and the grand jury failed to find any indictment in the sardine packing case,
which commanded its attention for the greater part of the time. The sardine packing interests and the weir owners have been greatly interested in the charges preferred by the independent packers against the combine, that the latter was working in violation of the Sherman law, and this ending of the case, after the examination of a large number of witnesses came as a surprise to many, while perhaps the majority of those interested expected that no indictment would be found.

The grand jury examined more that

OG LICENSES NOW

DOG LICENSES NOW

OUT-NUMBER LAST YEAR

More dog licenses have been issued up to the present time this year than in any previous year. This morning Clarence Ward, mayor's clerk, made out the fifteen hundred and third license since the canine applications started to come in, on May 1.

Last year's total of 1456 was the largest up to that time but even now the present year is forty-seven in advance of that number. From now on attention will be directed to getting in the licenses for teams, labor, amusements, etc.

POLICE COURT TODAY

Three prisoners faced Judge Ritchie this morning in the police court on charges of the same and confirmation of Micmac children.

9.30 a. m.—High mass; sermon in French; procession to the memorial monument; address in English; national anthem; on returning, "Te Deum" and papal blessing.

3 p. m.—Vespers; beediction; hymn to St. Ann and Veneration of her relics.

4. p. m.—Musical and dramatic entertainments, readings, addresses and songs in three languages.

drunkenness. The proceedings in connection with the charge being put were a little out of the ordinary for court sessions. This was due to the fact that there was no sheet sent upstairs, nor any book, containing the names of the prisoners.

His honor overcame this deficiency, however, by calling on each prisoner to step forward, give his name and state the reason for his arrest, which was vouched for by the court seargeant. Two were remanded until the police arrived to give evidence, and the third was also remanded of or a time.

Hazen Campbell, remanded some days ago, was fined $4 on a charge of drunkenness, and $20 on a charge of assautling a conductor of the street railway company. His Honor said that even though Campbell for the past seven years had a good record as remaining sober, the conductors and motormen must be protected, and his being in liquor did not excuse him. H.
