A very pleasant evening was spent in music and dancing and a refreshing luncheon of cake and ice cream was served, during the evening a handsome wrist watch was presented to the young soldier from the family. The crowd dispersed at about 2.30 o'clock after many wishes and farewells of good luck were extended to the young soldier.

Queen of England Is Prominent in Pictures.

From being the most camera-shy celebrity in the world, Queen Mary of England has become the most photographed of royalty.

In the twelve instalments of "Britain's Bulwark," an official war film released in the United States by Pathé, Queen Mary appears frequently and American photoplay fans have come to realize how thoroughly human the Queen of the greatest empire in the world really turns out to be.

It is rather amusing to millions, however, to observe that the gracious ruler never appears without an umbrella.

It is the trait she has possibly borrowed from the King's mother, Queen Alexandra.

Olga Petrova Visits Chicago.

Olga Petrova was in Chicago last week and made short speeches in aid of the war savings stamp drive in several theatres during her stay. In Los Angeles the famous star sold $5,000 in War Stamps and saw Chaplin at work in his studio.

Murder Mystery for Virginia Pearson

A murder mystery forms the basis of "The Goddess of Change," which Virginia Pearson has just started under the direction of Edmund Lawrence for William Fox at the Blackton studios in Brooklyn.

Jellied Fruit Salad.

Make plain lemon jelly, using 1 cup boiling water, 1 1/2 cup sugar, 1 1/4 tablespoons of gelatin and the juice of 1 lemon. Arrange 1 cup small strawberries or other seasonable fruit attractively as possible in slightly oiled or damp mold. When the jelly is cold, pour it over the fruit. Set in ice box to chill and harden. Unmold on six slices of canned pineapple and garnish with mayonnaise or honey salad dressing and heart lettuce.

Fox Has Produced Many

Works of Standard Merit

With the announcement that William Fox has just purchased "Buchanan's Wife," by Justus Miles Forman; "The Strange Woman," by William J. Hurt; but, and two more Zane Grey books, "The Last of the Duquesne" and "The Lone Star Ranger," the Fox Film Corporation can point with pride to the list of notable works of literature which it has put into the films.

MRS. G. A. KUHRING

RETURNS HOME

Tells Experiences in England

and Speaks of Appreciation

For Canadian V. A. D.'s—

Miss Kuhring To Go To ## France.

Friends of Mrs. G. A. Kuhring will be pleased to learn of her arrival home after some months spent in England in the interests of V. A. D. Work.

Mrs. Kuhring states that her daughter Miss Grace Kuhring who went over with the last V. A. D. party leaving Canada has passed the examination as a motor driver and is now ready to go to France.

Devonshire House, the V. A. D. headquarters has sent a message in praise of Canada's contribution to the V. A. D.

Mrs. Kuhring was greatly interested in the work of the National Kitchen. She also speaks most highly of the way in which Dr. Murray MacLaren and Mrs. MacLaren look after people from Canada and their extreme kindness to those in sorrow.

"Grand Opera and Music."

Geraldine Farrar has a baby grand piano in her dressing room at the Goldwyn studios, which accounts for the fact that she spent twice the time of any other under the big glass top.

While Mary Garden used to play solitaire between scenes, Geraldine Farrar sings.

Snatches of song float down the corridor and harmonious chords echo through the building.

The other stars now have music while they make up.

The Bradys Are All That Way.

When war was declared, Jasper E. Brady, Jr., was attending school in Montclair, N. J. His father, at that time in California, wrote the young man (he was not yet twenty years old), and said:

"Now that war is declared, what do you intend to do?" The next mail brought back Col. Brady's own letter, and in it endorsed in red was the following:

"Dear Dad—Your question is an insult. I have enlisted. Affectionately, Jack."
