You'll soon be here to nip my toes, And paint my cheeks with sunset glows, And fresco this old chin and nose I hear you've been, you roving fellow, Among the Australasians yellow, And scaring with your blatant bellow The Polynesians.

Bluster around the rich man's door Make him unlock his golden store, You're getting rough; I fear you p Your time too much with Boreas, And that star-mantled gypsy lass,

Old friend, together many a year We've journeyed on through foul and clear, And now, old comrade, lend an ear To my petition.

This year, I pray thee, leave thy snows In cold Arcturus with thy blows; On! Winter, gently come to those Who have no shelter. Roar 'round the miser till he quakes; Nip him and strip him till he shakes;

And in the cause of science, pray Keep out the ice from Baffin's bay, So that Polar "savants" win their way To frozen glory.

Let those we love, though they abide Far from us now, come to our side Happy and well at Christmastide, And we will bless thee.
