mitted for any one day's fluctuations. The close was weak at the lowest prices of the day, October figishing at 19.05, and January at 19.75.

The break came after quotations crossed 21c a pound for all months, and exceeded 22c for distant deliveries. The rise was attributed partly to another sensational Liverpool advance. The drop started when it became apparent that big interests which had bought at much lower figures were letting go their cotton. Prices crumbled under the strain of large offerings in the last hour until the trading limits were reached.

The situation in which an unsatisfactory issue to either adversary will put the league has revived speculation as to the proposed modification of the conveneant, with provision for regional leagues with liaisons between them. This plan, proposed by M. Beck of Czecho-Slovakia, will come up at an early date before the committee on amendments. There is considerable support for this proposal, many of the delegates believing that only thus can the league work effectively without being hampered by regional understandings between individual states.
