Miscellaneous and General News.

THE POPE'S ALLOCUTION.

The following is the full text of the Pope's Allocution:—
VENERABLE BROTHERS!—More than once, O Venerable brethren, exercising our apostolic office, we have deplored, either in our published letters or in direct allocutions delivered at your most august assembly, the affliction which has hung for a long time in Italy over the affairs of our very holy religion, and the very grave wounds inflicted on the Holy See by the sub-Alpine Government. Moreover, you must comprehend with what grief we are seized, now that we see that government, with a passion that is increasing every day, constantly attacking the Catholic Church in a wholesale manner, and all its sacred ministers; when we see, alas! venerable bishops, and the most virtuous clergy, both secular and regular, and other most excellent Catholic citizens, sent into exile by that Government, without the least regard for religion, justice or humanity, or thrown into prison, or condemned to forced residence, molested in the most unworthy manner; dioceses deprived of their pastors, to the great detriment of souls; virgins devoted to God taken away from their convents and reduced to beggary; two (2) dioceses, diocesan schools closed against the members of the clergy; the education of Catholic youths taken out of the pale of Christian discipline, and confided to the professors of errors and inequities, and the patrimony of the Church usurped and sold. That same Government, in contempt of ecclesiastical censures, and without paying the least regard to the sacredness of the sacraments, has introduced into the Church, and is introducing, a law respecting civil marriage, as it is called—a law contrary not only to Catholic doctrine, but likewise to the well-being of civil society. Such a law transgresses the dignity and sacredness of marriage. It destroys it as an institution and encourages a concubinage that is perfectly scandalous. In fact, a marriage cannot take place among the faithful without there being at the same time a sacrament. It belongs, therefore, exclusively to the Church to decide on everything concerning the sacraments. Moreover, that government, in an evident manner the condition of those who make public profession of religious vows which have always had, and always will have, force in God's Church, and not recognizing the very great advantage of the regular orders, which, founded by men of holiness, and approved by the Holy Apostolic See, have in an especial manner, in the present time, the honor of our Christian Republic, and civil liberty, by so many glorious labors and so many useful works—has not feared to sanction a law suppressing throughout its entire territory all religious corporations of both sexes. It has appropriated all their property, and a great deal of other property belonging to the Church, and has ordered that it be divided among those who are not members of the Venetian province, it did not hesitate to extend thereto the same law, and it enjoined, contrary to all law and justice, the total abrogation and annihilation of the Venetian Province, and the annihilation of the Venetian Republic, which was to come into being in the year of our Lord Jesus Christ, Francis Joseph, Emperor of Austria. Therefore, faithful to the very serious duty of your apostolic ministry, we raise your most august assembly our voice on behalf of religion, of the Church, of its holy laws, the rights belonging to this Church, and with all our strength we do, in the name of the Lord, condemn all and each of the things which, contrary to the Church, its laws and its rights, have been decreed, done and attempted by the sub-Alpine government, and by our apostolic authority we declare, and we decree, null and void, and without force or effect, all the aforesaid decrees, and everything that appertains to them. We likewise beg their authority, who glory in the name of Christians, to bear in mind and seriously to consider that they have unfortunately neglected the censures and excommunications inflicted by the Apostolic Constitution and the decrees of the General Councils upon whoever should attack the rights of the Church. You know, venerable brethren, that certain astute men oppose us and interpret in their own sense the blessings which we gave to Italy, when assuredly without any merit of our own part, thanks to the impetuous judgment of God, we spontaneously pronounced the words of pardon and peace out of love for the people of the Pontifical State. In the truth, full of solicitude for the welfare and happiness of the entire flock, asking by our prayers from God the good of Italy, we besought Him with fervor and humility that He might deliver her from the evil which afflicted her, and that the most precious gift of the Catholic faith might be allowed to us, already despoiled, and with the most manifest injustice, of several provinces of our Pontifical territory, that we should renounce our civil sovereignty and that of the Apostolic See. Surely every one must see how unjust and prejudicial to the Church is such a demand. By a singular arrangement of Divine Providence, as we have said on a former occasion, it happened that the Roman Empire having fallen and being divided into many kingdoms and diverse states, the Roman Pontiff, in the midst of such great variety of kingdoms, and in the actual state of human society, was invested with his civil sovereignty, in consequence of which, never being subjected to any lay power, he exercises in entire liberty, supreme authority and his jurisdiction over the Church, which has been divinely confided to him by our Lord Jesus Christ. And the faithful, with full tranquility of conscience and entire confidence, obey the decrees, warnings, and orders of the Pontiff, submit themselves thereto without ever entertaining the least suspicion that his acts are subject to the will or caprice of any Sovereign or any civil power. We cannot renounce the civil power established by the divine wisdom of Providence for the good of the universal Church. We are bound, on the contrary, to that government and to protect the rights of that civil power, and to comply strongly with the solemn promise of the government of the Holy See, as we have already done and as we do now remonstrating and protesting to the utmost of our power.

Every one knows that the bishops of the Catholic world have never ceased to defend with zeal, orally and in writing, our civil sovereignty, and that of the Apostolic See, and all have proclaimed that that sovereignty, especially in the actual condition of the affairs of the world is absolutely necessary to establish and defend the perfect liberty of the Roman Pontiff who feeds the Catholic Church—liberty which is so intimately connected with the freedom of the entire Church. These same men fear not even to go about crying everywhere—that we ought to reconcile ourselves with Italy—that is to say, with the enemies of our holy religion who boast themselves of having founded Italy. Behave, we, the appointed champions and defenders of our most holy religion and of the salutary doctrine of virtue and of justice, who have to watch for the salvation of all, march in concert with those who, not upholding the holy doctrine and refusing to hear the truth, keep themselves away from us—those who would never condescend to grant our desires nor to meet our demands, to the effect that so many dioceses of Italy, deprived of the pastoral consolation and protection, should have their bishops. Would to heaven, that all those who so vehemently oppose the church, us, and this Apostolic See, turning their regards and their souls to truth and justice, may be enlightened once for all, and thinking for themselves and looking to the good of their souls, moved by a holy repentance, may endeavor to come back to us. Nothing would be more agreeable to us than to go forward to meet them, following the example of our evangelical father, and to embrace them, rejoicing in the Lord that his children were dead and are alive, again, that they were astray and have been found. Then, indeed, it would be seen that our venerable religion, the mother of the fruitful nurs of every virtue, and the scourge of vice, conducts equally to the happiness of the individual and the welfare of all. Where religion and her wholesome doctrine prevail, there necessarily flourish all the virtues of manners integrity, peace, justice, charity, and all the virtues. Then people are not afflicted with those grievous calamities which unhappily weigh upon whosoever religion and its doctrines are recognized. By the deplorable facts related unceasingly and with pain, and by the sad contemporary events in Italy, everybody can easily see and divine to what perils this Apostolic See is exposed, and how it is the mark of the most bitter threats of rebellion, and the hatred of the unbelievers, and the anger of the enemies of Christ's cross. On every side are continually heard praiseworthy voices, which find a ready and desperate enemies, declaring that this city of Rome must share in this unhappy Italian perturbation and rebellion—may, must become its capital. But God who is rich in mercy, will, by his omnipotence, make the most impious councils and desires of our enemies abortive. He will ever permit this noble city, so dear to us, in which, out of His great and singular goodness, He has fixed the chair of Peter, the impregnable basis of his divine faith and religion, to return to that unfortunate condition so admirably described by our holy predecessor, Leo the Great, in which she found herself when, for the first time, the holy prince of the apostles entered this city, then the mistress of the world. As to us, even when deprived of almost all human assistance, faithful still to our mission, and confident absolutely in the aid of Almighty God, we are ready to combat without fear, even to the peril of our life, for the cause of the Church divinely confided to us by the Lord Jesus Christ, and if need be to remove there where we shall be able to exercise in the best manner our supreme apostolic mission. And seeing that such a horrible tempest our best and only support must be prayer, we address ourselves to all the venerable brothers and bishops of the entire Catholic Church, and to all the children of the holy mother Church, who have never ceased to lavish on us such striking evidences of love and respect, and come to our greatest trials and those of the Holy See; we beg of them more and more to offer constantly with faith, hope and charity, fervent prayers to God for the defeat of the enemies of the church and for their return to the path of salvation.

For, to all oravles of the words of Christianity, prayer constitutes a powerful arm—a great secret treasure—an excellent harbor—a very rare asylum—provided that, attentive and vigilant, we present ourselves before the Lord, and mind collected, and without leaving any access to the enemy of our salvation. In the midst of the deep anguish that afflicts us, we have a great consolation—knowing that God, who is great, who has no human support, effects more when His Church has no human support, most clearly His omnipotence and His divine hand, and come to confirm this truth, that the gates of hell will never prevail against the Church, which will always remain immovable, triumphing over its enemies, until the consummation of time. But it is exceedingly painful that it is not precisely determined that a nation shall always preserve the precious treasure of our divine faith and of our religion. In truth, there are many nations who have kept faithfully the deposit of the faith and the discipline of its masses; but, alas! they have been detached from the rock upon which rests the edifice of the church, and separated from him to whom has been given the power to confirm the brethren and to feed the lambs and the sheep, not agreeing amongst themselves, and enveloped in the darkness of error, they are in the greatest danger as to their salvation. And here we cannot obtain, by reason of our mission, from adverting, in the name of our Lord, all sovereigns and other governors of States, to examine once for all, and carefully to consider the very grave obligation they are under to endeavor that with respect for religion should increase amongst nations, and with all their strength to prevent the torch of faith from being extinguished amongst them. We, then, to the governors who, forgetting that they are the ministers of God unto good, shall have neglected to promote that worship when they could and ought— it is for them to fear and tremble when through their work especially they destroy the most precious treasure of the Catholic faith, without which it is impossible to please God. When they shall be summoned before the tribunal of Christ for the most severe judgment, they shall see what a dreadful thing it is to fall under the displeasure of the living God, and to feel his strict justice. Finally, we cannot doubt, venerable brethren, witnesses, and companions of our labors, appreciating your excellent and well-known religion, your piety, and your deep love for Catholicism, that you desire to unite your fervent prayers to ours, and to those of the whole Church, and earnestly to conjure the very gracious Father of Mercies, in order that through the merits of his only son, our Lord Jesus Christ, He
