THE THOUGHTS OF THEOBALD.

PROHIBITION.

Dr. Jones cannot understand that with almost everyone in Newfoundland a baptized Christian, there should be any question of the legalization of the campaign that seems necessary to ensure the success of the temperance cause in favour of Prohibition.

Those who say why penalize the moderate drinker for the sake of those who suffer so much through liquor, he gave a homely example from his garden. If it happens that in a garden there was a fruit which was poisonous and which, if eaten, would injure and destroy it, even if the other fruits could eat and enjoy it without injury. And the fact that some people imagine that Prohibition will bring a great many evils in its train would not influence anyone. If there is a social sore it should be removed. The prohibition movement is one of social service; it is of value in adding to the welfare of a community.

THE CHURCH AND SOCIAL SERVICE.

The activities of the Church in social service seem to be hindered by many opinions. One man thinks such and such, and another man begs to differ. One church represents the work of another, and a third church sees no virtue in the work of another denomination—and so goes on—all preventing work of practical nature being done, and leaving it to be done either by charitable societies or the State.

The Church seems satisfied to minister principally to the inner spiritual life and it is in the exclusive following of this, that, in my humble opinion, has brought about conditions in church life about which clergymen and others unfortunately have to complain in these days.

One man says that if you find a defective man—you must first feed him, clothe him, and then lodge him.

and teach him cleanliness and the blessing of work.
There is the definition of Religion in the Old Book which lays down the law that it is in visiting and caring for the poor and afflicted that pure and undefiled religion can be found. It seems evident that without service to our fellowman first, our worship is far from acceptable to the Creator.

THE WORLD.
Now to my mind the Church does not sufficiently realize to what little purpose it speaks when it simply points men to live right and to dare to stand for the truth. It does not sufficiently enter into the domain of worldly affairs and see for itself the conditions in which men are working to supply themselves and their families with food and clothing.

It does not inquire into the making of a business man and see if the product bears any resemblance to him from whom the Church takes its name.

It needs to interfere in the world just as much as He did, and it has to pass through suffering and trial as He did in doing so.

The Church ever flourished most in the days of martyrs and our complicity of these days bears fruit in the condition we find to-day—when those who have most influence in the Church, and who use this influence are these not particularly distinguished for the strength of their piety as for the length of their pocket-books. The Church's advance is checked by this very thing.

AFTER THE WAR.
With the accounts we have heard of these terrible atrocities by the Germans, a good many people are crying for the extermination of the whole German population. Truly the tales are horrible, but I am reminded of a story of Abe Lincoln.

It was after the Civil War and one of Lincoln's men was making a speech to a crowd out of the window, and Lincoln's boy Tad was sitting behind him.

"What shall we do with the Rebels?" said the speaker.
"Hang 'em!" cried the people.
"No," says Tad, "hang on to 'em."
And, as Lincoln said, the boy was right.

A baffled design and a check where they least expected it have brought the very demon in the Germans to the fore, but heads will cool, and it is neither Christianity teaching nor according to missionary enterprise to say that any peoples, from savages up, are incapable of reform and regeneration.

"Hang on to 'em!"

A WAKING DREAM.

A vast Cathedral dimly lit by one solitary lamp, which only served to make the shadows longer and deeper. The altar glowed with the rich dull red of the hangings.

The pulpit, strangely empty, was strangely eloquent of a purified figure within it.

A few dark figures in a pew here and there listened to the organ as it rolled its sound among the massive arches.

Bright strains, soft strains, triumphal strains, and once a funeral march echoed and re-echoed.

It was a strange world, but a calmer world as the music went on, and then came quietly and gently the opening bars of the Russian Anthem and in the twilight gloom a figure stood and then another.

Patriotism—love of fatherland, love of Home—it is a deep feeling.
Then the more joyous Marseillaise, and last "The King." Ah! if some Kielit instead of stood and prayed that all the petty national pride should perish and that the day of His Kingdom should soon bring in one commonwealth—one Brotherhood—can it not be understood?

The organ ceased.

TRUE UNTO DEATH.

To-morrow is the anniversary of the Battle of the Nile (1798), when Nelson found the French fleet anchored in Aboukir Bay and entirely destroyed it. This victory isolated the French Army in Egypt and so made an end of Napoleon's scheme for the conquest of India. One of the most thrilling episodes was the blowing up of the "Orient," the French Admiral's flagship. Young Casabianca, a boy about thirteen years old, son of the Admiral, remained at the side of the ship had taken fire, and perished in the explosion of the vessel, when the flames had reached the powder.

Mrs. Hemans has perpetuated the story in her well-known lines:
The boy stood on the burning deck,
When all but he had fled;
The flame that lit the battle's wreck
Shone round him o'er the dead.
The flames rolled on—he would not go
Without his father's word;
That father, faint in death below,
His voice no longer heard.

He called aloud: "Say, father, say
If yet my task is done!"
He knew not that the chieftain lay
Unconscious of his son.

"Speak, father!" once more he cried,
"If I may yet be gone!"
And but the booming shells replied,
And fast the flames rolled on.

He shouted but once more aloud,
"My father! must I stay?"
And o'er him fast, through sail and shroud,
The wreathing fires made way.

There came a burst of thunder-sound—
The boy—oh! where was he?
Ask of the winds that far around
With fragments strewed the sea!

With mast, and helm, and pennon fair,
That well had borne their part;
But the noblest thing that perished there
Was that young faithful heart.

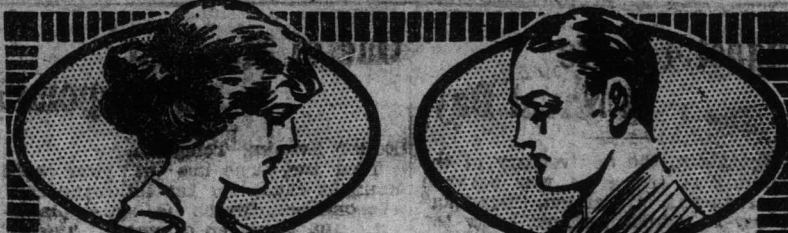

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

Here is a new quilt which will surely hold baby's attention and keep his chubby legs from a creep of investigation across the nursery floor. It is made of soft pink and white silk muslin. The center is of the pink and border of the white.

From the white muslin about twelve or fourteen cats have been cut out in silhouette fashion and have been applied around the pink center with a heavy embroidery silk. They have a few lines suggesting whiskers, nose and feet are also embroidered with the pink silk and the eyes are glittering pink glass beads.

If these bead eyes are objectionable for a particularly inquisitive baby, they may easily be omitted and embroidery eyes substituted. The whole cover is quilted carefully by hand over the softest of fillings. If the cat does not appeal to your esthetic sense, try bunnies or a procession from Noah's Ark to please his lordship.

The wide collar of organza is most becoming. It can be worn with almost any plain dress and adds distinction.

Are you Run-down?

When your system is run-down by worry or over-work—when your vitality is lowered—when you feel "anyhow"—when your nerves are "on edge"—when the least exertion tires you—you are in a "Run-down" condition. Your system is like a flower drooping for want of water. And just as water revives a drooping flower—so Wincarnis gives new life to a "run-down" constitution. From even the first wineglassful you can feel it stimulating and invigorating you, and as you continue, you can feel it surcharging your whole system with new health—new strength—new vigour and new life. Will you try it?

Begin to get well FREE.

Wincarnis is made in England, and you can obtain it liberal free trial bottle—not a more taste, but enough to do you good, by sending 6 cents stamps (no pay postage) to COLMAN & CO., Ltd., Wincarnis Works, Newnes, England. Further supplies can be obtained from all leading Stores, Chemists, and Wise Merchants.

Agents for Newfoundland—Messrs. MARSHALL BROS., Water Street, St. John's, Newfoundland.

At the City Hall.

Messrs. Anderson, Ayre, Macnamara, Bradshaw, Mullaly, McGrath, Morris and Withers attended last night's meeting of the Civic Commission.

In the absence of the Chairman, Mr. Anderson presided.
Communications from J. P. Blackwood were read relative to the property of Miss Knight on Leslie Street, the McLoughlin property on LeMarchant Road, the Cochrane Street Church property on Flavin Street and Capt. Greene's property on LeMarchant Rd. In the matter of the Cochrane Street Church property a bill for $100 was sent to cover rent for 3 months' occupation of the Flavin Street property since the Council, he alleged, had promised to surrender the same on May 1st. The various matters will receive due consideration.

C. J. Fox, Sec. Society for the Protection of Animals, called attention of the Board to the fact that several horses in the city are suffering from sore throat, which is attributed to the condition of the drinking troughs, and asked that the troughs be disinfected and a better flow of water be secured. The matter will be attended to.
J. & P. Davey applied for permission to erect a concrete office for housing brooms, the structure to be fronting on O'Dwyer's Cove. Referred to the Engineer.

Tenders for plumbing under the Smith's Arms and for painting under the Smith's Arms and T. H. Stevenson. That of T. H. Stevenson was accepted.

P. Doody applied for a street line near property at the corner of Golf Avenue and Mundy Pond Road. The Engineer will report.

The Commercial Cable Company acknowledged receipt of the Board's letter as to the backfilling of trenches cut for cable extension to the city and promised to attend to the matter.

J. Lidstone applied for permission to put a tent by the side of LeMarchant Road for the sale of refreshments and intimated that the tent would be removed every night. The matter was referred to the Engineer.

A petition signed by 18 shopkeepers on the north side of Water Street was presented to the Board asking for a reconsideration of the arrangements for the placing of cab horses along that side of the street from Prescott to Queen Streets. The petitioners claimed that the proposed arrangement would be a source of much inconvenience to them, and if the Council could not procure a suitable cab stand, suggested that the horses be distributed along both sides of the street. The matter will be taken up by the Cab Stand Committee.

The matter of public lavatories for the city was discussed at considerable length, and it was decided that remedial measures be taken immediately. In this connection, Mr. Macnamara called the attention of the Board to the fact that many of the principal stores on Water Street are not supplied with proper lavatories. A rigid inspection of these places will be made and the law dealing with the same will be enforced.

G. Browning & Son complained that the railway of Browning's River was being closed by the making of a dump. Referred to the Engineer.

With the adoption of the various reports and the passing of pay rolls the meeting adjourned at 10 p.m.

Yesterday was spent at drill indoors under the direction of Instructor Hussey. The recruits are making satisfactory progress, and most of the men in training are now supplied with kit. In the absence of the doctors of the regiment, Dr. Chater, of H.M.S. Calypso, has examined the recruits who recently arrived from the city and have not yet been examined. These will report at the Armoury this evening and receive instructions as to the examinations.

What Are You Doing for that Eczema?

"Nothing. I've about given up trying to cure it."

"That is not wise. Do as I did and you will probably be cured in a short time. I used Zylex and Zylex Soap with it and my Eczema began to improve at once. A couple of boxes cured it. You can get Zylex at your druggist's."

This is to certify that fourteen years ago I got the cords of my left wrist nearly severed, and was for about nine months that I had no use of my hand, and tried other Liniments, also doctors, and was receiving no benefit. By a persuation from a friend I got MINARD'S LINIMENT and used one bottle which completely cured me, and have been using MINARD'S LINIMENT in my family ever since and find it the same as when I first used it, and would never be without it.

Personal.

Mr. George Eustace is in receipt of a cable from his son, Lance-Corporal Thomas Eustace, of the 5th Canadian Mounted Rifles, stating that he arrived at Plymouth safely on Thursday last. Lance-Corporal Eustace was studying for the Church of England ministry at Leamington, for three years, and enlisted in March last, and received his military training at Valcartier. We wish the young soldier a successful career and a safe return.
