Baby Week

This week a great deal of consideration is to be shown to the most important citizen in the community, the Baby, and we feel certain that the active interest which is being taken in the movement will have a beneficial effect in more ways than are anticipated. The appeal which has been made for funds and for supplies to equip the emergency hospital is meeting a ready response because the object is one that every person has closely at heart, and because the need for such an institution is generally recognized.

To-day Baby Week proceedings will be opened in the Star Hall by Vice-Admiral Sir Frederick Field at 3 o'clock, and Lady Allardice will deliver an address. Exhibitions and demonstrations have been arranged for each day, and those who attend will find much that is both interesting and instructive.

The work of equipping Waterford Hall is proceeding apace, but as yet is far from complete. We have been asked to-day to make an appeal for four additional cots which are urgently required, and we feel certain that the generosity of our citizens will readily respond to the request.

The movement for raising the standard of the health of the children is a matter which concerns not only the private individual, but the authorities, both Government and Municipal, and we are glad to learn that the latter are taking steps to make the streets "fit for the children to play in." The responsibilities of the Government embrace a wider field, but one of their first considerations should be the means of providing the people with the essential foods at prices which are far less prohibitive than they are at present. Child Welfare workers and the doctors will continue their struggle in vain unless and until the poorest can purchase the necessities of life at a reasonable figure. The high cost of living to-day not only prevents the householder from purchasing supplies, but the drain on his resources makes any outlay on the upkeep of his property, which is equally essential to health, a practical impossibility.

Sunday Visitors to the Squadron

A considerable number of people went out to Topsail yesterday in spite of the weather to visit H. M. S. Hood. There was also several special parties, including the Nfld. Highlanders, under Lieut.-Col. W. H. Herder; the C. C. C. under Lieut. L. Hickey; the Girl Guide Rangers, under Mrs. John Campbell; 1st, 4th and 6th St. John's Troops of Boy Scouts, under Scoutmaster E. H. D. Willis, H. Crocker and R. H. Ayre; 1st Nfld. Sea Scouts, under S. M. Furlong, and 1st St. John's Pack Wolf Cubs, under Miss Stead. The blustery wind made the passage over the bay somewhat unpleasant, and the downpour of rain did not add to the comfort of the visitors, but they made light of such circumstances and were delighted with all they saw and the kindnesses which they received.

The Rev. Dr. Campbell Morgan

AT GOWER STREET CHURCH.
 (L.O.M.)

The visit to our city of a preacher of the Rev. Dr. Campbell Morgan's ability is worthy of more than passing note, hence we devote full space to his opening services which were conducted at Gower Street Church yesterday.

That the interest was deep, was manifested by the large congregations which attended, and by the intense eagerness, and close attention which was to be observed on every face. The services began well, and the congregation at once caught the inspiration of the hour. Hearty singing and earnest prayer formed the keynote all through, and it may be safely assumed that the spirit of last night will continue right through the week.

The Rev. Dr. Robinson, who is in charge of Dr. Morgan's tour, opened the services, and he also preached at the regular service of 6.30 p.m. Dr. Robinson is well adapted to conduct such services, and as a preacher he has excellent talent. He is a gentleman of high ideals, and of sympathetic touch in his language, and his message last night will not soon be forgotten.

But it is Dr. Morgan that the public want to learn of, for he is the centre of attraction. First and last, Dr. Morgan is a master mind, and in all his utterances he carries conviction. He is truly an expositor of ability, and has at his finger's end the great facts of sacred history, and is also in touch with the real conditions of the day, and to all that he says, he applies his deductions. He puts his finger upon the danger-spots of society, and recognises the weakness of national and international life, and in language firm, clear, and emphatic, states his case. His message is for the hour, and well would it be for the church as well as for the nation, and for the nations, if such principles as he maintains were adopted. The world needs such a message as Dr. Morgan has, and it would seem that such a man is raised up to be heard. The old prophets were men of outstanding, and they cried halt to the people when they forgot their duty. The world is not yet beyond the need of such men as the prophets, and there is no doubt whatever that if Dr. Morgan were rated in his true role, he would rank as a prophet of the twentieth century. Such men have been raised up in every age of the Christian era, and at different times and under special conditions, they have declared their message. Those men were heard, Kings, potentates, and powers bowed to them. All history teaches that. It would be a great thing for the world, if its leaders, could hear the voice of such men and if they would listen to them. The remedy for the world's ills lies not in contention, nor in war, nor in compromise, but in the adoption of the teachings laid down by the Son of God Himself and contained in the Golden Rule. These principles shone out in all that Dr. Morgan said.

For his first discourse he took that beautiful text of the Old Testament as recorded in Zechariah where it speaks of the boys and girls playing in the streets of the city. Upon the beautiful ideal Dr. Morgan built a structure chaste and Christ-like. His words were fitting to the week upon which we are entering, in an special manner, inasmuch as he paid high tribute to the rights of the child, and movement. His words applied with equal timeliness to civic life, and to the congested conditions of large cities. The streets should be fit for the children, and the children should be fit for the streets. The prophet's figure was in reference to the time when the world shall be renewed, and when mankind will be as God meant they should be. The address was full of great thoughts, and scintillated with ideals at once worthy the loveliness of child-life, and worthy the good man who uttered them.

The evening discourse was of a wider scope than that of the afternoon. The subject was based upon the command of God to the Israelites at the Red Sea, that "they go forward." The story was reviewed in detail. The situation was vividly depicted. The impossible appeared—that is as far as human agency went. But there was a higher power than the human. There was the power of God. By this power the people were delivered. The impossible seems to be facing the world to-day. Only one power can avert a crisis. The same power which saved Israel of old. But we cannot write further. Suffice it to say that the opening of Dr. Morgan's mission was truly helpful, and that a great week is in store for the people.

Four Cots Required

In connection with the equipment for the Emergency Hospital for Children the Child Welfare Association have issued an appeal for four additional cots. There are many cases which require immediate hospital treatment and as the accommodation is not yet available it is impossible to admit the patients at present. The appeal, we feel certain, will not be made in vain.

Personal

Amongst the passengers by S.S. Susu from the northward this morning there arrived Miss Madeline Bryan of Tilting. This young lady has been for the past fourteen months, an employee of Messrs. Barle Sons & Co., with the firm's branch at Tilting, and has lately resigned her position to take up a course of studies at St. Bride's College, Littledean.

Obituary

MARY ANN HERALD.

There passed away, this morning, at 2 o'clock, after a short illness, Mary Ann, beloved wife of Capt. George Herald of H.M.C. Deceased had been in failing health for some time, but was not taken seriously ill until Tuesday last. Hope was held out for her recovery up to the last, but God willed otherwise, and the Angel of Death hovered around and took the soul of a loving wife and a devoted mother, whose loss will be keenly felt. Left to mourn are a husband, two sons and three daughters, Mrs. Hiccock and William residing in Boston, and at home Capt. Norman, Mrs. Arch LeMessurier, and Mrs. W. H. Bartlett, to whom deep sympathy is extended. Funeral takes place on to-morrow, Tuesday, at 2.30 p.m. from late residence, 93 Bond Street.

On that happy Easter morning All the graves their dead restore; Father, Sister, Child and Mother Meet once more.

Personal

Amongst the passengers by S.S. Susu from the northward this morning there arrived Miss Madeline Bryan of Tilting. This young lady has been for the past fourteen months, an employee of Messrs. Barle Sons & Co., with the firm's branch at Tilting, and has lately resigned her position to take up a course of studies at St. Bride's College, Littledean.

A Distinguished Lady Doctor

Amongst the recent visitors from abroad to this city is Doctor Theodosia Spring-Rice of New York, U.S.A. This lady has a very extensive practice in a wealthy residential section of New York City. Dr. Spring-Rice is the niece of William Little, Esq., an eminent and well known citizen of Montreal, Canada, and who for many years has been closely identified with the forestry of Canada and the United States, and is an honorary President of the Forestry Associations of both countries. Mr. Little has contributed many articles and much valuable information to leading magazines on the forestry of Canada, the States and Newfoundland. We wish Dr. Spring-Rice an enjoyable stay in the city and trust she will return to her home with favourable impressions of Newfoundland.

Susu in Port

S. S. Susu, Capt. Kean, arrived in port at 4.30 this morning from the northward. The ship left here last Tuesday on the Fogo mail service and made all ports of call. Capt. Kean reports the fishery in the vicinity of Fogo and Tilting to be much improved on the other grounds, and boats are securing from ten to fifteen quintals daily. The weather for the past week has been favourable, with the result that operations have not been hampered. North of these places the fishing is practically over. The Susu brought a full cargo consisting principally of fish and oil. The following passengers also arrived: Capt. W. C. Winsor, Messrs. Dwyer, Miller, Perry, Higgins, Martin, Luthorne, Brown; Messdames Burke, Roberts, Miller; Messrs. Coffin, Bryan, Roebath, Normore, Perry, Winsor, Smith, Butt, Abbott.

Horse and Cart Stolen

A horse and cart owned by Mr. Thomas Butler, Portugal Cove Road, was stolen on Saturday night from in front of T. & M. Winter's premises, Duckworth Street. The owner left the animal standing by the curb whilst he went to a nearby grocery store to make some purchases. Mr. Butler spent all Saturday night looking for his outfit and up to this morning has found no trace of it. The matter has been reported to the police.

Importers' Association

MEETING THIS AFTERNOON.
 A concert by the massed bands of the visiting Squadron forms part of the programme arranged for this week, but unless a half holiday is granted by the Importers Association the opportunity of enjoying this musical treat will be lost. There is a considerable feeling that the Importers who are to be understood meeting this afternoon, should accede to the wishes of the many and proclaim a half day.

Knocked Down by Runaway Horse

Whilst proceeding home to dinner to-day Miss Edna Hennebury of Cookstown Road was somewhat badly injured by a runaway horse owned by truckman Harry Boyles. The young lady received a nasty cut over the left eye in addition to other injuries to her head and legs. She was taken to a house on William's Lane where Dr. Grievie was called in attendance. The horse was captured near Barto's Hill after colliding with a building.

Dr. Murphy's Condition

The condition of Dr. John Murphy, whose serious illness from Infantile Paralysis was reported on Saturday, showed slight signs of improvement during last night. There was a slight relapse, however, this morning, but the physicians who are in constant attendance trust that they will be able to pull their patient through safely.
