self as London sees it, we strongly advise it to read, mark, learn, and inwardly digest what Mr. Lawson has to say upon its policy as a result of his recent exhaustive investigation of the whole subject during his visit to Ontario. It is a scathing indictment of a policy which has aroused, and rightly so, universal condemnation in financial circles in this country, and may yet prove costly to the Province which has endorsed it through the mouth of the Premier.

WON BY COURAGE

How a Magnetawan Hotel Man Got an English Bride.

(London Daily Mail.)
The courage of a girl who went to the rescue of a London constable has resulted in her romantic marriage to a Canadian who had never heard of her until the affair occurred, and read of it in a newspaper thousands of miles away. Here are the facts of this remarkable story:
On the night of March 14th, 1908, there was a disturbance in Carrou street, Clapham, where a police constable was being assaulted, not only by a man whom he was trying to apprehend, but by a number of the latter's companions. Seeing the policeman thrown to the ground and maltreated, Miss Ethel Austin, then a girl of seventeen, ran into the house into the adjoining street, blew the constable's whistle and seized hold of his assailant. He struggled violently with the girl, but she managed to hold him, in spite of a stinging blow between the eyes of a second policeman arrived.

On the following Monday, in convicting the man of assault on the constable, Mr. Horace Smith, the magistrate, remarked: "I am surprised that a young lady should have been so brave."
Sir Edward Henry, the Chief Commissioner, forwarded Miss Austin a cheque, with the thanks of the force, and here the young lady and her parents thought the incident had ended.

DANGER TO CANADA

War on Investment by the Ontario Government.

(Canada, London, Eng.)
One of the most alarming developments in the Dominion is the attack of municipalism from which the country is now suffering. Mr. Lawson has been able to study this question on the spot, and his naturally foresseous results are these: agitators are quite ready to serve those capitalists who have already provided services which they can certainly furnish as adequately and reasonably as any municipal body can hope to do upon a commercial basis.

To illustrate the evils attendant upon municipalism in its most objectionable form, Mr. Lawson devotes a lengthy article to the Ontario Government's power policy, in which he unreservedly endorses all that has appeared upon this subject in these columns. It is unpleasant to have to admit it, but, undoubtedly, every word of this scathing indictment of the action of all concerned in the setting up of a competitive system with the Electrical Development Company of Ontario is fully justified. Mr. Lawson does not hesitate to class the power policy of Ontario as of the dog-in-the-manger order. It is to be hoped that this scathing analysis of a chapter in Ontario's economic history which has aroused so much hostile criticism in this country, will be reprinted throughout the length and breadth of the Province, for it gives the financial world of London, through one of its leading daily newspapers, how unfairly the Electrical Development Company of Ontario has been treated throughout, shows that the efforts of the company to carry out the objects for which it was incorporated under both Dominion and Provincial charters have been persistently obstructed, and foretells two evil results if the power party is able to raise the necessary capital to carry out its iniquitous competitive scheme—wasteful duplications and unfair competition. If the Ontario power party wishes to see it

LURED AND KILLED GIRLS.

Capture of Man Who Enticed Away Seven Victims.

Promised Them Work on Farm and Attacked Them.

Took Shelter in Police Cells Between Deeds.

Chicago, Feb. 18.—Chicago was rid yesterday of a man, a human vampire, whose liberty threatened the safety of any young girl in the city who might be seeking employment.

The man confessed to one murder, that of 9-year-old Ella Schraeder, whom he attacked while she was carrying lunch to her father, who lives near Gary, Ind. Six young girls have identified him as the man who has enticed and attacked them within the last four months, and the police believe this number will be increased.

The prisoner, William Gagle, was captured by the South Chicago police after weeks of clever detective work. He was turned over to the authorities of Indiana and taken to the jail at Crown Point. His confession of the murder was made during the afternoon.
Gagle is a tramp. He has not worked steadily for nineteen years. He is audacious and shrewd, as shown by the fact that after his capture, most atrocious crimes he sought lodging for the night at the nearest police station.

There he accepted the hospitality of the police and watched their continued efforts to obtain some clue to the man who had killed or attacked little girls in the neighborhood. In the morning he would talk with the police about the crime before he departed.

Gagle is known not to have had $5 in his possession at one time in the last six months. When his fortunes were at their lowest he would seek out girls of respectable families, and with various stories of giving them employment upon a farm or in a small town induce them, with their parents' consent, to accompany him.

Leading the girls into the woods on the pretext that it was a short cut to his farm, he would attack them. Some escaped through the timely arrival of other persons upon the scene. Others were not so fortunate.

SOME OF GAGLE'S VICTIMS.

The known and confessed crimes and attempts at crime of the man are as follows:
Humboldt, May, enticed into lonely neighborhood, near Hammond, Ind., but escaped.
Kogel, Elsie, 17 years old, 1082 1/2 Avenue H; induced to accompany him to find work, Feb. 6, but became frightened and fled.
Rosa Marie, taken from Dearborn street employment agency, and enticed into woods near Hammond, Ind., but escaped.
Schraeder, Ella, 9 years old; attacked and murdered near Gary, Ind., Aug. 25, 1908.
Miss Katherine, 1082 1/2 Avenue H; attempted to attack her, but she escaped. Gagle became frightened and fled.
Urmanski, Stella, 17 years old, 8325 Houston avenue; led into woods Feb. 7 and attacked.
WELSH MADE, 15 years old, 8,042 street; enticed into woods, but rescued by man approaching in a buggy.

MAY FIX OTHER CRIMES ON HIM.

Besides those known cases, the police are convinced that within a few days they will be able to discover others. They are investigating several mysterious crimes against women in the light of Gagle's confession, and he will be asked about the cases.

The capture of the man was effected by Captain J. J. Halpin and Special Policemen Matthew McNamara and Michael Kane. Their first clue came from Ethel Barnette, of 303 Van Buren street, whom Gagle often visited after he had earned a few dollars.

"In common with the police of other districts we had been on the look-out for the murderer of little Ella Schraeder of Gary," said Captain Halpin. "Nothing definite was found and work upon the case had been practically dropped when we received the report of the attack upon Maude Wieland, whose parents live in our district.

"The girl told us a man had come to her with a boy, Charles Valentine, who lived in the neighborhood, and had said the boy told him she was looking for a position.

"In a lonely stretch of road he dragged her into some bushes alongside the road.

"Just then a man came driving along the road. The girl was crying and Gagle, after threatening her, stopped the carriage and said his sister would like a ride, as she was tired and crying. Before the girl was able to tell her story Gagle had disappeared. That night he slept in the Chicago Heights police station.

CASE OF STELLA URBANIAK.

"After I heard this story I put two men on the case and told them to keep at it until they found the man. While they were working the report came of the attack upon Stella Urbaniak, who also lives in this district.

"Her story was almost similar. The man gave the same name, but he said he was an undertaker and offered the girl a place in his office. She was lured to a lonely spot near Gary and attacked. As Gagle was leaving her a man came along with a gun. He had been hunting, but the girl feared to call to him and complain. That night when the entire country side was aroused Gagle was captured and obtained lodging at the Gary police station.

"Then in quick succession came the reports from the parents of the Kogel and Sells girls. Gagle found a girl who told him about Miss Kogel. He went to her house and talked with her mother

CARMACK HAD ENEMIES.

That is Being Brought Out at the Trial of the Coopers and Sharp.

One Witness Tells of the Nonchalant Bearing of Sharp.

Bloodstained Garments of the Slain Editor Are Exhibited in Court.

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 7.—The blood-stained garments worn by Senator Carmack when he was shot dead on the afternoon of November 9, 1908, were exhibited in court today, during the trial of Colonel Cooper, Robin J. Cooper and John D. Sharp, who are charged with his murder.

Throughout the morning and afternoon sessions the court room was filled with spectators. Mrs. Carmack, widow of the slain man, was present in the morning, but was not in court when the clothing of her husband was shown to the jury.

With Mrs. Carmack during the morning were several relatives, and among those seated in the immediate proximity of counsel for the State sat Samuel Carmack, brother of the deceased. Gathered around Mrs. Carmack were close friends, among them being several women.

One of the strongest bits of testimony offered to-day by the prosecution had to do with the alleged connection of Sharp with the killing. Miss Mary Steffington, State librarian, said she left the State library shortly after 4 o'clock on the day of the shooting and that she saw Governor Patterson and former Governor Cox in conversation. On reaching the corner of Union street and Seventh avenue, she said, she heard shots and just then seeing John D. Sharp, whom she had long known, she asked him: "What is that?"

"Shooting," Mr. Sharp replied. "Who is shooting?" I asked him, and he answered: "Colonel Duncan Cooper is shooting Senator Carmack."

The speaker was standing with his back to the shooters, the witness testified, and could not have seen what was going on. Miss Steffington said Sharp turned around and went back to the scene of the shooting with her.

Several witnesses were called to tell of the intense feeling which existed between the factions before the shooting.

L. A. Welch, a barber who shaved Sharp a few days before the election, said the defendant read the editorial page of Carmack's paper while in the chair and said, referring to Carmack: "The ought to be in hell."

W. J. Smith, an insurance agent, testified that Sharp had been made before the Senate contest in 1905, that "the country would be better if Carmack had been dead and in hell twenty years ago."

The defense on cross-examination asked if this remark had been made before the rise of Governor Patterson politically, but objection to the introduction of the Governor's name was sustained. In her ravings she repeated again and again the names of the women—among them that of Miss Agnes Barrett, her accuser—with whom she has been involved over the charge of stealing the race Irish lace she makes.

She also brought in the name of a man prominent in national politics, and the police are inclined to believe that the later developments of the crime were the work of a man. The door of the bath-room where she was found was bolted from the inside, and only a man could have crawled over the transom and escaped by the hallway.

GAGGED AND CUT.

Young Irish Lacemaker the Victim of a Puzzling Assault.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—One of the most daring attempts at kidnapping, brutal torture and possible murder ever perpetrated in Chicago was frustrated today when Ella Gingles, the eighteen-year-old Irish lacemaker now under indictment on a charge of stealing her own handiwork from the Irish lace shop in the Wellington Hotel, was discovered unconscious, partly dressed, bound hand and foot, gagged and almost dead in a bath-room on the fourth floor of that hotel.

Physicians revived the girl, and this afternoon from her hysterical ravings, was patched together a story of kidnapping and abuse. She had been dragged with lacerations on her face and arms were covered with cuts, as from a sharp knife. In her ravings she repeated again and again the names of the women—among them that of Miss Agnes Barrett, her accuser—with whom she has been involved over the charge of stealing the race Irish lace she makes.

She also brought in the name of a man prominent in national politics, and the police are inclined to believe that the later developments of the crime were the work of a man. The door of the bath-room where she was found was bolted from the inside, and only a man could have crawled over the transom and escaped by the hallway.

ANARCHISTS ACTIVE

Mrs. Parsons of Chicago to Deliver a Series of Lectures.

Winnipeg, Feb. 17.—The local Anarchist colony have brought Mrs. Parsons, wife of one of the men hung for the Haymarket riot in Chicago, here to deliver a series of lectures on that terrible tragedy. This colony has become remarkably active of late, and is carrying on a very vigorous campaign of propaganda. They number in all upwards of 200, mostly Russian and German Jews.

USED DYNAMITE.

Despondent Farmer Blows Himself to Atoms With Aid of Explosive.

Warren, Pa., Feb. 17.—Charles F. Hull, of Grand Valley, despondent and seeking death, committed suicide by blowing himself to atoms with the aid of dynamite. He placed fifteen sticks of the explosive in a horse pump, attached a battery to it and sat on the stump while he touched off the improvised mine.

Where the stump was there is a hole big enough to bury a brick house. The only portion of Hull's body recovered was found in a tree two farms away.

For some time Hull had been brooding over financial losses. His farm was to have been sold to-day by the Sheriff. Yesterday he hunted out a great box of dynamite which he had saved from blasting last year and, writing a note he pinned it to a tree near his barn, then went into the wood for a mile distant, to end his life in a manner which would leave no uncertainty as to the success of his suicide plan. The note which he left reads as follows: "On the day of the sale my troubles will be over. The same is postponed to-day."

King Alfonso is to leave Madrid for San Sebastian to-day, and from there he probably will go to Pau to witness the aeroplane flights of the Wright brothers.

"Then in quick succession came the reports from the parents of the Kogel and Sells girls. Gagle found a girl who told him about Miss Kogel. He went to her house and talked with her mother
