In the passing of our beloved Canadian Statesman, Sir Wilfred Laurier, our country has sustained a heavy loss, and much sorrow is felt throughout our wide Dominion. A man of stainless integrity, great intellect, and lofty principles he had few if any equals, among the Statesmen of the present day. Even his most bitter opponents in political life being forced to admit his superiority as a leader and chieftain. His noble life should be an incentive to all those who are striving to fight for truth and right.
