GOSSIP.

Teacher : "Johnny, if your papa were to give your mamma a ten-dollar bill and a twenty-dollar bill and a five-dollar bill, what would she have?" "A fit," was Johnny's prompt reply.

A steamer was stopped in the mouth of a river owing to fog. An old lady inquired of the captain the cause of the delay.

"Can't see up the river," replied the captain.

"But I can see the stars cverhead," continued the old lady.

"Yes," said the captain, gruffly, " but until the boilers bust, we ain't a-going that way."

Dr. Edward Everett Hale, the newlyappcinted chaplain of the United States Senate, during his editorial career had occasion to send the office boy on an errand to a firm which for the sake of convenience will be called Black, White & Co. The hour was late and on the way the boy tarried so long that when he finally arrived at the office of Black, White & Co. he found, much to his dismay, the place closed up.

How to announce his failure to perform the errand as directed in a satisfactory manner was evidently the problem that confronted the boy, and when he entered the doctor's office he had his lie prepared.

"The firm was out," said the boy as he laid the note he had failed to deliver on the desk. "Very well," replied the doctor.

"You may take it in the morning. You are excused for the day."

It would have sufficed the boy had he left the office at that point, but finding that his falsehood worked admirably and with a conscience working guiltily within him, he could not avoid saying :

"Neither Mr. Black nor Mr. White was Fact is, I went to both their places and was disappointed."

The doctor wheeled about in his chair. "What is that you say?" he demanded.

"I went to both places and neither of the men was in." Dr. Hale looked the youthful prevarica-tor over. "Um-m-m," he mused. "So you went to both places, ch ? Quite interesting, my boy; quite interesting. Mr. Black has been dead ten years and Mr. White eight years-er-er-by the way, which place did you go to first?"

"One afternoon some time ago," said Mr. Glass, member of the U.S. House of Representatives, "a large envelope came to my house through the mail, addressed to my son, Powell, who was then a boy about eleven years old. The packet bore the impecial seal of Russia, the wax put on over a gaudy ribbon or two. In the envelope were perhaps twenty Russian stamps of various denominations, and a half-dozen stamped newspaper wrappers. Accompanying the stamps was a letter from Count Cassini, the Russian Ambassador at Washington, saying that, by the special direction of His Imperial Majesty the Czar of the Russians, he transmitted therewith Russian stamps and wrappers of all denominations. He stated that he was further directed by His Imperial Majesty to express the hope that my boy would grow up to be a good and useful citizen, and that he might some day be the President of the United States.

"I was astounded," continued Mr. Glass, " and questioned Powell as to how he came to receive the stamps.

"' I wrote and asked him for 'em,' he said.

"" What did you say to him in the letter ?' I asked, and then he told me that he just wrote asking the Czar to send him the stamps, that he was a little boy who was collecting stamps and could not get any of Russia's. He told me that he began the letter, ' Dear Czar,' and that he directed it to 'The Czar, Russia.' He said he knew the Czar was certain to get it, as there was only one in Russia.

"I confess that I have ever since that time had a warm place in my heart for a man who, though the ruler over a hundred million people, had a heart kind enough to forget the cares of state long enough to grant the request of an obscure American boy, thousands of miles away.'
