Loggieville

Loggieville, N. B., Oct. 14.—There were two marriages in town this week. On Monday evening, the 27th ult., Miss Beatrice Jardine, daughter of Mr. Geo. Jardine and Winfield Deady, son of the late Wm. Deady, were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed at the home of Rev. F. W. Thompson. After a short trip to Bathurst and vicinity Mr. and Mrs. Deady will take up their residence here. Both young people belonged to the town, and enjoy the friendship of a large circle of friends, who wish for them a long and happy journey through life.

On the 29th ult. a marriage took place at the Monks, Black River, in which two young people of this town were principals. Miss Francis Musall and Lemuel Palmer. Rev. Thomas Harrison was the officiating clergyman. Mr. and Mrs. Palmer will reside here, and their many friends extend to them best wishes for a long and happy wedded life.

The continued heavy rains are the cause of much alarm on the part of the farmers. It is feared that the potato crop will be greatly impaired. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Potter and family have moved to town. They were former residents of Richibucto. Mrs. Patterson of Richibucto, is a guest at their home at present.

Miss Evelyn McNeary of Repton, is visiting her sister, who recently accepted a position with the O'Leary and Montgomery Co.

Miss Thelma Johnson entertained the Swastika Club at her home on Thursday evening. A number of the young men of Knox congregation were also in attendance and the evening was very pleasantly spent.

Guard The Children From Autumn Colds

The Fall is the most severe season of the year for colds—one day is warm, the next cold and wet, and unless the mother is on her guard, the little ones are seized with colds that may hang on all winter. Baby's Own Tablets are mothers' best friend in preventing or banishing colds. They act as a gentle laxative, keeping the bowels and stomach free and sweet. An occasional dose of the Tablets will prevent colds, or if it does come on suddenly, their prompt use will relieve the baby. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

When Pooka Went TO THE

Pooka was a little gipsy boy there were three things he could do—break sticks, every day he could stand on his head, crack his fingers, every day he could stand on his head, crack his fingers as loudly as the sticks near, and he could break sticks as softly as breaking a long way off, and sometimes like breaking sticks over your head, so that you had to look for him when he was there.

When he was dancing in the tip-toe, and cracking over as like this—kik, kik, kik—his mother said to him, "There's Pooka, a little away in the forest." And would dance up close to her and on his head, to show her he was a mother sent him into the town some currants. On the way danced such a wiggly dance that two brown pennies for the way slipped out of his pocket. He got to the shop the man wanted him the currants because he broke the pennies.

So when a Caravan came up to the Fair, the Caravan-man, Pooka standing on his head, and stopped the Fair, and a mob of people to stand on his feet. Pooka didn't do it. At last a Caravan-man said, "Can you do that?"

Pooka stood down on his feet and said, "I can dance and I can crack my fingers. And I will dance to see who it was. Everybody round to see, who it was, and Caravan-man turned round too. Pooka slipped behind the Caravan-man, and ran home.

His mother was angry because Pooka hadn't brought the currants, but Pooka showed her his Pierrot suit didn't mind very much, and Pooka gave her the silver penny didn't mind a bit.

He Seemed Very Old.

The little girl had questioned grandfather many times during the evening—and now, with the Pooka at her arm to remove her bed, he could see that she had another question to ask.

"Grandfather," she said, "were you the Ark?"

"Why, no," he exclaimed, smiling. "Then," said she innocently, "weren't you drowned?"—London Evening Post.
