Sensation at Ottawa.

The Boston Herald contains the following as a special from Ottawa: "The announcement that a messenger in the house of commons named Bell has entered an action against Sir Chas. Tupper, minister of finance, on behalf of his wife, for detective works he performed for Sir Charles, is causing a great sensation here. Bell is now publishing a pamphlet, in which he intends to show up the character of Sir Charles and a member of parliament named Colby, who were at one time boarders at his house, and promises to reveal highly sensational facts as regards the questionable lives these prominent political nen have led at the capital. The pamphlet will be published prominent political night maye led at the capital. The pamphilet will, be published in three weeks. Mr. Bell promises, in point of gensatior, to excel the late expose given to the public in one of the London journals.

London journals,
"The conduct of Sir Charles Tupper, dominion minister of figance, holding the dual position of finance minister and Canada's high commissioner at London, Canada's high commissioner at London, Eng., where he is now residing, is the audject of general comment here. The news of his having been reinstated in his old office as high commissioner, only reached here late to night, but it may readily be accounted for in the fact that he teared the expose of Mrs. Bell. His returning to London places him beyond the limits of Canadian jurisdiction."

General Clinton B. Fisk, whom all prohibitionists reckon among the presidents of the future, spoke in Minneapolis a couple of days ago. He said: "The result of the election next year will depend altogether on the labor movement, and if the workingmen should nominate a strong man it would weaken the democratic party more than the prohibition party would weaken the republicans. This would be emphatically true in New York. I should not be surprised to see an alliance between labor and prohibition in the next twelve months."
