

-2-

One specific area of co-operation being explored between Australia and Canada is government procurement, where one country or the other can make longer runs on products it is selected to produce by mutual agreement. Mr. Fox noted that Australian-Canadian co-operation in this area would give both countries benefits in pricing, offset provisions and deliveries, as well as providing mutual support in developing exports to third countries.

-30-