BURT & LAWRENCE.Execution of*Sir Thomas Moore.

On July 6, 1535, Sir Thomas More was beheaded on Tower Hill, a deed that was regretted by the whole nation, except the king, whom it covered with lasting infamy. More was born on Feb. 7, 1478, and as a boy resided in the house on Cardinal Morton. From there he went to Oxford and afterwards became a lawyer, a scholar and a wit. He lived in a beautiful house at the foot of Battersea Bridge where he was very happy with his family, who were learned, accomplished and charming. But Henry VIII, finding his knowledge and advice very useful, wanted him at Court, and compelled him to reside in the palace. When Wolsey fell More became Lord Chancellor and the greatest man in England. He fulfilled his office admirably and was esteemed as the wisest and best judge who had ever occupied that exalted seat. He would have preferred to live in retirement with his family and their friends and visitors, among whom were Erasmus the scholar, and Holbein the painter, for he understood the character of the king, and had a presentiment of what would happen. More was a strong Catholic, and when Henry divorced his queen and married Anne Boleyn against the pope's will, More resigned his chancellorship. Henry resolved not to let him off so easily, and imprisoned him in the Tower, on oath being tendered to him requiring him to declare the king's marriage lawful. He would not agree, and so was condemned to death and executed. His body was interred first in the Tower and afterwards in Chelsea Church, his head being stuck on a pole on London Bridge, where it remained daughter Margaret, bribed or perjured fourteen days. His favourite persuaded one of the keepers to throw it down, just as she passed below in a boat. She caught it in her lap and preserved it in a leaden box. Thus perished one of the wisest and best of men, because he opposed the will of a wicked king.

German CommanderSAYS REPORTS OF MASSACRES WERE NEVER EXAGGERATED.

In the trial at Berlin of the Armenian boy who shot Talaat Pasha it was brought out in the testimony of Marshal Liman von Sanders, who commanded the German forces in Turkey during the war, that the reports that sickened the world were not exaggerated; that the total number of unarmed Armenians slaughtered by official orders exceeded 1,000,000.

It was further brought out by the testimony of Prof. Lepsius, a German representative in Armenia at the time, that Talaat's commands were to kill everybody, even the children in the orphanages. Talaat was so eager to get the gruesome news that he had been obeyed that he telegraphed: "Wire me how many are dead and how many still alive!" Talaat was no such butchering monster as this partner and agent of Germany.

What is to be done with Liman von Sanders and with those at Berlin who gave him his instructions? He knew and they knew what had been done and who did it. The German general is still unrepentant. At the trial he sought to excuse the massacre and was treated with great respect.

It is not enough to acquit the boy who killed Talaat. In the clearest manner, by proceedings in their own courts, the Germans are fully informed. If they continue to honor a criminal such as Marshal von Sanders confesses that he was and is they confess that the worst charges made against the German people are true.

New York. (By Canadian Press).—The New York branch of the Circumnavigator's club, which has headquarters in all parts of the world, and which is composed of explorers, sailors, big game hunters, and other men who have travelled around the world, attended a recent performance of the "Dumbells" in "Biff Bing Bang" at the Ambassador theatre. The Dumbells are considering a plan for a tour of the world next winter, and it is the intention of the club to extend welcome to the Canadian soldier-actors in the leading cities of Asia, Australia and Africa.

ROYAL HONORS GIVEN DUTCH STEAMER.

Riga, June. (Canadian Press).—Honors such as are usually accorded to Royalty or to officials of high rank were given the Dutch steamer Alexander Polden when she arrived at Petrograd recently. The steamer brought the first large cargo of food that has entered the harbor for about three years, and as she passed Kronstadt she was saluted by the battleship Marat, while Russian sailors lined the decks and cheered. The Dutch captain dipped his colors while the ship's band played, and the vessel steamed direct to the dock and began to unload her cargo of herring. With years of starvation at the back of them, the workers at the dock, by day and night shifts, unloaded 5,350 barrels of the ship's cargo so swiftly that the next day twenty carloads of herrings were despatched to Moscow while the rest left for distribution in Petrograd. Only the day before she arrived the Economic Life wrote as follows about Petrograd:

"The fate of the city is so tragic that no comparison can be found in the world's history. The immense mortality of Russia during the past few years may be regarded as far more tragic than the fall of Pompeii."

Since the Alexander Polden made port, two more steamers have arrived at Petrograd carrying 17,000 barrels of herrings, which were quickly unloaded.

DENOUNCED DIVORCE BILL.

London, June. (Associated Press).—America was described as "the happy hunting ground of divorce" and "the home of divorce" by the Rev. A. V. conference "to adhere to the principle of the indissolubility of Christian marriage."

The Rev. Mr. Magee denounced Lord Buckmaster's bill in Parliament for divorce reform, saying it could adequately be described in two titles, "Divorce While You Wait" and "Marriage on Trial for Six Months." An amendment to the resolution that the conference should pledge itself to adhere to the teaching of Jesus Christ concerning marriage was lost.
