

The Price of Fish Goes Up As Coaker Goes Down.

For all the years of Newfoundland's fishing history there is no man who has been so widely and acrimoniously discussed as William F. Coaker for twelve years President of the F.F.I. On the one hand there is no person who is more directly responsible for the ruin of our whole fishing industry and the bringing of the selling price per bushel down to a figure upon which the fishermen cannot make a living by his selfishness and endeavor, and on the other hand he is the man who has made the fishermen of Newfoundland and particularly those of the north, that his whole life's work and ambition was to build up and protect the fishing industry. He loudly claims that from the first time he handled fish, his greatest aim was to see that the staple product of our shores was kept at a level that would make it profitable to the fishermen, and that in a manner that would make the fishermen's livelihood depend upon him. North to South, to East, to West, this self-discovered Messiah has been for fish he stood, its price was what he would make it. Oh, weak-minded, inconsistent man, poor, childish, trusting men of Newfoundland! How greatly the map has fallen down on his job? How has he demonstrated his bungling incapacity. How sorrowfully the others have realized their mistake! How terribly they have suffered the fruits of misplaced confidence. Every town, village and hamlet in Newfoundland has felt the devastating hand of W. F. Coaker since he has assumed his unbridled rule from 1919. Poverty, desolation and hunger have followed in his trail. And at last in the last stages of our existence the people of the whole island, of our cities, of our townships and our settlements have awakened to the urgent necessity of immediately overthrowing this plague-bringing man, and for establishing an organization of public improvement and national salvation. Just so surely as the leading men in our community have realized the duty that the country has expected of them, so also have our people, every true hearted man that our country can boast of, united themselves with determination and enthusiasm to consolidate a people's Government that will recall us from the racial decay that is fast wiping out our manhood. Just so surely as W. F. Coaker brought ruin to our fishermen by smashing our fish prices and lowering them to starvation figures, so also now will the party that is rising over the heads of the Squires-Coaker administration once more stimulate our fishing industries, reclaim our markets, and cause our selling prices to soar high again at the advantageous figures of 1919. Verily there is truth and prophecy in the saying "Fish will go up as fast as Coaker goes down."

The Flipper Supper, which was excellently prepared by the lady friends of the club, was enjoyed by all, and the members were congratulated on their hearty art. After the elaborate supper had been done full justice to, the following toast list was gone through: THE KING—Prop. The Chairman; 2nd National Anthem. "NEWFOUNDLAND"—Prop. Mr. R. A. Morine; 2nd Sir R. A. Morine, Prime Minister. "OUR CITY"—Prop. A. B. Morine, K.C.; 2nd Mayor T. Cook. "LLEWELLYN CLUB"—Prop. W. J. Higgins, K.C.; 2nd Rev. G. O. Lightburn. "OUR GUESTS"—Prop. H. Y. Mott; 2nd Canon Smart. "OUR LADIES"—Prop. Sir M. G. Hunt; 2nd Reg. Dowden. "THE PRESS"—Prop. F. R. Clarke; 2nd Representatives. "THE CHAIRMAN"—Prop. Sir R. Squires; 2nd C. E. Hunt. The speeches were of a very high order, being both humorous and interesting. The speakers expressed their sorrow in the unavoidable absence of the Rector, Rev. E. C. Earp, who had been seriously ill. Rev. G. O. Lightburn in his address made particular mention of the Rev. Earp and that he had been asked to convey the members and guests his regrets for being unable to be present. The annual flipper supper at Llewellyn Club is a most popular and enjoyable affair.

Household Notes.
Venetian eggs are a savory dish. To a can of tomato soup, heated to the boiling point, add a pound grated cheese, and a pinch soda. Stir until cheese is melted and add to it a cup of milk beaten into an egg. Stir rapidly, season and serve on saltines.
To make cheese custard, beat three eggs slightly and add three-fourths cup milk; season with one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, few grains of cayenne, few drops onion juice and three tablespoons grated cheese.
To clean small rugs place right side down on dry grass or snow, beat with a flat carpet sweeper, sweep, turn over and sweep on right side. The rugs will last longer if they are cleaned in this way instead of hanging them on the line or shaking them by the corners.
To prepare prunes for stewing first cover them with tepid water, allowing them to remain in water five minutes. Pour off water and wash through several waters. Cover with cold water and let stand for five minutes. Let simmer gently in same water a half an hour.

Bodies Taken Home.

TUG JOHN GREEN SAILED THIS MORNING.

The tug John Green left Cashes wharf this morning, conveying the body of the late Mrs. Blaney to Ferryland for interment, who died in the city after a short illness. On board also was the remains of the late Jeremiah Conway, who died at St. Clare's Hospital after being taken from the S.S. Eagle on her arrival from the sealfishery. When the ship arrived Sunday evening Sir Michael Cashes had the tug John Green sent alongside and poor Conway, who was very weak, was taken to St. Clare's Hospital. There everything possible was done for him but he gradually succumbed to the Great Master. Deceased belonged to Caplin Bay, but as the roads were blocked with snow Sir Michael with his characteristic goodness of heart, who is ever on hand watching the interests of his old loyal district, came to the rescue and comforted the relatives of the deceased by having both bodies sent forward for burial in Ferryland and Caplin Bay. Speaking to a Ferryland man to-day he said in reference to this matter: "When it comes to looking after his constituents Cashes is always on the job."
