SAYS BULGARIA IS NO FOE OF U.S.

Minister to Washington Urges America Not to Declare War

(New York Times.)
There are two reasons why the United States should not declare war on Bulgaria, according to Stephan Panaretoff, the Bulgarian Minister to this country, the only official representative of any of the German allies still in American territory.

The two reasons offered by the minister are that Bulgaria is fighting for exactly the same thing that President Wilson has declared to be the object of the war and, second, that there is no chance that American and Bulgarian troops will ever clash in Europe. The first reason will be read with derision, no doubt, by the many members of Congress who resent the fact that they were not allowed to include Bulgaria and Turkey in the declaration of war on Austria. The second reason will be read with doubt and skepticism.

Mr. Panaretoff offered them in the course of an interview at the Bulgarian Legation in Washington on the afternoon that Congress passed the Austrian war resolution. In the course of the debate on that measure Senator Lodge resented the fact that there was any such legation in existence. He referred to it as a menace to America and her allies, said that it should be closed, and that its occupants should leave Washington and the country.

At the moment Mr. Lodge was speaking, Mr. Panaretoff was peacefully having his afternoon nap in the legation on Connecticut Avenue, and he had not heard of the Lodge speech at the hour of the interview. He had, however, read the speech of Representative Miller of Minnesota on the day before, declaring that the Bulgarian and Turkish representatives in America were furnishing information to the enemy. The minister resented that.

Mr. Miller of Minnesota, he said, "seems to be uninformed on the grave subjects that he would discuss in the American Congress. In the first place, there has been no Turkish representative in this country since last April, when Turkey and the United States severed relations. Mr. Miller, apparently, did not know that. He was equally far from the facts when he said that I was furnishing information to the Central Powers. Mr. Roosevelt has said the same thing. Mr. Roosevelt said that Bulgaria had gone with the devil. Well, he has a right to say that. It is a matter of opinion. But Mr. Roosevelt says because of information given to him this legation is furthering the interests of Germany. No honest man would say that without proof.

"As a matter of fact I have had no communication whatever with the American State Department for the last two years. I am completely isolated. It was only through unofficial sources that I learned of the death through your State Department and received your State Department from the King. That is the only official confirmation I have of the Queen's death, and that only has come to me from the Bulgarian King or Government in these two years."

As to what is to happen in the future between his country and the United States, the Bulgarian minister is no more at sea than are the Senators and Representatives who voted for the Austrian resolution unanimously, but with one exception, namely, that it did not include both of Germany's other allies, and with the declaration of the opinion that soon or later we would have to go to war with all the enemies of our friends.

The reason given for not declaring war on Turkey is that there are too many Americans in Turkey who would be massacred if it were formally declared that Turkey was an enemy country. But in addition to that, there were the hints that the President and the State Department were in possession of information to the effect that Turkey and Bulgaria were in the way of pulling out of the war together and making separate peace proposals.

Senator Lodge of the Foreign Relations Committee urged everybody to support the Austrian resolution as it was, and expressed the hope that nobody would disregard the wishes of the President by offering Turkish and Bulgarian amendments. But then Senator Lodge went on to make one of the notable speeches of his career, in which he expressed his personal regret that the resolution did not include the other powers.

"We must defer to the White House and the State Department," said Vice-Senator Marshall after the session, "Senator Lodge was expressing his own opinion. It is true it is the opinion of hundreds of thousands of others, but if everybody interferes with the Commander in Chief he will not have much left to command."
Senator Lodge and Representative Miller and many other members in both houses are, entirely without exception, in favor of Turkey voluntarily stop fighting. On that point the Bulgarian minister seems to agree with them, at least so far as his own country is concerned.

TWO THIRDS OF N. Y. SHIPS COALED
Only Seventy-One Vessels Remain of Over Two Hundred
By Courier Leased Wire
New York, Jan. 23.—But 71 ships remain to be coaled of the 200 or more in New York harbor, which had empty bunkers a week ago, according to J. P. Parsons, director of fueling of vessels here, representing the United States Shipping Board.
"Of these 71 ships none of consequence is being prevented from sailing for want of coal," said Mr. Parsons to-day. "Many of them are awaiting cargoes and therefore would not depart even had they already coaled. Seventeen ships were bunkered yesterday. We consider the coal situation satisfactory, considering the weather and other abnormal conditions with which we have had to contend."
New York, Jan. 23.—New York's many industries, closed for the last five days by decree of the National fuel administration, resumed operations to-day with the coal shortage still acute. The saving of fuel resulting from the closing order has been virtually nullified, fuel administrators declared, because of severe weather and storms that prevented the normal supply of coal from reaching the city. The six-inch fall of snow yesterday which almost prostrated fuel transportation was a discouraging culmination of a series of setbacks, from the elements and the administrators expressed much concern over the city's plight.
While the shortage of anthracite coal in the city is reported to be

WARDEN IN TWIN COUNTIES
By Courier Leased Wire
Brockville, Ont., Jan. 24.—David Dempster, Reeve of Front, of Leeds and Lansdowne, was elected warden of Leeds and Grenville yesterday.
Pottsville, Pa., Jan. 23.—Over-shadowing the inability of the railroads to move coal quickly from mine to market, a water famine has tied up several big collieries in Pennsylvania's anthracite field. About a dozen other collieries are worse than at any time since the famine began, there is a slight increase in the tonnage of bituminous coal and encouraging progress has been made in bunkering ocean steamers.
Despite the weather the freight situation continues to improve slightly, but the transportation officials declare there will be no marked improvement until conditions in the harbor improve.
One result of the closing order was that the schools received a fair supply of coal and as a result all the schools in Manhattan, except one, have been re-opened. Many of the Brooklyn schools, however, are still closed.
