Electing a Mayor.

TWO OR three years ago Guelph decided to adopt the English plan of having the mayor elected by the members of the city council, following their election by the voters at large. It is the same plan followed by the county councils in the selection of wardens.

Complaint has become so outspoken in Guelph, apparently, that the council has found it necessary to bring the matter up again, with the result that the decision has been reached to allow the people to vote on whether they prefer to return to the old plan whereby a mayoralty contest will be the leading attraction in the civic contest each year.

Rightly or wrongly, the average ratepayer attaches considerable importance to the election of a mayor. There are bound to arise certain crises in the history of any municipality where the feeling will call for some outstanding man to come in and head the council. It may be that he has had no previous municipal experience, but has been an outstanding success, and his very presence lends a certain amount of confidence to the doings of the administrative body of the city that could not be secured as quickly in any other way.

Apart from that phase of the situation, there are many electors—in fact the majority of them—who like to have a direct say in the naming of the mayor. They probably feel, under the Guelph system, that they are voting entirely in the dark, and that it is possible for the aldermen to select a man for mayor of whom they would never approve.

Guelph, Chatham and other centers are doing excellent experimental work in trying to arrive at the ideal system of managing a city. They deserve the thanks of other places which, while recognizing the defects of present systems, have neither the desire nor the courage to seek a method to improve them.

Cattle Embargo.

THE BANNING of Canadian cattle from the British market is attracting the attention of old country papers. An extract from a Scottish paper has been forwarded by a reader of THE ADVERTISER with the matter in question deals with the effect on the standpoint of its effect on the coming elections, and says:

"With the considerable probability of a general election in the near future, the Canadian cattle question is again coming into prominence.

"There might be little new to be said on the matter but for one circumstance—that of Ireland, a nation." This circumstance raises an intensely interesting time-lapse in the law of the crown hold the popular opinion that the new status of Ireland places her in a line with other colonies within the meaning of the act of 1896, then some legislation is necessary if the supplies of store cattle from Ireland, upon which Britain, unfortunately for herself, is at present so largely dependent, are not to be cut off.

"And if legislation with regard to Irish store supplies is to be carried through there can be no support for the favorite argument against legislation in respect of Canadian supplies—that parliamentary time is so fully occupied for it. Both matters can be dealt with at one time, and such measures taken as may give due protection to home stocks against disease—precautions which, so far as the foot and mouth disease is concerned, are obviously much more necessary in regard to Ireland than Canada. The position of South Africa, too, with its resources of Friesian blood, will probably also have to be considered.

"The real obstacles all along have been the desire for protection for their industry on behalf of Irish and home breeders. The influence the latter were able to bring upon our permanent officials, and the political power which the former wielded through their representatives at Westminster. The opposition of the home breeders is still to be reckoned with. Again, fresh hope for the future lies in the new Irish situation, which withdraws the parliamentary power formerly exercised by Ireland.

"But the home opposition remains to be dealt with, and it is here that real propaganda work is necessary if material results are to accrue. Fine speeches and strong writing will not bring in the Canadians. Although their exclusion may be contrary to reason and opposed to justice, 20 years of defeated effort have made it clear that they will only be admitted if the will of the public, who hold the fate of governments and political parties in their hands at general election times, is so clearly impressed as to necessitate the wrongs being righted.

"The ultimate issue lies not with farmers or butchers—the latter, indeed, while rendering strong lip service to the movement for removal, have done anything but strengthen the case for it by their recent actions. It lies with the consumers, who demand cheaper beef. The battle will be decided in the industrial constituencies. If the society which has charged itself with propaganda on behalf of the free importation of Canadian cattle will see to it that in every industrial centre prospective parliamentary representatives are pledged not only to support if introduced, but to insist on the introduction of, legislative measures to admit Canadian stores, then real victory is within sight. Until that is done the issue remains undecided.

"As a first measure towards complete success, the legal aspect of the embargo imposed by the act of 1896,

Here We Have Items of Local and District Interest.
As Recorded in The Advertiser of 1897.

THURSDAY, FEB. 23, 1897.

Weather—Fair and colder.

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the British America Assurance Company was held at the company's office, Toronto, on Saturday last.

The president, Hon. George A. Cox, occupied the chair, and Mr. P. H. Sims, who was appointed to act as secretary, read the annual report.

The vice-president, Mr. J. J. Kenny, seconded the adoption of the report, which was unanimously carried.

The following gentlemen were elected to serve as directors for the ensuing year: Hon. George A. Cox, J. J. Kenny, Hon. S. C. Wood, S. R. McKinnon, Thos. Long, John Hoskins, G. C. L.L.D., H. M. Pellatt, R. Jaffray, A. Myers.

At a meeting held subsequently, Hon. Geo. A. Cox was elected president and Mr. J. J. Kenny vice-president.

The Pastime Baseball Club of this city has taken the initiative in the matter of organization. The players will take up their positions as follows: A. Pinnel, catcher; S. Cook, pitcher; M. Carney, pitcher; N. Wanless, first base; F. Hoxey, second base; S. Lee, shortstop; W. Carrothers, third base; James Begg, left field; Thomas Carroll, center field; Joe Leach, right field; T. Breen, pitcher.

A fine game of hockey was played last night between the teams called the Dominions and the Hurons. The members of these teams are all residents of Talbot street north—few of them over 12 years of age. Arthur Holman captained the Dominions and John Carling, Jun., the Hurons. The latter won by 6 goals to 0. The teams were:

Hurons. Dominions.
W. Reid, forward; G. Mattinson, K. Hammond, forward; G. Robe, J. Adams, forward; B. Powell, R. Elliott, forward; J. Owey, G. Harkness, c. point; A. McGinnis, J. Carling, point; A. Holman, R. Inglis, goal; B. Essery, Referee—Gordon Craig.

The spare man for the Hurons was E. Hyman.

The annual meeting of the Liberal Association was held in Arkona yesterday afternoon. President Jos. Hall as it affects Ireland in its new situation, should be strongly emphasized, and an official view on the subject insisted upon. That Canada, with its glorious record of war service to the mother country should be placed in an adverse position to any other self-governing colony in constructive legislation appears inconceivable.

That Brave Choir.

THEY DO tell that in Belleville churches on Sunday night an electric storm arrived in time to interfere with the anthems in the services.

In some churches the songsters were going along nicely when the power went off, the lights died out, the organ ceased to moan and throb—in fact the whole thing just simply petered out and died right there.

One choir was a bit more fortunate than some of the others, and they hopped along and finished their course.

Most excellent, indeed.

It may be, though, that the choir on that particular occasion had one of those much-warbled selections that could be worked out on the congregation just as well in the dark as under the glare and sparkle of the white lights. Each and every choir has such selections. The singers themselves are always sure half the congregation is going to rise and join in when the opening bars have been blown out by the organ.

But we like to hear of these choirs that are not easily disturbed. The rumble of thunder would simply be a challenge to the basso section, while the flash of the lightning would call forth gusts of brilliance from the tenors. The pouring of the rain would add a touch of realism to the sobbing notes of the alto, while the slamming of doors and rattling of windows would call forth efforts such as the soprano never dreamed they owned or possessed.

By all means, salute that Belleville choir that sang on through the storm, without light, without organ, or without the conductor shaking his fist at the male section and winking at the ladies.

LITTLE 'TISERS

Galt Reporter has an article with the right start to it, viz.: "Galt Gets a New Industry."

Some estimates this year should not only be pared to the bone, but a chunk of the bone cut off, too.

Now comes Old Timer with predictions for an early spring. With February pretty near worn out, said Old Timer is not subjecting his reputation as a weather prophet to any great strain.

During the evening, songs, recitations and gramophone selections were given by Messrs. Norman Lockhart, M. McKeough, Mr. Leitch, J. Breen, Thomas Breen and Mr. Jones. The committee in charge of the affair were: Bro. J. M. Breen (chairman), M. F. O'Mara, Wm. Dwyer, Andrew Kenny and E. A. Pocock.

The fact that signatures to many of the letters cannot be read. Well, what of it? It's away out of date to sign your name so people can tell what it is. Say it with scrawls and pretty soon you'll be referred to as a big business executive, or as a man whose time is very valuable.

The murder of JAMES JOHN McNAB of Guelph was avenged by jail sentences of five, fifteen and twenty years, to the four men found guilty. The element of justice in the case is that all implicated were punished, although it was a clear case of murder, calling for the usual punishment for that crime. The sentences are more uniform than in the case of the Sabine murder at Toronto, where five men were connected with the death of the druggist. Two were hanged, two sent to jail, and one got off free. It would have a very salutary effect on the criminal mind to have it well established in this country that each individual in a robbery or assaulting group is equally guilty and responsible for a death that may be caused by one single person in that group.

PRESS VIEWS

Dodges the Fiddler.
Ottawa Journal—Up near Carp there is a clever boy who has made a violin with a pocket knife. Some day he expects to be a fine player, but while he is in the primary grades or the initial process, so to speak, we prefer to edge over to this side of the county.

A Fighting Editor.
Toronto Telegram—The Bullock case is big in principle, but not in detail. The evidence so far mentioned indicates that under Canadian law, in a Canadian court, the crime charged against Bullock, if Bullock is guilty of any crime, would not call for more than a $25 fine for assault and battery or for carrying a concealed weapon. If this country has ceased to offer the shelter of British justice and Canadian fair play to humble but honest and hard-working men, then Canada is already demoralized by fear of United States' opinion and should cease to fly the British flag.

Here's a Puzzler.
Calgary Albertan—The Albertan cannot quite understand the argument that because the province cannot prevent bootlegging, when the legal strength of beer is not more than 2 per cent, that therefore it could prevent bootlegging if the legal strength of beer were increased to 7 or 8 per cent.

Likewise the Spade.
Vancouver Sun—Not the man with some money; but the man who, having no money, wants to go to work and make some money, at wages the farmer can afford to pay, is the man to let into Canada. The man with a hoe!

We'll All Stand Back.
Winnipeg Free Press—Henry Ford and the International Harvester company have got into a price-cutting fight on tractors. Across the line they are calling it the "billion dollar war," because the combined resources behind the rival organizations total that amount. The public is standing by and giving them plenty of room in which to fight.

Freight Rates Hurt.
Calgary Herald—The effect of high freight rates on the purchase of natural products in the various provinces of Canada, for example, the utilizing of the fruit and fish of British Columbia and Alberta and Saskatchewan, and of Alberta's coal and dairy products in British Columbia, provides a problem to be solved by the government traffic experts. The prosperity of many Canadian industries, the cost of living for the Canadian people and the ultimate solvency of the Canadian railway system, are largely involved in the solution of it.

TO THE EDITOR

INCOME TAX.
(This letter was received by the district income tax inspector from St. Thomas.)

Sir—Will you oblige me by informing me through The Advertiser whether a widow is listed as married, and entitled to $2,000 exemption? Yours very truly,

J. M. Ans—A widow is entitled $1,000 exemption, except under the following circumstances, when required to file $2,000 exemption: (1) If her husband died during the year for which she is reporting, then she is considered a married woman and allowed $2,000 exemption. (2) If the widow has no dependent children under 21, she is allowed $2,000 exemption. (3) If the widow has dependent parents or grandparents, she is entitled to an exemption of $2,000. But if the widow receives $1,000 income, whether she is entitled to $2,000 exemption or not, she is obliged to file a return in order that her claim for exemption may be less than $1,000 she is not required to file a return unless specially requested to do so by a letter from the inspector of taxation.

CALL A HALT.
Editor Advertiser:
Sir—I notice that Trustee Udy of the school board says that if the city council insists on the people having a voice in the school program of expenditure which the school board has outlined that the board will go ahead and spend the money on a cash basis. Thus the people would have to pay the total in one year.

Did you ever hear such poppycock? Does Trustee Udy think he can get away with such a move? Does he forget that he was only elected as a servant of the people to look after their interests and not to dictate? A good servant is one who obeys his master, and Trustee Udy will dance just the same as others when his master starts cracking his whip, which will soon come if the board ever tries to pull such an insane act as Mr. Udy suggests or boasts of.

Citizens of London, let us get together and put a curb on this little autocracy that is being set up in our midst. It costs a high rent for a man to live in his own home today. Does the school board intend to drive us out of our homes entirely? The majority of the fathers of today only have a few dollars to bath in, instead of $120,000 swimming pool, and if their sons are ever as good men as their fathers, they will have nothing to apologize for.

Why saddle the people of today with the school program of tomorrow? London is today ten years ahead of its time in its school program. M. P. J.

READ YOUR CHARACTER

(By Digby Phillips.)

NO. 132—FUSSY HANDS.
Did you get a letter in your mail this morning in which the writing was restricted to a limited area in the middle of the page, with generous margins to either side?

If you did, the left-hand margin probably was a bit wider than the right. And if you did, you probably read the letter with a frown, and I think, in such fashion could only come from a certain type of person.

Such a person is inclined to be both easily offended and easily offended. He, or she, is also quite self-conscious. Oh, no. You might not think it upon casual observation. It is not necessarily the kind of self-consciousness which betrays itself in evidence of embarrassment. You know it is quite possible for a person to be completely self-conscious and yet, under the surface, self-conscious, quietly smug, and what others are thinking and saying of him, or her.

Such people have a pretty good sense of the artistic, at least so far as neatness and harmony go. But they're quite fussy over little things, and seriously concerned with details.

COMMON SENSE WAYS TO KEEP WELL

If You Work With Muscles Watch Your Calories!

BY DR. R. H. BISHOP.
HE man whose work keeps him continually exerting his muscular power has a greater total energy requirement than a sedentary man. Muscular work is usually of the "active," "moderate," "active," or "severe" type.

Light muscular work is not much more vigorous than walking at a moderate pace along a level stretch of road. It requires about one calorie a pound every hour.

Moderate exercise is typical of occupations that involve active use of some part of the body while sitting, standing or walking.

Such activity means the expenditure of from one and a quarter to one and a half calories a pound every hour.

Active exercise requires the expenditure of from one and three-

Wellington County Girl and Farmer Face Unique Marriage Tangle in Courts.

PARENTS FROWN ON UNION

Husband Claims Youthful Wife Is Kept From Him Against Her Will.

MOUNT FOREST, Ont., Feb. 22.—Wellington County's marriage tangle promises to establish a precedent at Osogode Hall. At least that is the opinion of S. Clarke, barrister, of Mount Forest, who today secured from Mr. Justice Mowat on behalf of Alexander Arnold, a farmer of Arthur township, a writ of habeas corpus. This was served on Mr. and Mrs. William Moore.

Moore is a blacksmith of Teviotdale, and must produce Azelia Edna, an eighteen-year-old daughter, in court in Toronto on Friday. Arnold claims she is his wife, and says they are keeping her from him.

Mr. Clarke declares that there has been no previous case similar to the Arnold one in which application was made by the husband to have the wife produced.

Arnold is at present in Mount Forest residing with relatives, and convalescing from an illness, during which, he alleges, his wife was taken from his farm near Arthur under threats.

On Monday, during a police court hearing at Palmerston, he had only a glimpse of his young wife, who has been accompanied by her father. No words passed between them, and Mrs. Arnold returned to the home of her parents at Teviotdale.

A Native of Wellington.
Arnold declared today that he was forty-two years of age, and had been born in Wellington, Ontario, and had reddish hair and complexion and blue eyes. Arnold was born and raised on a farm and has resided in Wellington county all his life.

"I believe the writ of habeas corpus is right," declared Arnold. "I want to do the fair thing and I want to see it fought out. I married the girl believing her to be eighteen years old. I always did the fair thing, but I never thought I'd be in the jail like this. And I think my reputation through this country is all right and will withstand any questioning."

Arnold recounted how he had met his wife last April. "She used to come to see me down the road where I was working," he said. He was then living at Hollingshead's, about a half mile from the Moore's home, and was engaged in work on the provincial highways. He was never much acquainted with her, but they became engaged, he said, in July or August. Arnold boarded at the Moore's home in October.

The wedding was solemnized by Rev. Ernest A. Slack, rector of St. Paul's Anglican church here. Arnold produced the certificate, which reads: "On the fourth of January, 1932, were married Alexander Arnold of the township of Arthur and Azelia Edna Moore, of the township of Minto, by me, Ernest A. Slack, rector of St. Paul's, Mount Forest." Witnesses were R. N. Craig and Edna May Slack. The couple were married at four o'clock in the afternoon in St. Paul's church and four persons were present at the ceremony.

"After the wedding," continued Arnold, "we went to her place and spent the night there. I told them we were married. We did not get a very good reception. We then went to my sister's home for two or three days and finally to my own farm, and then I was taken sick and Dr. Motil had me sent to a private hospital. My boy Ira, who was working the farm, came over with her to see me, and on one occasion she told me her father had been at the farm and persuaded her to go."

Were Very Happy.
Arnold was asked how his wife appeared after the wedding. "She could not have been in better spirits," was the reply. "We lived there from the 4th until the 23rd. Everything could not have been happier and she always said she would not go back to live at Teviotdale, either for good or bad."

Discussing her age, Arnold declared he was never very good at remembering ages. "There is my own family," he said. "I never had their ages or my own in my life. 'It is a shame she is so young,' he added. 'If this had come when I had been there they would not have got her. She fought hard against going.'"

Several ribs are broken and internal injuries are feared.

DRY FORCES OF WORLD TO MEET

WESTERVILLE, Ohio, Feb. 22.—A world prohibition congress, attended by delegates from practically every nation, probably will be held in Toronto late in June, officials of the national headquarters of the Anti-Saloon League here said today.

The exact dates and place for the holding of the convention will be determined within the next two weeks, officials of the league said.

"Crime and Folly" to Squander Health

It was the famous Dr. Johnson who said: "Health is so necessary to all the duties, as well as the pleasures of life, that the crime of squandering it is equal to the folly." Yet, the average person squanders health every day, by neglecting to eat the kind of food essential to the human system.

Grain foods are vital to good health. Most cereals, through refinement, lose all the fibrous and the darker, more nourishing parts of the grain, which provide the elements to regulate the digestive system.

ROMAN MEAL, the cereal combining three whole grains, gives these vital elements that others lack. Taken every day, it builds and repairs body tissues, prevents indigestion and positively relieves constipation.

fourths to two calories a pound every hour, while severe work requires fuel equal to as much as three calories a pound every hour.

Thus we can see that to classify and work out the best food plans for each one of her family the housewife would have to do no little studying and reading. It would keep her continually figuring and consulting books on nutrition.

The study of calories in relation to food values makes a good study for the dietitian or the woman who has the time to make this study a practical hobby.

But the average housewife has no time to bother about such things. The baby, the growing child, the adult man and the adult woman all have different requirements of fuel energy.

The best tests to ascertain whether food is properly chosen is the test of good health. If the baby gains weight normally, if the child shows evident signs of normal growth and health, if the adult man and woman retain a normal weight for age and height, then all is, as a rule, well.

PARIS WOMAN, RUN DOWN BY CAR, IS SEVERELY HURT

Sustains Broken Ribs, Crossing Slippery Road in Front of Auto.

PARIS, Feb. 22.—Miss McVicar suffered a severe injury last night when she was run down by a car bearing license number 104-914, and driven by a man named Anderson of Paris.

Miss McVicar was crossing the road from a party at the Dunn residence on the way to her home when the car, bearing it, is claimed, headlights, struck her, throwing her to the ground. Fortunately the car was not going very fast, and was soon stopped, but before Miss McVicar was dragged several feet.

The driver claimed that he did not see her owing to the rain and ice on his windshield, and she, apparently, did not hear the car coming. Two youths who were passing and witnessed the accident, ran to her assistance, and together with the driver of the car carried her to her residence.

Several ribs are broken and internal injuries are feared.
