Death of another Old Inhabitant.

Death has been receively busy with some of the elder inhabitants of the Provinces. Time is doing its work, and those who, like the ferest Oak, have stood the blasts of many years are passing away from this transitory scene. We here give the following rather remarkable account of Mrs. Elizabeth Dodd, who died at St. Stephen's, N. B., on the 21st ult.

"In the death of this aged person there is a volume of history leat. Living in great retirement the reliet of a forgotten age, few knew the stories aim could, tell of the brave old days. Born on board of a British ship of the line in the Bay of Bissay, eradled on the broad atlantic, her father killed fighting the battlet of George I.: she was cast an orphan on the shores of New-York. Thence carried to St. Augustine, her youth was passed in the sunny South. Here she married, and settled on the banks of the Alshamm. On the entherse of on the banks of the Alabama. On the outbreak of the war between France, Spain and Rauffeld, she, with other British settlers, were mad Epitial, she, with other British settlers, were mad Epitioners and transferred to New Orleans. After two years she was transferred to the Spaniards, and taken to the Castle of Vera Cruz, where she remained a like period, and was these taken to More Castle. the Castle of Vera Cruz, where she remained a like period, and was thence taken to Moro Castle, Havanna, where she remained until its capture by the British in, 1761. She was then released and taken to New York. During the first Ameri-can war, she followed her husband through the principal campelgae: was at many of the hardest longht battlessent Monmouth, White plains, York-town. &c. At the close of the American war, she town, &c. At the close of the American war, she came with the loyalists to this Province in 1753. Thus sleeps with her kindred earth, a mortal who had passed the age allotted to her fellows, by more than forty years, loaded with the weight of recollactions of other days,—of the sunny South, its assign laden with flowers, its beautiful summers, for the sunny south flowers, its beautiful summers, the sunny south flowers and other days.—of all the ane with their golden fruits;-of all the metance and glory of the age of war and arms, who had laid every companion, whether of glo-
