"Did not He have to work? Wasn't He poor? And when I'm toil. just ing I think of Him and how He was treated !" The gaudy picture brought something very real before the vision of the old lady-the Nazarene with His wealth of love, the gentleness that spoke from the lips and beautiful eyes mayhap; made, music in her tired old heart.

She is but a type of a class that is the very salt of the earth. She is one th of the Catholics who hold straight course to the land beyond and who whilst here are tenacious of Catholic a custom and regard no admonition as undeserving of attention.

Oar spiritual guides have time and again exhorted parents to beautify the walls of their homes with pictures that will keep the inmates in mind of our Divine Lord and of His saints. And surely it is an advice to be heeded. Instead of having a picture more or less indelicate in our parlor why not have one of a man or woman who lived here and kept soul and body clean. We are not "prudish in this matter. Good pictures are inot confined to the depicting of sacred personages, but anything from's painter's brush that offends delicacy in any way should, no matter how excellent from an artistic point of view, be forbidden entrance into Christian households.

In the spiritual universe there are no fences, and the fields of patriotism and righteousness lie under the same stars. Now, our schools, with their close relation to the business of life, demand a reinforcement on the side of spirit-uality. They have been more and more secu-larized, and it is only as the people become largely at one on religious matters that they ten.—Horace Scudder.
