THAT IS NEWSLONDON BASEBALL CLUB HAS SIGNED AN INDIAN PITCHER

His Name Is Zabell and Those Who Have Seen Him Play Say He Is a Second Bender—Pancritz Has Also Signed—Many Youngsters Coming in the Spring.

BY JINX.

The London baseball team has signed an Indian pitcher. His name is Zabell, and he is a full-blooded Sioux who has been playing for the United States Indian reservation at Pine Ridge, South Dakota, and according to some newspaper clippings that he sent when he wrote the London management, he is some pitcher.

Last summer he played with the Cheyenne (Wyoming) team, and he cleaned up on about everything that came along. His pitching began to attract attention, and clubs from the South Michigan and New York State Leagues were hot-foot after him, but London beat them to it, and Mr. Zabell will be seen heaving the horseshoe in the Canadian League this season, while his mainly form is included in a London uniform.

Those who have seen the "Big Chief"—yes, we might as well call him the "Big Chief" now as later on—work, say that he is a second Bender, and with a little more experience he will be fit for the big leagues. He and a little more experience he will be fit for the big leagues. He and a little more experience he will be fit for the big leagues.

Another player who has signed up for next season, is Pancritz, the speedy little centre-fielder, who made such a good showing when he was with London last summer. He made 59 runs in 56 games and batted .302. He was suspended by the London management because he failed to be on hand one morning when wanted. He was by far the fastest sprinter on the team, and the local fans will welcome his return.

Lots of applications are coming in from ambitious young players, and it will be the policy of the management to give them a chance to make good, rather than to hang on to the old players, who have been in the league for years. It is not that the management is not willing to give a chance to the new players, but it is the way of all things, and is just as true of baseball as it is of any other calling. Sentiment cuts no figure; it is results that count in sport.

First, it will have a tendency to develop young players, who are now side-tracked and deprived of an opportunity to get "tryouts," because the places they should occupy are filled by "castoffs" of the major and higher leagues, who have seen their best days in fast company, and are now only eligible to membership in the "down and out" club. It is tough on the old fellows, in fact, it is pathetic; but it is the way of all things, and is just as true of baseball as it is of any other calling. Sentiment cuts no figure; it is results that count in sport.

True, an oldtimer may go out one day and put up a gilt-edged brand of ball; but the next day he couldn't hit a balloon if it is thrown at him, nor catch a ball with an umbrella. It is just because he can't be depended upon to do the correct thing at the right time. He is inefficient, but he does not think so. He thinks that he is just as good as he ever was, and that's the pity of it! He wants to "stand in the sun" until his sun sets for good; instead of stepping aside for the younger, stronger and surer player, who is entitled to a show in the "big league," and who can be depended upon to deliver the goods every time he is called upon.

Second, there is another reason more potent for his exit, and that is his value as an asset to the club owner. The "has been" is a dead loss for the club owner. The only chance to make any money in minor ball is the opportunity of selling players to the clubs higher up; and in that instance the old and worn out, discarded players are "junk" pure and simple, while the competent youngsters are always in demand.

Did you ever know an athlete as old and decrepit, that he would admit that he was near the bottom of the "barometer"? Jim Corbett would not admit it; neither would Jeffries, Longboat, nor any of the other "champs" admit that they couldn't "come back," but there they are and the race is over.

That old saw, "the race is to the swift and the battle to the strong," is just as true in baseball as it is in any other field of endeavor; and for that reason the "Canoe" league clubs are endeavoring to engage young, active, virile players, who will put vim and snap into the game, and when the season closes be a valuable asset to the club owners. To the old fellows: Farewell; rest in peace; in your time and generation you played many positions well—go home and dream of better and happier days.

BOAT WAS VICIOUS

Magistrate Denison Agrees With Inspector Kennedy and Imposes a Big Fine.

APPEAL MAY BE MADE

National Sporting Club Officers Claim That Boat Was a Fence—Men Fought Like "Old Women."

Toronto, Jan. 30.—The National Sporting Association was yesterday convicted by Magistrate Denison in the police court of "conducting a prize fight," and of holding a boxing contest without a police permit. The penalty imposed in the first count was the minimum fine of $50 or 30 days in the common jail, and that in the second count a nominal fine of $1.

The case was heard against James F. Fitzgerald, the secretary of the club. Magistrate Denison gave the defendants a week to consider the matter of appealing to a higher court. His worship intimated that he was registering the convictions in order that the men might be taken again to the same place to fully test the law and the club's liability.

The witnesses for the prosecution were Staff Inspector Kennedy and Assistant Staff Inspector McKinney, the evidence of both of whom were very strong against the accused. They characterized the Flynn-Williams bout as "vicious," and said that the men fought like "infuriated bulls."
