The Chief Feature of the Short Skirt.

The Plain Parasol.

The chief feature of the short skirt of the moment is that the back is shorter than the front, and the tendency is still toward a very short waist at the back and a long pointed one in front.

Some of the prettiest hats are very simple, and, despite all efforts to the contrary, they are very flat, but this

Brick-dust Deposit or Cloudiness of Urine?
Dropsy of the Ankles or Wrists?

These are the danger signals which testify that the kidneys are not doing their work of expelling uric acid from the blood. Unless these organs are brought into a healthy condition, the blood will be poisoned more and more. Some form of Rheumatism is likely to follow, and Diabetes or Bright's Disease of the Kidneys may result. You must act at once. Discoverers of the kidneys brook no delay. which they are worn on the face is a distinct innovation with Parisians.

The parasol of the moment is very plain, with an abnormally long handle, the shade often decorated with spots or a wide border.

Somehow all the smart morning frocks seem to be worn without ruffles or even bows, but with a very neat turn over muslin collar. This style is becoming to some and certainly suitable for the short skirts, but for smarter gowns certainly the softening ruffle at the neck is more becoming.

White linen shirt waists are made with skirts to match.

Shirred effects are quite the mode and very becoming to tall people. Skirts and jackets are made in this fashion of thin veiling and have linings of lustrous silk, sometimes of a contrasting shade.

Gowns of white d'esprit are smart for young girls. These are always pretty trimmed with ribbons shirred or lace medallions.

The illustration shows a simple and at the same time picturesque evening gown of white silk.

THE GREAT ADVENTURE.

There's many a quiet seaport that waits the dawning sail;
There's many a lonely farer by many a doubtful trail.

And what should be their star
To lead them safe and far,
What guide to take them o'er the crest,
What pilot past the bar—
Save Love, the great adventurer, who will not turn nor quail.

As a voyager might remember how the face of earth was changed,
And the dreary grey of winter forgotten and estranged—
When he rode the tempest through
Or a tranquil tropic morning diaphanous and new.

With palms upon the sea-rim where the dying light ranges:
As a lover in old story on a night of wind
And rain
Might have stood beneath a window till a lamp should light the pane
And a lady lean one arm
On the glowing square and warm,
A girlish, golden figure in a frame of dark and storm—
To look the longest moment ere he turned to life again—

Then set a stubborn shoulder to wind and sleet and snow,
With the weather foul above him and the pavement foul below;
So it happened in my case:
When I saw her, every trace
Of doubt and fear and languor to the pulse of joy gave place,
And the world was great and goodly as he planned it long ago.

There's a shipman who goes sailing where the sea is round and high;
There's a lover who goes piping where winds of morning cry;
And the life beneath his heart
Was timed to stop and start,
Till no more ships go sailing and the great hills fall apart.
O, friends, that minstrel-lover, that mariner am I!
