The British Lion.

L'Homme Libre (Paris): To-day one can measure the tenacity of the British Lion. In a whole week the enemy has only succeeded in obtaining the results which he had appointed for his first day's rush alone! Honor to the brave Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, whose clearness and cool-headedness with the management of his army in this formidable trial have saved the Allied fortunes in this memorable epic. Honor to his brave officers whose names we hope will soon be made known to the admiration of the people, and glory to that heroic Grand Army of Great Britain, and to the magnificent youth of her soldiers, of whom said one of her officers, "the sight alone made the heart beat, when at the first breathing space one saw true resolution and serenity on their faces?"

Fads and Fashions.

The soft schu, such as the Pilgrim women wore, is fashionable.

The newest coats for children have collar and cuffs of gingham.

Some of the new hats are so trimmed that they seem overdone.

Self-covered buttons add smartness to the narrow tailored skirts.

White velvet makes the richest and most become of wedding gowns.

Loose serge canopies rival the directoire tunics with floating panels.

Bright Empire green and many bright yellows are in favor for spring.

There is a great deal of shirring used in fashionable little girls' longsleeved hats.

A small buckle here and there is sufficient trimming for a tailored dress.

Cotton foulards are among the four corner-stones in cotton dress goods.

Very decorative silk or wool em-brollery appears on coats of soft pile fabrics.

A polka dotted material makes an attractive lining for a cape of plain material.
