of Cornell University, and Dr. J. A.

MacGregor, of Kent Bridge, assisted the groom. The bride was very prettily attired in white silk with pearl trimming, and wore the customary veil and orange blossoms, the bridesmaids also wearing white silk. About 80 guests were present, being relatives, personal acquaintances and professional friends of the bride and groom. Letters of regret at unavoidable absence were received from Pictou, Omaha, Neb.; Des Moines, Ia.; Detroit, Mich.; Newburg, N.Y.; also from the staff of the Jackson Sanatorium, Dansville, N.

Y., and from grateful patients of the doctor in New York city, Scranton, Pa., Philadelphia, Boston, Louisville, Ky., and other places. The presents were numerous, beautiful and very valuable. Pleasant speeches were listened to from Rev. Johnston, Mr.
Thos. McCormick, Mr. H. Matthews, and Doctors Meek, Wood, Gardiner and MacGregor on behalf of the bride, Dr. Macdonald replied in a pleasing manner. During the evening congratulatory telegrams were received from friends at Wellington, Scranton, Dansville and Indianapolis. Dr. and Mrs.
Macdonald left for Philadelphia at 4 a.m., carrying with them the best and most sincere wishes of their numerous friends.

SAW THE QUEEN.

In a letter to a friend Mr. R. Brobner, formerly of Saunders & Co., this city, and now studying at Edinburgh University, describes very neatly his first view of the Queen. He says:

"In our coaching trip to Balmoral, we passed the new Crathie Church and mountain hill, had a good view of the castle.

About Balmoral the Queen has three estates and can drive some twenty miles in her own grounds. Coming back we crossed the Dee and came home by south side, and on the way we met the Queen driving.

Our coach was driven to the side of the road and stopped short. A couple of quadrants came first, then a low phaeton with the Queen, Duchess of York and Princess Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein. The Queen sat in the corner of the carriage, next the Duchess of York, who, being rather tall, made Queen 'Vic' seem small by contrast.

She was in black, with some white in her bonnet and a good color in her cheeks. The carriage went past pretty fast. We men folk got our hats off. Someone started 'God Save the Queen,' and we—no, one of us—thought of cheering, but someone consoled us afterwards by saying the horses might have been frightened."

No doubt you are familiar with the fact that the bulk of the Christmas trade was done by us, and as a natural consequence our big line of Men's Clothing and Women's Capes, Coats and Furs, which were originally 400 and 500 of a kind, are now down to 3 and 4 of a kind. When they get that low we are satisfied to take one-half the former price and close them out. To do this we are going to have a three days'

BROKEN

Sale, commencing today. No hour limit on this sale, you can buy at any hour in the day. The only limit is to quantity. We will positively refuse to sell more than two garments to any one customer, as we have no desire for dealers to take advantage of our sale. It is for the public benefit, and not for the dealers. Do not put off coming until the last moment—values like we will give you are snapped up quickly by the public of London. They know us—when we advertise anything it is so. We place our statements before you in a clear, business-like manner, leaving the meaningless subterfuges of flowery rhetoric to our competitors, who have time for that sort of thing. We promise only what we expect to perform.
