

God to believe that the millennium will dawn upon the world through its efforts. Only the personal presence of Christ, the King, can usher in that happy time. What would a kingdom of a thousand years be without the presence of the King?

Our hope is the hope of the apostles, and the hope of the early church, unhappily lost during the Middle Ages, as was the truth of justification by faith. It is rapidly regaining a hold upon evangelical Christendom, which to-day is making itself apparent in increased missionary zeal and activity. Spurgeon had this hope. Moody rejoices in it, Hudson Taylor, of the China Inland Mission, works under its inspiration. The man whose heart is possessed by it, cannot be an idler in the world's harvest field.

In no spirit of controversy, I am,

Time.

Time is the essence of nearly every legal contract; on its axis is borne the governments of the earth, through its channels flow the deeds of the high and lofty, and of the low and mean estate. A great many scientists agree that Old Father Time, had been running the race thousands of years prior to the earth's being peopled, and the advent of our first parents, Adam and Eve, was but an epoch in its future history.

Time has been referred to by a popular writer as a mighty river, on whose waters the commerce of the earth is borne, with never ceasing regularity, and on whose banks the nations dwell. Who can picture in their lushest imagination the joy and sorrow which come to people during the onward flow of the river of time?

Time carries the resident of the Temperate Zone from lovely budding spring to the balmy breezes of summer, thence onward to golden autumn and cheerful winter.

Golden opportunities are wrapped up in time, and the recipients of such are well aware of the important part time plays in the drama of life.

Time also has been referred to by a well-known poet as a great bird, on whose wings rest the earth and all that therein is.

The old proverb, "Never put off till tomorrow what you can do-day," shows plainly the important and essential part time bears to the action of man.

Every intelligent man knows perfectly well that a lease cannot be taken of life, hence it is in his own interest and of those dependent upon him that affairs of great consequence or import be attended to in time.

One of the most important business transactions which a sensible-minded man should perform (in time) while in good health, is to secure a policy of life insurance in a responsible and well-managed institution. The intending insurer should be careful to investigate the financial standing of the company, and ascertain if it is under experienced management.

The North American Life Assurance Company, head office 22 to 25 King street west, Toronto, is well known as an excellent institution, with plans of insurance varied and attractive to select from, among which the Compound Investment Plan is admirably adapted to meet the wants of every class of insurer.

Particulars respecting this and other desirable plans offered by the company may be had by application to the head office, or to any of the company's agents.

We call the attention of our subscribers to the advertisement in this issue of the Canadian Musical Agency, which has its office at 15 King St. E. this city. The Agency has the exclusive management of the majority of the leading musicians, and can supply all information regarding dates, terms, etc., upon application. The book containing portraits and prices of the different artists is now in press and promises to be the handsomest prospectus ever published in the city. We can heartily recommend a concert and entertainment given to drop a line to the Agency and get full information.
