. . . . Nothing can so well demonstrate the great importance to

TOTAL ABSTAINERS

Of being classed by themselves as risks in Life Assurance, as the experience of Companies that have classed them by themselves and the opinions of the highest Medical Authorities with regard to the very serious losses that occur to Life Insurance Companies from the effects of the use of intoxicants.

The Information which is furnished on application by

The Temperance and General Life Assurance Company

Cannot fail to be of great importance and interest to all right thinking teachers everywhere.

This Company classifies its risks strictly according to their habits, and its success justifies the expectation that it will at an early date be recognized generally as the Company in which all Total Abstainers should place their risks.

Correspondence from teachers and others solicited.
