Chinese Letter Carriers.

How many of our own postmen would care to transfer their services to the Chinese postoffice?

To get into postal service in China is not an easy matter.

In the first place an applicant must have strength and courage, and in order to gain these he must be prepared to undergo a very queer method of training. He must wander through mountains and valleys, forests and caves. The exact time to be occupied in a trip of this sort is fixed by the law and a very heavy fine is imposed for any unnecessary delay.

The would-be postman must repeat these trips at night and it is later to the bed "spirit" there by falling to appear at the required time at a specified place he is sure to lose his chance of being a postman.

But that is not all for he is obliged to carry enormous weights for many miles at a given time, though his road usually takes him through districts thick with bandits.

In training, the postman eats very little—though he is used to this—and tries every training exercise. Under comes his real examination, under the direction of the government

Stormy Weather Hard On Baby.

The stormy, blustery weather which we have during February and March is extremely hard on children. Conditions make it necessary for the mother to keep them in the house.

They are often confined to overheated, badly ventilated rooms and catch colds which rack their whole system. To guard against this a box of Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in the house, and an occasional dose given to the baby to keep his stomach and bowels working regularly. This will not fail to break up colds and keep the health of the baby in good condition till the brighter days come along. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Being a summer girl is pleasant, but she finally gets to be an autumn girl no matter what time of year it keeps at it too long.

The Terrible Year.

It is practically certain the year 1917 will be a year in which the victor in the war, even though it does not see the close of the struggle; and it is not likely to see it. There will be battles more terrific and sustained than that of the Somme, and weekly casualties mounting higher than has ever been dreamed of, for both sides must make their greatest and final effort. What we have to confront and overcome is very forcibly told by Hon. Winston Churchill:

"What of the fourth campaign, now starting upon the Western front—along all roads? It is now clear that Germany in 1917 will make an effort to escape the consequences of her crimes surpassing in its formidable proportions all that has gone before. Most we do not gather together all our strength, develop to its utmost intensity every resource, and bare ourselves to meet the new shock with foresight and new waves of power and fortitude? Let us above all things, not underestimate the effort that will be required to meet it and beat it down."

The German armies to-day are larger and more powerful than they have ever been. The number of divisions which Germany maintains in contact with her enemies has certainly risen in the last few months, and will probably be still further increased before the spring. They certainly cannot number now more than 225. The reserves of man-power which she has available with undoubted permit her to maintain these immense forces in continuous activity throughout the coming year. If the 1918 and 1919 classes of recruits each 600,000 strong, are not thrown in as thorough as they are, the German army will be better in the struggle to end. The moral principle of the war is the moral principle of the struggle to end. The moral principle of the war is the moral principle of the struggle to end. The moral principle of the war is the moral principle of the struggle to end.

Safe investments for women have been a speciality with Miss Stuart. From her retirement work she appears in the Outlook it will be seen that she has a variety of investments to offer at the present time—Middleton Outlook.

A Builder of Health.

Nothing can be of greater assistance in building up the system than Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. These pills purify the blood, strengthen the nerves, and restore the system to its normal state. They are a most valuable remedy for all ailments of the blood and nerves, and are especially recommended for women.

A Business Woman.

Among the fruit growers from Kings county who attended the gathering at Lawrenceville last week was Miss Annie M. Stuart, of Grand Pre.

Miss Stuart is a woman of self-reliance and unusual business ability. For over 21 years she has had charge of the register of deeds office in Kentville. Since retiring from this position she has been managing a fruit farm which she owns at Grand Pre. Miss Stuart has been a strong advocate of highway improvement and a few weeks ago was appointed superintendent of streets in her home town district that she might carry out the plans for road improvement she has advocated.

But fruit raising and road construction are only side lines with Miss Stuart. Her principal business is that of a stock broker. Fifteen years ago she began handling stocks for her friends and was very successful. Upon leaving the deeds office a year ago she took up the brokerage line as a regular business. Safe investments for women have been a speciality with Miss Stuart. From her retirement work she appears in the Outlook it will be seen that she has a variety of investments to offer at the present time—Middleton Outlook.

Fashion Notes.

The question of dress is like that of food—it is always cropping up anew. Fiercely people discuss it, denounce it and do everything but renounce it. The rights and wrongs of such a question are so many that there is only one thing left for each woman to do, and that is to dress to suit her pocketbook (supplies her). For the women who see no harm in new clothes and plenty of them, provided one can afford them, it may be said that the feminine sex as a whole is looking very nice indeed this winter. Women's clothes this season are becoming more and more practical, and although they are expensive they do not look so. You see few velvets and satins in ordinary everyday life. Everywhere you see cloth coats with a trimming of fur, generally indicated by the wearer as "rabbit" cloth tailor made, worn with a long or short fur cape, and a hat of velvet or beaver.

For a Better Boy.

Boys, girls only excepted, are by far the most important product of the country, and the crop on which least attention is bestowed. Some educators in England have recommended universal military training as a preventive of juvenile crime. General Baden-Powell pointed out some time ago that it was no panacea. Germany with the strictest and most elaborate military system in the world, he says, has made a record in criminal brutality. The main steps to civic efficiency, says Baden-Powell, are character and health. He believes rather in the cultivation of the spirit of honor and the development of individual initiative than in any system of iron-bound repression. He would like to see goodness made romantic and picturesque in the eyes of growing boys. There is one thing which admits of no doubt. In every city, town, village and country side a great work stands ready for the man who will take it up. Everywhere there are boys, and everywhere they need the guiding hand of a "Big Brother." Very few people recognize the full significance of the familiar gospel story or realize that a boy, and most probably a very young boy, was selected as a type of the ideal citizen, "the greatest in the Kingdom of Heaven." A boy's character is made up of the most splendid loyalties and enthusiasms. There can be allowed to run to evil as they can be converted to the health of the commonwealth. For those who cannot go to the war there can be no more necessary, no more patriotic task than to help in this work of boyhood conservation.

Getting Rid of the Ashes.

The fire in the human body is not unlike that in the furnace.

You cannot get a bright, hot fire until the ashes are removed. Neither can the vital organs of the body perform their functions while poisonous, waste matter remains in the system.

It is said that the human body generates each day within itself enough poisonous matter to kill the individual ten times over. had Nature not provided means for its prompt removal.

But the blood gathers up the waste matter—the ashes—and it is the special work of the kidneys to cleanse the blood of this poisonous material.

Since the liver, kidneys and bowels are intimately connected in this filtering and cleansing process, no one of these organs can fail without impairing the action of the others. For this reason the most satisfactory corrective treatment obtainable is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

By their combined action on the liver, kidneys and bowels these pills relieve and cure liver complaint, biliousness, kidney derangements, backache and constipation. By awakening the activity of these organs you remove the cause of headaches and indigestion, the blood is purified and you feel fine.

One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited Toronto.

Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations disappoint.

What Did You See Out There, My Lad?

John Oxenham, the well-known novelist, has blossomed out as the most popular poet of the war. He has written five volumes of verse. "Beaumont's Amber," "A Is Well," and "The King's Highway" which have had a sale of nearly 40,000 copies. But we give the latest poem from Mr. Oxenham's pen:

What did you see out there, my lad, That has set that look in your eye? You went out as a boy, you have come back as a man.

What was it you saw out there, my lad, That set such deeps in your eyes? Strange things—and sad—and wonderful—

Things that I scarce can tell; I have seen in the sweep of the Reaper's scythe—

With God—and Christ—and hell, I have seen Christ doing Christly deeds—

I have seen the devil at play; I have grumped to the sod in the hand of God;

I have heard the goddess pray, I have seen Death blast out and fly from a clear blue summer sky;

I have slain like Cain with a blazing brain;

I heard have the wounded cry, I have seen Death blast out and fly from a clear blue summer sky;

I have seen the spirit of honor and the development of individual initiative there is any system of iron-bound repression.
