FOUR

The Catholic Record

Price of Subscription-$1.60 per annum. United States & Europe-$2.00 blisher and Proprietor, Thomas Coffey, LL. D.

Editors { Rev. James T. Foley, B. A. Thomas Coffey, LL. D.

Associate Editors { Rev. F. J. O'Sullivan. H. F. Mackintosh.

Advertisements for teachers, situations wantad, te. 50 cents each insertion. Remittance to company the order. Approved and recommended by Archbishops salconio and Sbaretti, late Apostolic Delegates to sanda, the Archbishops of Toronto. Kingston, titawa and St. Boniface, the Bishops of London. Ismilton, Peterborough, and Ogdenaburg, N. Y., ad the clergy throughout the Dominion.

and canvas for the CATHO Record : General agents: Messrs. P. J. Neven, Vincent S. Cox, M. J. Hagarty, and Mias Sara Hanley, Resident agents: George B. Hewetson, Minne-apolis, Minn. : Mrs. W. E. Smith, Halifax; Miss Bride Saunders, Sydney : Miss L. Heringer, Winnipeg: Silas Johnson, 211 Rochester st., Ottawa: Miss Rose McKeaney, 149 D'Aiguillon street, Quebec, Mrs. George E. Smith, 2368 St. Urbain street, Montreal and M. J. Mervin, Montreal and marriage notices can

60 cents. inarging residence will please give waddress. N. B., single copies may be Mrs. M. A. McGuire, 249 Main I. Dwyer and The O'Neill Co. ingle swise In Montreal single copies may be purcha from J. Milloy, 241 St. Catherine street, west.

LONDON, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1916

Mr. P. J. Neven, who acted as our agent for many years and who enlisted in the Army Medical Corps in this city nearly two months ago, left last week under orders for Halifax preparatory to his departure for duty overseas. His many friends throughout Canada and Newfoundland will be glad to wish him Godspeed and a safe return.

Recently a Protestant clergyman in Toronto struck a note in speaking of Quebec that is refreshing and encouraging.

The Rev. Byron H. Stauffer spent his vacation this summer in Quebec and he is reported in the Globe to have stated in a public lecture that his experience led him to the conclusion that "some lies" have been told about French - Canadians. "And," he added, "I have decided to spend the rest of my days in encouraging Christian forbearance in Canada.' This is all the more creditable to the Toronto cleryman inasmuch as he frankly recognizes that "these views may not be popular in Toronto." No; "Christian forbearance" when carried so far as to include Catholics runs counter to a well-defined prejudice which may or may not be more marked in Toronto than elsewhere in Ontario. That prejudice is kept alive by certain mountebanks of the pulpit and the press, pandered to and often fanned into a flame by unscrupulous politicians. In so far as this prejudice includes Quebec it does so not because Quebec is French but because Quebec is Catholic. In fact a good many victims of this prejudice do not believe that French Canadians speak French at all but some sort of jargon or patois, when as a matter of fact class for class, individual for individual, they speak and write French quite as well as, probably better than we do English, This would be amusing if it were not a pathetic evidence of the ignorant prejudice to which we refer and and instructive. It shows that much refrain from the opinion that as the question has been discussed Germans, especially official Germans, there is a large number of the people are particularly poor judges of of Ontario-including the Rev. Mr. Stauffer-whose prejudices have tries." been stirred but who do not know just what are the merits of the bilingual controversy.

Hs speaks of the complaints in Canadian obeys God's law and raises very probable. families what complaint have you to make if his people spill over the boundaries of his native province ?"

This emphatically is not the question in issue at all, though it is just about the conception of it that may be expected where racial and religious prejudice obtains.

The question is : "Has the French-Canadian, as he claims, the same rights with regard to his language in the schools of Ontario as he has in Quebec ?

That question the courts will decide. It may involve another ; if he has, the childless women of Toronto and elsewhere have no grievance ; but the English-speaking fathers and mothers of east and north Ontario, who find French-Canadian schools altogether unsatisfactory for their children, may not be able to take such detached and impersonal view of the matter. It is complaint is not that French-Canadians come in ; but that they can make such use of the schools as fellow-Canadians out.

It will not promote Christian forbearance to cry peace, peace where there is no peace. Peace and goodwill and Christian forbearance will be best served not by shirking disagreeable questions but by meeting them with courage and good-will and settling them on their merits village of Hamilton there were found regardless of the prejudice prevailing on either side.

WILL SPAIN JOIN THE ALLIES From time to time our readers will have noticed that certain press agencies represent Spain as pro-German in the great conflict going on at her doors. And the impression was given that but for the Liberals Spain would be fighting on the side of the Central Powers. In an article in the New York Times, " A Veteran Diplomat" calls attention to some facts that are just now of great interest.

Referring to the persistent report that the aristocracy and the higher ranks of the clergy were heart and soul with Germany he recalls the pertinent and significant fact that one of the strongest denunciations of German frightfulness in Belgium is contained in a striking manifesto addressed to the Belgian people and bearing the signatures of about a thousand of the greatest nobles and the highest dignitaries of the Church in the dominions of His Most Catholic Majesty the King of Spain.

The leader of the Conservatives, former premier Antonio Maura, in a speech at Beranga, urged the vital deed, the reaction which personal necessity for abandoning the policy intercourse with them produced in of isolation resulting from neutrality. the worthy clergyman indicates that "Isolation," he said, "is impossible even scholarly and travelled gentle-for a country that geographically, MEETING OF THE BISHOPS OF home. Then we must see he little men may have to revise their pre- politically and economically is brought into contact with other countries in both hemispheres." "Speaking of the complaints in "Spain would be foolish," he added, "to refuse intimate association with these western nations, because she naturally belongs to the same group, extent as it is in Toronto and other and because it is much easier to harmonize the interests of Spain with those of England and France mplaint to make. than to defend them against France front. At present there are forty- seven years old on her next birth-

THE CATHOLIC RECORD

popular sentiment in foreign coun- lic country home, innocent, artless It may be from or through German sources that our misleading information with regard to spain has reached us. In any case it is pleasant to Ontario that the French-Canadians know that popular Spanish sentiment are overrunning east and north makes Spain's adhesion to the cause Ontario and he asks : "If the French- of the Allies not only possible but

> ATTENTION MISSIONARIES TO SOUTH AMERICA-AND QUEBEC !

An American subscriber sends us a clipping from the Gospel Messenger (Episcopalian) which might make good Sunday-reading for those Episcopalians who disrupted the Mission Board of their church over the question of joining other Protestant sects in sending missionaries to the Catholics of South America. "There has recently been completed a religious survey of Madison county, which furnishes some startling figures about rural religion. county has a population of 43,000, of whom there are (officially reported) 4,600 Roman Catholics. Our own church has 7 parishes and with 802 communicants and a total number of souls of about 1,400. This leaves 37,000 who would he classed as Protestants. "Of these 9,000 (in round numbers) for them a vital question. Their reported that they had no religious preferences whatever, and were absolutely unattached to any church and uninterested in any religious organization. That is, 21% of the to drive their English . speaking population in a county in the very nter of the Empire State are practi cal pagans. The figures in reality even larger, for those who gave religious preferences many have a connection merely nominal.

'According to Dr. Parsons of Cazenovia there is one valley in Madison county which for twenty years did not number a single attached Christian believer. Not far from the people living without regard to the marriage relation and so ignorant of the Christian religion that after a funeral recently, one man, in all were hung neatly-framed or passe-seriousness, asked the preacher who this Christ was' of whom he had been speaking. In one of the schools last April a class was asked why Easter was kept and the only answer forthcoming was that it was Grant's birthday.

There is something strangely place, then another we hear of religious indifference, religious ignorance. Of course there must be a great many Madison counties to make up the unchurched millions so cheerfully abandoned by Protestant missionaries anxious and zealous to evangelize Catholic countries. In a certain part of northern Ontario "living without regard to the marriage relation ' was so common that a lawyer actually alleged the fact of ignorance of the law and the prevailing custom as extenuating circumstances that should temper the severity of the Court's sentence for an indictable offence in this connection.

Catholics as well as others must deplore these sad conditions ; but a knowledge of their existence should delight to hear as well as bear false

THAT PICTURE We met her at the convent school. She was the product of a good Cathonatural. Though a little shy and backward at first, she soon adjusted herself to her new surroundings Her brightness of intellect and good rudimentary training made it comparatively easy for her to take a foremost place in her class, while she delighted in the facilities that were offered her to satisfy the devotional cravings of her heart. Three years quickly sped past, and now, blooming into young womanhood, she seemed on graduation

night among the white . robed maidens the fairest of the throng. Years afterwards, happening to be in her neighborhood, we decided to pay her a visit. She had married a young farmer of the same parish and was now mistress of a home of her own. It was an unpretentious frame building but there was a bright, cozy, homelike air about it. A freshly. painted picket fence separated the well kept lawn from the public road

On either side of the gravel walk that led up to the veranda steps was a row of white and pink asters. Our rap on the door was answered by a bright, curly-haired little girl, who informed us that Mama had gone to the field to take a lunch to the men and had left her in charge of her little brother and the baby that was in the cradle. She invited us to take a chair in the parlor until her mother would return. Unlike that particular room in so many farm houses, there was nothing in the atmosphere suggestive of a morgue. It was well ventilated and there was plenty of light. The furniture was not of that type that is intended only to be an ornament-and is not always that. It was fairly rich and service. able. The paper on the walls was of a light, delicate tint, that gave an added cheerfulness. Here and there partouted pictures of members of the family and several photo copies of distinctively Catholic paintings of the old masters. On the piano rack was an open copy of Leonard's Mass in B. flat. The reason for this, we learned later, was that the subject miliar about all this. First it is one of our sketch was filling the gap for a few Sundays during the absence of the regular organist of the parish church. In a word, that room reflected the good judgment, the culture, the refinement and above all the faith and piety of her who fashioned it.

The little one came running in to Since that time he has exercised his announce that Mama was coming. Doffing her sunshade, without any preliminaries or excuses she extended to us a cheery welcome. Certainly no apologies were necessary, for in her well-fitting gingham dress we doubt if she looked any more attractive the night of her graduation. After city. some enquiries about old friends, she turned to what interested her most-her home. She took us out to show us her chickens and geese of which she was justly proud We in France, for the patriotic tradiabate the unholy zeal of those who were informed in confidence that the tions of its clergy. One of its revenue from this source alone defrayed a great part of the household expense and enabled her to procure many little luxuries for the garden which was her own exclu-The Archbishops and Bishops of sive charge, and which furnished vegetables in season for the table. Why should not the men have lettuce and radishes and even was tastily arranged and spotlessly rank, in a modest position, gives where to look for fidelity of service clean: Even the hired man, whose proof of untiring activity and devo- and high principles. In General clean: Even the hired man, whose tion. Since the beginning of the hair was elaborately brushed and campaign, and notably in the course combed, seemed to have caught the of the recent fighting, his visits to the first line of trenches, his search contagion of cleanliness and neatness. The food was wholesome and ing for wounded under fire, and his calm courage have won for him the well-cooked, and served to the respectful affection of all. accompaniment of cheerful conversoldier and a priest of Nancy, he is sation and good-humoured badinage. In response to a remark that we understood from Father ----- that he was about to make some needed improvements in the church, we found our host and hostess both enthusiastic. The latter informed us that she had already in her spare moments made several articles for the bazaar that would be held the next winter to raise funds for the purpose. Happy, we thought to ourselves, would be the priest that had a parish of such families, and happy the farmer that possesses such a wife ! "But," we hear some of the young nen say, "all convent girls are not of that type." "And are we to be disqualified," chimes in an indignant chorus of the fair sex, "because we have never attended a convent ?" These objections suggest a very important subject, with which we will deal in a subsequent issue. THE GLEANER.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

READERS OF the CATHOLIC RECORD | Guerre, or War Cross. The superiorwho are accustomed to include these general of the missionary congregacolumns within the scope of their lucubrations may like to know something more of the three French Bishops who have shared in the have concurred in the suggestion. struggles and sufferings of the Army in its heroic defence of Verdun. We distracted world, his name and his proceed to lay before them such services will be made known. particulars as we have in this regard.

among the troops of the army corps, the living representation of the faith of the Apostles and of the patriotism of Lorraine." THE YOUNGEST of the three Bishops under consideration we are unable to distinguish by name. He remains for the present incognito. But from an appreciative notice in the New York Herald we are able to relate the following particulars in regard to him. The circumstances of his entry upon active service and the part he has borne throughout the tense struggle lend peculiar interest to his person. He alone of the three prelates mentioned, has actually had the rifle and bayonet in his hand. When the war broke out he was a missionary bishop in one of the French colonies, but, being a reservist, he at once, upon issue of the mobilization order, returned to France and presented himself, like the humblest of civilians, to his military superiors. He has since risen in rank and been decorated with the Croix de tion of which he is a member insisted that in his case anonymity be pre served, and the military authorities When peace once more dawns upon a

A priest.

the

IN EXPLANATION of the maintenance of anonymity in regard to this of admissions that are worthy of MGR. DE Lobet, Bishop of Gap, was youthful Bishop — for he is but attention. It is stated that in the first months of the War thirty-two-and other clerics in the attached to the sixteenth section of French army, the Superior of his the French Hospital Service, with order thus replied to the representaheadquarters at Perpignan. In this tions of a Paris journal which asked by capacity he rendered important for information on the subject. This greater portion heavy wire entangle service to the national cause and reply may be considered also as the endeared himself to the many sick vindication of the many thousands our artillery had successfully cut and wounded soldiers who came of French priests and missionaries many lanes through the wire a within his jurisdiction. But, fired who, at the call of their country in with the heroism and self-sacrifice her hour of trial, left the plow in the daily and hourly being enacted on furrow and took their place in the ranks as soldiers or chaplains : "You ask me for some details regarding this bishop who was the signed to work at the front. The official first of the foreign missionaries to having special charge of the hospital arrive in answer to the call of the country in danger. Do you believe and sanitary service, granted the that it would serve any good purpose request, and the Bishop was appointto mention the names of these good workers? Hundreds from among ed chaplain in an ambulance section the missionaries of my congregation of one of the infantry divisions. and thousands from the members of other associations devoted to the apostolate in distant countries are sacred functions in the most perilous doing what this young bishop has section of the Verdun defences, that done: they are obeying, they are struggling and they are praying. east of the River Meuse, where the done Germans have concentrated their They gather up the wounded where heaviest artillery in the vain attempt, danger is greatest on the fields, as it has proved, to destroy the fortiwhere blood is flowing and they fied hills of the much beleaguered are dressing wounds while the jectiles fall around them. B t in consider doing this they do not that they should be singled out for distinction from among their civilian THE SECOND of the three Bishops brothers. They simply are good referred to is Mgr. Ruch, Coadjutor Frenchmen like all the French of Nancy, a diocese celebrated, even diers. Leave them to their task, without seeming to flatter a vanity which they do not possess."

OCTOBER 21, 1916

Foch who, as director of the operations on the Somme has been much in the public eye, France has found her very ideal of a soldier.

THE GENERAL, who is sixty-five years of age, was but a colonel in 1914. The fact that he has a brother in the Society of Jesus, and is himself a devoted son cf the Church, killed his chances then of promotion under Masonic government. The distinction he achieved at the Battle of the Marne, where he was placed in command of the centre division, and by the skill and rapidity of his movements and his inborn tenacity turned back the invading German host, changed all this and made him one of the outstanding figures of the War. The Paris correspondent of the London Times, writing of Gen eral Foch some time ago, said : "Although born with the brain of a mathematician, the General's ideas upon war are by no means purely scientific. He refuses indeed to regard war, and more especially modern war, as an exact science . . He is a philosopher as well as a fighter; he is one of the rare philosophers who have proved the accuracy of their ideas in the fire of battle."

ON THE BATTLE LINE

DID SOME ONE BLUNDER

The official report to Ottawa of the attack north of the Somme on Sunday last, during which four Canadian battalions were badly mauled, and at least one was cut to pieces, so that, in the tragic words of the report, 'from that ground of conflict and death few returned," makes a number "the enemy at this point occupied particularly strong entrenchments, some of which were so placed upon a reverse slope that close direct observation day was impossible. For the ments were known to exist, and it was afterwards found that although formidable obstacle to infantry assaults still remained." It is stated elsewhere that "the left was less fortunate. Although pushed with equal gallantry, heavy wire was encoun-tered, and in the obscurity the men could not perceive the gaps. They had to move parallel to the enemy' trench, seeking an entrance, and were exposed to a bitter machine Still another reference gun fire. says that an Alberta battalion was held up by wire entanglements while the machine guns of the poured a withering hail of bullets into its ranks.

If these statements are not exaggerated the Canadians had their Magersfontein, Loos and Neuve Chapelle all in one on Sunday They were sent up against wire defences that had not been subjected to the thorough artillery preparation which is necessary before an assault is launched. The explanation that "close direct observation" of the German defences by day was impossible does not appear to be sufficient. Britain's aeroplane scouting service has become marvellously proficient, and the presence of uncut wire in large quantities could have been detected at once by aerial ob-servation. The defeat—for defeat it was despite the gallantry of THOUGH NOT in military service the men who died while they sought a way through the enemy's wire entanglements-was avoidable, and tioned, the titular Bishop of Nancy, must have been due to the assumption by some highly-placed officer year, ranks high among the patriot that sufficient preparations for an assault had been made when, as a matter of fact, the artillery had not been used as it should have been. pose of aiding his country, and it Hundreds of dead and wounded is a heavy price to pay for disregard of the most elementary precautions. The lack of munitions may have warranted the risking of men's lives against uncut wire in the early stages of the war, but that excuse can no longer be put forward. The Canadian people will be deeply interested in learning more about the action north of Courcelette last Sunday he it was who made a vigorous and The official report leaves much to be the firing line, he became dissatisfied with the comparatively dull routine of the hospitals and requested to be as-

which Mr. Stauffer deplores. Inconceived notions about French Canadians.

Ontario that the French-Canadians overrunning east and north Ontario, Mr. Stauffer declared when race suicide is practised to such an English sections of the Province the English-speaking people have no real complaint to make.

in Toronto and other parts of Ontario and England in alliance with any than in many other places I know. If the French-Canadian obeys God's law and raises families what com plaint have you to make if his people spill over the boundaries of his native Province ?'

It is good to hear a Protestant minister speak about Protestant Ontario's own sins. We have grown tion and compensation." to expect something about South America and other far off places.

"When the larger issues are at stake is the bilingual controversy worth while ?"

dice, precisely because it is prejudice, of its very nature makes it difficult to consider solely the merits of a gests a Coalition Cabinet. controversy.

Quebec is groundless, is based on lies as he has the frankness and courage to admit. Forthwith he asks : "Is more that should be very interesting other nation." Powers of the Entente that any behalf will receive suitable recogni-Maura's speech was received with for five more chaplains for immedi- introduce him. We found him quite so much enthusiasm and approval by ate service overseas.

"Perhaps the most eloquent proof writer, "is to be found in the dismay, ago assumed the duties of Secretary bearing upon Catholicity; he was the battlefield. that their labors and manoeuvres, the excellent work done by him dur- was announced. entirely wasted. Indeed, one cannot System of Ontario.

and pharisaical witness against Cath. olics and Catholic countries.

ONTARIO

Ontario held their regular semiannual meeting in the Archbishop's House, Toronto, on Tuesday, October 10th their serious attention was the While our hostess was preparing question of supplying more chap- dinner little Mary entertained us. lains for the Canadian forces at the She informed us that she would be one Catholic chaplains attached to day, that she was going to go to count on a majority in the Cortes, make every effort to release more of work and quite au courant of the hands of his Ordinary under most advised the King to call on Maura to their Diocesan Clergy, although latest scientific methods of farming; trying circumstances. He is now decided on its merits. And preju- form a cabinet. The universal every diocese is undermanned, and that he and his wife studied and disapproval of all parties of the foreign to hold no Missions during the con- cussed these matters together and Verdun, and for his services there policies enunciated by Maura sug- tinuance of the war other than those already arranged for.

the fury, and I might almost say, the of The Catholic Educational Com- expressing his indignation at the despair of the German propagandists mittee of Ontario, and expressed indifference of American Catholics to in Spain, who have suddenly found their high sense of appreciation for the Mexican atrocities when dinner has borne in the defence of Verdun Before the conflict broke out the that the pass is very narrow and the while ?" It does him credit, it shows and, above all, the enormous sums ing the year on behalf of Catholic while ? It does him create, it shows good-will. But it shows something of money spent by them, have been Education and the Separate School A bouquet of fresh flowers stood in cucumbers and green onions to give Among the subjects that engaged an added relish to their repasts ?

the Canadian Armies, but of this school after the holidays, and that The former premier, however, insufficient number some are obliged she was preparing to make her asserts that "Spain must receive to return home broken in health First Communion. We drew from some further assurances from the from the fact that they have been on her the whole story of Bethlehem active service since the war began. and Nazareth, which she had in his forty-fourth year. In August sacrifices she may make on their Reports from the front indicate an learned from her mother. We were 1914, he offered his services to the ly an urgent request was received wife brought in her husband to alert and self-possessed. In the that she was of great assistance to during the present year has received him in outlining his plans. He was from the Government the star of the The Bishops reviewed the work of well informed, too, on current events Legion of Honor, and the Croix de of Senor Maura's success," says the Mr. Michael O'Brien, who one year and especially interested in their Guerre, both conferred upon him on

It was indeed an appetizing meal. ing citation from an army order :

Bishops was Mgr. Forbin-Janson, well known in Canadian and United States annals as a sojourner here, virtually an exile, for a protracted period in the early forties of the last century. Another was the great Cardinal Lavigerie, who, after resigning the See, became Bishop of Carthage and Primate of Africa, and in that capacity, not only dealt the death blow to Slavery, but helped to pacify the French protectorate of Tunis, and to inaugurate the new era of freedom and enlightenment on the hitherto "Dark Continent."

MGR. RUCH, who, should he survive the present War, will likely become the next Bishop of Nancy, was born in the town of Stanislas, of the unfortified parts of the city, in Lorraine, in 1873, and is therefore at the very moment that the German hosts, under the immediate command appalling need of priests and recent- quite deep in Theology when the military authorities and was of the Kaiser, were preparing for a gazetted as chaplain at the front, a which, however, was frustrated by position which he relinquished to the brilliant generalship of General return to Nancy at a critical period Seized of the seriousness of the course of our conversation we to aid in sustaining the courage of de Castelnan. The Bishop's words realizing that he could no longer situation the Bishops decided to gleaned that he was in love with his the population and to uphold the on that occasion had a telling effect upon the citizens in inspiring them to > MUCH HAS been said and written about the Catholic revival in France -a revival which as the War goes on seems more and more assured. It finds increasing exemplification in the character and influence of offi-THE PART which this soldier bishop cers in high command in the Army.

can be best described by the follow-the centre of the table. Everything himself, despite the eminence of his arms was not long in finding that may prove a difficult task. The like the three younger prelates men-Mgr. Turinaz, nearing his eightieth Bishops of France. Early in the war he mobilized his clergy for the purwas at his instance that his coadjutor, Mgr. Ruch, transferred his sphere of military service to Verdun. Mgr. Turinaz, in conjunction with the Prefect, and the Mayor of the city, rendered important service in keeping up the morale of its citizens during the bombardment of Nancy. And patriotic protest against the shelling explained.-Globe Oct. 13.

THE ROUMANIAN CR SIS

"At Predeal the enemy has been repulsed and has retreated to Timos. Tuis statement, contained in the Bucharest official report, shows that Roumania has won a breathing space that may enable her to concentrate a force sufficiently large to hold the Tomos or Predeal Pass until Russian troops can come to her aid. That the temporary check to his vanguard redoubled efforts in resisting the will cause the German leader to abandon his project of crossing the Transylvanian Alps and devastating the plains of Roumania is not at all His best and quickest probable. route to Bucharest lies southward along the railway from the summit of Predeal, and the guns necessary to force a way through the pass are doubtless even now being brought up and put in position. Photographs of the railway station at Predeal show ng citation from an army order : Office militated against the promotion "Charles Ruch, bishop, effacing of Catholic soldiers, but the nation in "Charles Ruch, bishop, effacing of Catholic soldiers, but the nation in are cleared of the Roumanians, and