Chatham Trade.

The trade of Chatham for the month of September 1880, compared with same nonth last year was as follows :-

1,303 65 2,614 18 Tim Deals, &c., Pieces ber, sp. feet. Palings. Tons. 17,202,000 45,000 368 26,783,000 45,000 ... $169,560, and for 1879 $216,635. The following gives the details of exports for September, 1880 :-

4,590,000 Fish-Lbs.
To England 64,800 fresh lobsters.

9,600 " mackerel To France...... The Exodus.

2002 " mackerer The Toronto Globe says :- The immi gration statistics of the United States for the month of August show that the one month is nearly one-half as much as the greatest exodus for a whole year during Mr. Mackenzie's Administration. The Tory party thought it was so enormous then, that they not only discussed it from one end of the country to the other, but sought to censure the Govern-ment by a formal resolution in the House. They promised, if power were placed in their hands, to stop this stampede of our people to the United States | dent ; J. L. Dunn, W. W. Turnbull, Hon by providing for them steady employment and good wages at home, and it is even now their boast that the "hum', in Canada is quite as lively as in the States. How do they reconcile the promise and the boast with actual results? An exodus of 13,500 a month is a thing unexampled in the history of Canadian Lumber at Liverpool. The Timber Trades Journal of the 18th ult. says:-"There is no change in the con dition of the timber market from that of last week; consumers continue to purchase freely, and there is no great anxiety or the part of holders to make sales unless at a fair profit. If there be any change, it is in Canadian goods, the short supply of which is becoming more apparent every day, and from advices just received, prices in Quebec are advancing far more rapidly there than in this country; for instance in oak for prime quality, according to telegraphic information, an advance has been made which places the value there within a few pence per foot of what it is at present selling for in this market. "That this country will respond to the greatly enhanced prices of Canadian timber and deals in the same ratio as the increase of prices there, can hardly be expected, even for the best classes, whilst for common and nferior wood a cheap substitute will be found in Baltic timber, of which ample supplies can be had at a moderate cost. This contingency is, we fear, often overlooked by our Canadian friends, and when prices for their goods reach a certain limit, consumers generally manage to find other and cheaper woods to take their place For instance, common building pine, which formerly was largely imported, has practically been driven out of the market by pitch pine, which possesses the advantages of cheapness and larger sizes. That there does exist a very short supply of timber in Canada available for export this year, no one can deny, and the sudden drop in the freight market during the last day or two is a convincing proof of this statement.' ILLEGAL FISHERY:-The fishery officers should be vigilant enough to impress, in a practical way, upon fishermen that the law requires them not to
