Everyone can be hypnotized claims Dr. C. M. Fletcher

A person who can be hypnotized is more normal than one who cannot, the U of A Student Wives Club was told Jan. 10. As human beings we are open to suggestion, said guest speaker Dr. C. M. Fletcher. Every person can be hypnotized by someone but no one person can hypnotize everyone, he said.

Dr. Fletcher began by tracing the history of hypnosis.

Early Christians often worked cures by laying their hands on their patients—a form of hypnosis, said Dr. Fletcher, Surgery under hypnosis was first attempted in 1821 and a doctor in India used the technique for 3,000 operations. Sigmund Freud used hypnosis before he developed his method of psychoanalysis.

And during the two world wars hypnosis was used for victims of shell shock and battle neurosis, said Dr. Fletcher.

He gave three definitions of hypnosis: a state of altered weightfulness, a state of altered consiousness, and a state of increased susceptibility.

It is often associated with sleep, said Dr. Fletcher, but tests show a hypnotic state does not approach sleep. When a subject falls into a normal sleep, the hypnotic state is broken.

He said hypnosis can be used in medicine as a tranquilizer, to treat asthma, migraine headaches, menstrual cramp, neurosis

Pains of childbirth can also be eased. The mother is taught self-hypnosis and is able to freeze the lower half of her body.

Dr. Fletcher predicted hypnosis will play an important part in dentistry—replacing the local anesthetic.

He said lay people should not use hypnosis. Stage hypnosis (for entertainment) is banned in some countries and states because officials believe it should be reserved for the medical profession.

To conclude his talk, Dr. Fletcher attempted to hypnotize a member of the audience.

He failed.

But his second subject responded immediately to hypnotism. Dr. Fletcher, a graduate of the U of A Faculty of Medicine, spent two years in general practise before going into anesthesiology. He first learned about hypnosis ten years ago.

Charges of 'squalid vulgarity' result resignations by Lance co-editors

From Canadian University Press

WINDSOR-Is "The Student as Nigger" obscene?

When this article (reprinted on C-4 in this issue) appeared in Windsor University student newspaper the Lance last month, the university president J. F. Leddy called a meeting of the Student Conduct, Activities, and Discipline (SCAD) Committee.

He charged the Lance with having a "morbid obsession with squalid vulgarity.

Co-editors John Lalor, 23 and Marian Johnstone, 20, resigned from the paper, believing that if they did not, they would be forced to resign by SCAD. In his letter of resignation, Lalor said he was not prepared to let any "arbitrary committee" play with his life.

"FREE PRESS"

Over 50 students and a few professors marched in protest to their resignation Jan. 10. Carrying pla-cards reading "Our money, our press" and "Reinstate the editors", they chanted "Hell Yes, Free Press commission was called to look into the allegations of censorship, coercion, and obscenity.

A Canadian University Press

SCAD decided to take no further action against the editors after they received a statement from a special committee of the student council. It is not known whether cr not SCAD would have suspended them when they refused to promise not to print "vulgarities.

Miss Johnstone has since been reinstated as editor, but Lalor cannot get his job back. A new SCAD ruling, introduced since he was appointed editor last September, stipulates that all student leaders in responsible positions must have a "C" average or better Lalor average or better. Lalor, an English major, has a "D" aver-

Miss Johnstone stated that she had been responsible for the publication of the article. Lalor had not even seen it until after it had been printed.

Honorarium increased $1,650

SACKVILLE N.B. (CUP)-Next year's council president at Mount Alison University is going to be a rich man, Council decided early in the year to up the president's hon-orarium $1,650—from $350 to $2,000. The move was made so capable candidates would be attracted to the post.

The money will be used to cover the cost of two summer-school courses, so he can lessen his work load during the school year, and to cover any loss of revenue from a summer job.

Saskatchewan students hit with increase of $75 in tuition fees

SASKATOON (CUP)-University of Saskatchewan students will pay an average $75 rise in tuition fees next year.

It is the second hike in three

University authorities cite rising operating costs and a "drop in the proportion of costs covered by fees" as reasons for the fee hike.

More money for more people

Government grant changes could mean more money for more

C. G. Merkley, chairman of the Students' Assistance Board, said Monday, "Students with a 50 per cent average and up are now eligible to receive grants up to a maximum of $400."

He emphasized, however, that it is "a grant with a more strict definition than ever before."

Students must show financial need and must make an adequate summer's contribution. Their parents will also be expected to con-

A student whose average is 80 per cent or above will also retive of need. Unlike the previous arrangement, this scholarship will not be subtracted from the student's need.

"The remainder he can get on loan," said Mr. Merkley.

"Ultimately it means greater assistance for more students.

$600 depending on course and year. In announcing the fee hike, Allan Tubby, chairman of the Board of Governors, and Dr. J. W. T. Spinks, president, noted that in the past ten years fees have covered an average of 23.6 per cent of the university's operating costs. In the current year this has dropped to 19.8 per cent.

The fee increase is expected to raise this percentage to 23.5 for the coming year.

Fees at the Regina campus, which is on the trimester system, will rise proportionately.
