"All we now await," said Commissioner Ogilvie when seen by a NUGGET man today, "is information from Ottawa that the necessary money has been appropriated; the building will then be put up forthwith, and it will be of such a nature as to afford all the conveniences needed for the time. Afready one prominent thoroughfare leads by the site, it is on a direct line with the bridge across the Klondike and leading to Dawson city and the mines, and when the townsite has been reclaimed from its present swampy condition by the proposed drainage system, I look for an upbuilding of the neighborhood proving the site to be most centrally located."

The Tenderlain to be Removed.

The thread which had so long held the official ax over the famous "tenderloin" district has snapped asunder, the inexorable demands of progress have won the day.
