LONDON - CANADA.JOHN CAMERON, President and Mng. Dir.

London, Thursday, Sept. 3, 1896

The Star, an evening paper started in Montreal in June last, has ceased publication, after its promoters had lost much money.Winnipeg aldermen have begun a movement in favor of a salaried executive to conduct the civic government.
If the best men would serve they could fairly be compensated.Principal Grant, of Queen's University, holds that the Governor-General took an unassailable position in his action regarding the late Government at Ottawa. Dr. Grant is a careful observer. His views on this subject will be accepted by all moderate men.Hamilton will try to start a new musical society, to take the place of the late Philharmonic. There is plenty of musical talent in Hamilton to sus-tain a prosperous organization of this kind. What is needed there, as in almost every city, is the hearty cooperation of all musicians.A method of nickeling wood has been devised by the German chemist Langbein, the wood being covered by a thin coating of metal by either a dry or wet process. As Canada is about the only country in which nickel is now found, this new discovery should add to the ever-increasing demand for this metal.In a recent Government return, it is shown that in Belgium many thousands of workpeople are now compelled to work on Sunday. Canadian workingmen should note this fact, and strenuously resist any attempt to let the thin edge of the wedge of Sunday labor be introduced. If a man works on six days of the week, he toils long enough without breaking the Sabbath day.In a volume of the Edinburgh Magazine for 1786 there is a review of Burns' poems, in which it is stated that the poet "has not the doric simplicity of Ramsay nor the brilliant imagination of Ferguson." The centenary of the plowman bard has recently been celebrated as the centenary of no other poet has been, and every year the anniversary of his birth is observed by a world-wide and ever-increasing number of admirers. But who hears anything about Ramsay or Ferguson?Hon. Mr. Tarte and Mr. D. C. Fraser, M.P., have accepted invitations to go to Kingston for Labor Day and deliver addresses. These statesmen have the faculty of always saying something interesting. Mr. Fraser would be welcome if he could be prevailed upon to speak again in London. He has spoken here, but not to the general public, and he has many friends in this neighborhood. Mr. Tarte, too, would get a warm welcome in London. He is a stranger here, but he spoke in Ingeroll last fall.If the Paris exposition of 1900 is not a success it will not be for the lack of novelties. Plans for a revolving skyscraper 400 feet high and built of steel have been submitted to the exhibition commission. The 24 stories are to be let for restaurants, concert halls, theaters and so forth. The building will turn slowly on its axis like a merry-go-round, and will enable visitors to survey the whole country around Paris while they eat their dinners. It is not said that the promoter is a Yankee, but it looks very like a scheme that would be devised to gratify the restless, sight-seeing, ever-on-the-move American.Prompt Appointments That stalwart Conservative journal, the Montreal Gazette, thus applies a moral:"In reference to the long-standing vacancies the filling of which the Governor-General declined to sanction during the closing days of the late Ministry, it cannot be said that any loss of party advantage that may result is undeserved by the Conservatives. When a vacancy occurs in the public service it should be filled at once. It is neither good business nor good politics to keep it open for months or years, and there is no sympathy for the party that loses by pursuing such tactics."There are more sensible conclusions than those which have been ordinarily arrived at by the newspapers supporting the late Tupper Administration.
Governments do themselves harm and cause no end of local demoralization among their party friends by keeping offices unfilled for any length of time.
The best man available should be selected and the vacant office filled with the utmost promptitude. Better displease one or two applicants for office at the start than keep a position vacant for months and years, and needlessly raising up a host of office-seekers who never can have their desires gratified.Very Hoggish for a Defeated Man.The Brantford Courier speaks of the late Tupper Government as a responsible Ministry. To whom was it responsible? Certainly not to the people of Canada, for it was formed after the last Parliament had ceased to exist. Even before the friction between the Governor-General and Sir Charles Tupper occurred, the Conservative leader had acknowledged to his Excellency that he knew his stop-gap Government no longer represented the people, and that he was preparing to resign in favor of those who were proved, by the election returns, to have public confidence. A Government so formed, and so clearly defeated, could only be regarded as irresponsible and incapable of transacting any business not urgently required for the well-being of Canada. The Governor-General confirmed 436 appointments laid before him by the defeated Premier after this position of affairs was made clearly evident, because they could be regarded as fairly urgent, and rejected 17, for disposing of which there was certainly no hurry. The new Government should bring down these hundreds of orders-in-council, as well as the 17 now before Parliament, so that the Canadian public may have an idea how very hoggish the defeated and discredited Premier was determined to be.The Governor-General, if he had chosen, would not have gone beyond his constitutional powers if, under the circumstances, he had refused to sign any of these death-bed appointments of a moribund Administration.

London Determined to Progress

By a majority of 653—or about two to one of those who went to the polls—the bylaw to raise $150,000 to provide an effective sewerage system for London was carried yesterday. Neither those who supported the bylaw nor those who conscientiously opposed it, are likely to regret the providing of this most needed public improvement.
London is already a most attractive place of residence and business center. It needed an efficient system of sewerage and a clean river to make it an altogether ideal city, and these it will have within the next year, thanks to the decisive pronouncement of the property owners and forty-years' leaseholders yesterday. The sewerage system will cost something.
All improvements do. But the debt incurred will be spread over 40 years, and the interest to be paid will be very low. Thus, while the health of citizens will be conserved, and the expensive lawsuits hanging over the taxpayers will be withdrawn, the expenditure will be so met as to cause the least possible burden to be laid on the present generation. As the city grows the debt will be lightened by the increase of assessable property and the additions to the number of taxpayers.
We have added faith in the future of this center of industry, trade, commerce and education, now that this much-needed public improvement is guaranteed.Mayor Little, Dr. C. T. Campbell, chairman of the Board of Health, Sir John Carling, and all who lent their aid to the formation of the enlightened public opinion which has so happily decided, are to be congratulated on the success of their labors so far. The civic authorities must now see to it that the work is begun as speedily as possible and carried out with a single eye to making the system as nearly perfect as can be provided.

The Scandal of It.

After the late Government was defeated it took action with the object of paying over $250,000 "extras" alleged by the contractor of the Langevin block to be due for work done. In calling for papers on the subject, Mr.
M. C. Cameron recited the facts. The Hamilton Spectator attempts to meet the issue by saying that these facts are "ancient history." All the more condemnation must be meted out to its political friends for keeping this scandalous transaction unsettled all these years, and then attempting to have it settled in opposition to the decision of Sir John Macdonald and the chief architect of the Dominion.

Canadians Warned.

The announcement made by Sir Donald Smith, High Commissioner for Canada in Britain, that the Italian Government has prohibited the immigration of its subjects to Brazil, is interesting to us in the Dominion. Not that there has been a demand for the immigration of Italians to this country, but because recently agents of the Brazilian Government have been trying to coax Canadians to emigrate to that Republic. We believe that Canadians who wish new homes can do better by going on our own Western lands than by emigrating to a foreign country like Brazil, where, if they were unsuccessful, they would be liable to suffer great hardships.The enterprising and industrious Canadian, under the new order of things, will not have to look to a foreign land for a home. But it may be necessary for many men and women to adapt themselves to circumstances rather than to ask that circumstances shall conform to their desires. The conditions of employment in these days of invention and discovery, are constantly changing, and business, as well as professional men, artisans and workers generally, have to conform to whatsoever changes may be brought about, or lag in the race.

A Suspicious Demand.

Sir Charles Tupper, before he resigned, attempted to secure the destruction of the papers chronicling the transactions between himself and the Governor-General Lord Aberdeen steadfastly refused to sanction that unusual course.Why was the defeated politician so anxious to cover up his tracks?
The man who does right does not need to pursue a policy of concealment of his acts.

A PIECE OF CLAPTRAP.

Toronto Star.
The constitution will survive any wrench which may have been given it by Lord Aberdeen's action in taking Sir Charles Tupper by the throat, and Canada will go right along working out its destiny, without fear of injury to responsible government following his Excellency's lecture on political morality.
Precedent or no precedent, the average citizen shows no fear of the loss of any of his liberties, and is transacting his business, indifferent to the thrusts into which the Tupperites have worked themselves. The constitution rests lightly on the average politician's heart, unless he wishes to use it as a weapon against an opponent, and the country will indulge in a large suspicion that the present howl in defense of the constitution is prompted by a desire, not to save the country from some fancied danger, but to put the new Government in a trap.
The wall is a piece of political claptrap. After the Conservative party has reconstructed itself, it will have some license to defend the constitution, but at present there is more necessity for reorganization than for a campaign in defense of the people's sacred liberties.

WHERE?

New York Advertiser.
Where would our able campaign managers be without the newspapers?
These managers—and they belong to all parties—project great meetings and pack them with friends of the speakers who are already as firm in the faith as the speakers themselves.
Not a vote is to be lost by these meetings until the newspapers spread the arguments of the orators before the people.

THE HERO OF THE HOUR.

Bow down, however great ye be and wise, Another hero claims our thought and care;
'Tis he who proudly bears away the prize For the majestic pumpkin at the fair.
—Washington Star.The close of the vacation season and the taking up of the duties of school life once more are signalized in the September number of St. Nicholas. Miss Agnes Repplier contributes a sketch entitled "At School a Hundred Years Ago," in which she shows how much better treatment is accorded children today than was the lot of their great-grandfathers. The sketch of Joseph Francis, the inventor of the lifeboat and the founder and father of the life-saving service is written by W. S. Harwood. Max Bennett Thrasher furnishes an account of "Out-of-the-Way Corners of Westminster Abbey." It also tells the story of an extraordinary boy who who slept one night in the famous Coronation Chair. Mrs. M. Bernard continues her "Talks with Boys and Girls About Themselves." The very queer vegetable "The Jumping Beans" is described by Francis Churchill Williams. "The Story of Marco Polo," by Noah Brooks, reaches the romantic period of the defeat and death of Prester John, and "Sindbad, Smith & Co." in the serial by Albert Stearns, have more peculiar adventures. A new serial, "The City of Stories" by Frank M. Bicknell, has a promising beginning.

your child

You note the difference in children. Some have nearly every ailment, even with the best of care. Others far more exposed pass through unharmful. Weak children will have continuous colds in winter, poor digestion in summer. They are without power to resist disease, they have no reserve strength. Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil, with hypophosphites, is cod-liver oil partly digested and adapted to the weaker digestions of children
