian troops. Our artillery has repelled successfully to the fire directed at the whole length of our front by the German batteries. Notwithstanding very strong wind, our aviators have been able to make useful reconnaissance.

PAYING THE PRICE.

OTTAWA, April 25. Over 80 officers of the First Canadian Expeditionary Force, are now in the list of killed and wounded, as a result of the titanic struggle at Langemarck, and there are fears that the number may be augmented. So far the list of losses among the men has not been called, and it is not expected for several days.

"ONLY THEIR DUTY."

OTTAWA, April 24. "They would never leave these guns in the hands of the Germans," said Major Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia, regarding the Canadian victory, when shown the British War Office statement. "They have done what was expected of them, what we all knew they would do, and that was their duty. Yes, this despatch makes us prouder than ever of them. I am sorry that the despatch says there were many casualties, but we

"BRAVO CANADIANS!"

LONDON, April 24. Canada loomed up prominently on the bulletin boards on Saturday evening, in the newspapers of London. "Canadians Saved the Situation," "Well Done, Canadians," and "Bravo Canada," these were some of the headlines which appeared. Reference in this evening's statement from the War Office, in the Evening News, says: The War Office give us, in this message, the kind of prompt news we want. To-day's glorious bulletin will live always in the military chronicles of the Empire. The despatch reveals that the left of our line which was unavoidably left uncovered by the French retirement, was held by the Canadians, who were the first in the battle line to give way, but the Germans did not capture the guns. They fell into them when the Canadians were swept back. Later, and with what impetuosity and firm resolution we are left to imagine, the Canadians made a counter-attack, retook four guns they had left behind, and also made German prisoners. Unhappily their casualties were very heavy, but all around the Empire will re-echo the praise of the War Office for their conduct.

"CANADA PROUD OF HER SONS," SAYS BORDEN.

OTTAWA, April 24. News of the glorious and successful charge of the Canadians in the great battle north of Ypres, reached the Government on Saturday, and was communicated to Sir Robert Borden at his residence, where he is still confined by illness. The Premier at once cabled congratulations to General Alderson, commanding the Canadian Division, in the following terms: "Report of the splendid gallantry and efficiency of the division under your command, has thrilled all Canadians with pride. Warmest congratulations."

Premier Borden, during the afternoon, received the following cable from Earl Grey, formerly Governor-General of Canada: "Reports of the gallant conduct of Canadians have made me more proud, happy, and delighted than I can tell. Ten thousand congratulations. Long live Canada." Sir Robert answered this message with the following: "Deeply appreciate your message Canada very proud that her sons have upheld so worthily the splendid traditions of our great pioneer race."

Another congratulatory cablegram reached the Minister of Militia from Colonel Lord Brock, who inspected the last annual training camp at Petawawa, and is now with General Sir John French as Staff Officer. Lord Brock telegraphed:

"Heartiest congratulations on the magnificent behaviour of Canadian troops."

TRY TO BREAK ALLIES' LINE.

LONDON, April 24. The German rush in Flanders and Woevre, where they claim to have had considerable successes, are believed to be the forerunners of another big effort to break through the Allies' lines in the west. For many days Belgium has been sealed from the observation of neutrals, while reinforcements from Germany are being moved south to take part in the new offensive, which they hope is to carry them to Calais and possibly to break the resistance of the Allies. The attack in Flanders, originally levelled against the French, has been transferred to the British lines held by the Canadians on the immediate right of the French, where for two days the men from the Dominion have been engaged in deadly contest with the Germans. The latter state in their official report, that they have made further progress toward Ypres, and that the British counter-attacks have been repulsed. The French account, on the other hand, declares that the Allies' counter-attacks continue with success, that the British hold all their positions, and repeats the charge that the Germans are using bombs containing asphyxiating gases. The German attacks in Woevre, or in the Meuse hills, directed against French positions southwest of Combrès, according to the Berlin statement, resulted in the French suffering heavy defeat. Paris, however, says that in the counter-attacks the Germans were completely driven out by the French first line, which they had pushed back.

These offensive movements by the Germans have been made possible by the state of the ground, on the Eastern front, where operations have been virtually impossible until spring floods have subsided. Taking advantage of these conditions, the German General Staff have transferred large numbers of troops to the West, in order to make another big effort, which shows they are not content to rely on a passive policy.

It is believed that half a million new German troops have reached Flanders, and that more guns and material are to be used than were provided for the original attempts to destroy the Allied Armies in the west, attempts which met with failure both in August and October.

In the meantime the Eastern front is enjoying a period of comparative calm, except in the mid-Carpathians, where the Russians continue to attack the Austrians at Uzok Pass, and to the eastward, where the Austrians and Germans are trying to crush the Russian flank. Both sides report success.

The operations in the Dardanelles are apparently still confined to the bombardment of the Turkish entrenchments, while preparations are being made for the landing of the Allied forces, part of which is already on Turkish territory at Enos and other points.

Two Ribs Broken and Lung Punctured—Out of Danger Now.

During the latter part of March Daniel Caines, son of Sergeant Levi Caines, of the East End Fire Station, met with a serious accident at Port Nelson where he has been engaged for the past twelve months working for the Hudson Bay Company. He, along with a score of other workmen, was helping to pull ashore over the ice a scow. A wire cable which was made fast from the vessel to the shore and which was operated by a donkey winch, aided in the work. There was a tremendous strain on the cable and suddenly it parted, one end of it striking Caines in the stomach. He was picked up unconscious and taken to Hospital. The father of the injured man wired to the Manager of the Company at Ottawa, Ont., asking for particulars of the accident and has received this reply: "Your wire 19th. Daniel Caines had two ribs broken and lung punctured; also received minor abdominal injuries. At present in Hospital, but doctor considers out of danger; out of bed for past few days." (Sgd.) W. A. Broadway Star—Six Part Feature—A Fine Production.

To Maurice Costello surrounded by a splendid cast the Vitagraph Company has entrusted a powerful story. It is adapted by Eugen Mullin from the novel by Archibald Claverling Gunter, the action runs swiftly, clearly and above all cumulatively, dramatic situations abound but there are moments of pathos and also of merriment.

Maurice Costello in the title role typifies the easy-going New Yorker in search of amusement abroad, as ready to start a fight on his own account when to him it seems necessary, as he is to do his best to prevent others from fighting when it seems unnecessary. This great production will be shown twice each night at the Casino, each performance lasting one hour and a half; if possible see the play from the beginning.

Died at Hospital.

The death occurred at the General Hospital early yesterday morning of Mr. William Volsey, after a brief illness. Deceased was 51 years of age and was a truckman and farmer nearly his life time. On Thursday night last he was suddenly stricken with violent pains. A physician, who was summoned, pronounced the sufferer to have acute appendicitis and ordered that he be sent to Hospital where he was brought in the ambulance next morning and operated on. The ailment, however, had gained such inroads that a cure was impossible and the end came yesterday. The remains were enclosed by Undertaker Carnell and brought to the residence of Mr. William Symonds, nephew of deceased, from whence the funeral will take place. Deceased is survived by a wife and 3 children, 2 brothers—Thomas and James Volsey, cabmen—and 2 sisters to whom we extend sympathy in their bereavement.
