MRS. C. A. STEWART BELIEVES IN VOTE

Wife of Minister of Interior
"Does Her Bit" in Political Arena.

Mrs. Charles A. Stewart, wife of the minister of the interior, who is taking an active part in her husband's campaign in West Edmonton, was not "born to politics," like some others of the wives of cabinet ministers, but ever since her husband got into politics she has "done her bit" to help him along in his career. She has pronounced views as to the place of women in politics. One day last winter she was at a gathering in Ottawa when the conversation turned upon the subject.

One lady present (the wife of a Conservative) declared:

"I think it would be better for women to let politics alone. If they don't vote, at least they don't do any harm."

To which Mrs. Stewart quickly rejoined:

"Would you call it a day well spent if you sat down in the morning and folded your hands and in the evening said: 'Well, I haven't done anything, but at least I haven't done any harm?'"

Nobody was left in doubt concerning her views as regards the proper use of the ballot by women. Mrs. Stewart is, by the way, a native of Midhurst, Simcoe county, and has twice visited her childhood home since the fortunes of politics took her and her husband to Ottawa.

MRS. CALVERT SPEAKS TO TECUMSEH MOTHERS

Members Hold One of Finest Meetings—Entertain Teachers of School.

The best and largest meeting ever held by the Tecumseh avenue mothers' club was held last evening in the school, with the president, Mrs. J. F. Calvert, presiding.

The feature of the evening was an address by the president on her attractive summer home in Algonquin park, which was illustrated with many fine views of the cottage and surrounding territory, while she told of the birds, flowers and wild animals to be seen there at all times of the year.

Entertain Teachers.

The evening was also the occasion of the entertainment of the teachers of the school by the mothers. A reading was given by Miss Jean Metcalf, and Miss Elsie Kerr, who was privileged to spend some time with Mrs. Calvert at her summer home during the holiday months, gave a piano number.

During the meeting it was announced that the girls of the domestic science department of the school were going to have a sale of home-cooking on Nov. 6 to raise funds for the screen and lantern being obtained for use at the Tecumseh avenue school. Another aid to this aim will be the tea for which Mrs. E. Pewes, McClary avenue, is loaning her home on Nov. 12, when the children in her district will entertain.

President Speaks.

Mrs. Turner, president of the London Union mothers' club, who had just returned from Toronto, brought a message from the meeting of the Home and School federation there on "International Thinking." J. T. Parkinson, principal of the school, took the opportunity last evening to introduce the new assistant principal, S. A. Young, to the mothers.

At the conclusion of the evening a social time was enjoyed. The hall was most attractive with Halloween decorations.

Peter Starts Tour of Investigation To Find Where Ruddy Mouse Lives

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

It really was most unkind of Ruddy the Red-Backed Mouse, to invite Peter Rabbit to call on him at his home and then say that he was going home that very minute and actually disappear right in front of Peter's eyes. But this is what he did. Yes, sir, he did so. It seemed to Peter that he just vanished in the most mysterious manner.

One instant he was sitting there in front of Peter, talking to him, and the next instant he had disappeared. You see, with that little red coat of his it was a very easy matter for Ruddy to disappear amongst the red leaves on the ground. He just slipped in amongst them and then kept perfectly still.

"Hold on, Ruddy! Wait a minute!" cried Peter. "Wait a minute and I'll come and make that call right now."

Ruddy sat perfectly still and kept perfectly still, although down inside he was chuckling. Of course it was a noiseless chuckle. He could see Peter staring eagerly in this way and that way and every way. Peter looked right at Ruddy without seeing him, and Ruddy wanted to laugh right out. Finally Peter began to hunt all about. Once he sat down back to Ruddy so close that Ruddy could have pulled the long white hairs in Peter's funny short tail. But he did nothing of the kind and presently Peter gave up. That is, he gave up hunting for Ruddy and started to hunt for Ruddy's home.

When Peter is by himself he sometimes talks to himself. There are many people like Peter in this respect. His head, he said Peter, "this Ruddy's home isn't far from here. Anyone with such short legs isn't likely to travel very far. I ought to be able to find his home without any difficulty at all. He may be smart in hiding himself, but I don't believe he can hide his home so that I can't find it."

It was right then that Peter discovered that he didn't know where to look. More than once he had seen Ruddy sitting there in a stump. This means, of course, that Ruddy could climb. Peter thought of Whitefoot the Wood Mouse and how Whitefoot sometimes hid his home in a dead tree. Could it be that Ruddy did the same thing? On the other hand Ruddy's nearest cousin, Danny Meadow Mouse, seldom did much climbing and nearly always built his home in the ground, or sometimes in the ground. Could it be that Ruddy did as Danny did? It was right then that Peter realized that he didn't know where to look.

He began by looking in all the stumps and dead trees for holes. He found several, but he had no way of

ROYAL CIRCLE GIVES EXCELLENT CONCERT

Local Artists Delight Audience at Centennial United Church.

One of the very finest concerts ever given in the Centennial United church was presented last evening under the auspices of the Royal Circle class of the Sunday school, of which Mrs. Joseph Calkins is the teacher and Miss Eva Reid the president.

The artists of the evening were Miss Rose Tuck, contralto; Harry Henderson, tenor; Douglas Hoover, baritone; Miss Isabel Mortimer, reader; Miss Dorothy Cahill, violinist, and the Misses Edythe Belmont and Gladys Udy, who rendered piano duets.

From the opening selection right through the program to the finale the interest of the audience was held. They responded to the songs of the soloists with much enthusiasm and were held in wonderment with the violin selections. Miss Mortimer charmed with her readings and caused many a hearty laugh.

The pianists excelled themselves for the occasion. Miss Udy was the accompanist of the evening as well.

An outstanding delight of the program was the Sunday school orchestra under the direction of Gordon Mills. With much harmony they played many favorite numbers and received in return a great deal of applause, as did the other artists of the evening.

Rev. Hazen, pastor of the church, acted as chairman.

Following the concert, which was presented in a room where palms and mums made an effective background, the entertainers of the evening were delighted to be entertained by the class to a social time and dainty refreshments.

BIRCH W. A.

The regular monthly meeting of the Birch W. A. was held recently at the rectory with a good attendance. Miss A. Scott, the president, occupied the chair. The study book, "The Church of Christ," introduced by Mrs. Shore proved interesting to all.

A portion of it is to be taken up at each meeting.

The autograph quilt not being finished as soon as expected, nothing definitely was decided in regard to the sale of it. The treasurer gave her report and also showed samples of W. A. Christmas cards, for which she received a number of orders. At the conclusion of the meeting the hostess served a dainty lunch and a pleasant time was spent in social intercourse. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. C. M. Hoyle.

KERWOOD W. M. S.

Kerwood, Oct. 22.—The October meeting of the W. M. S. of the United church was held recently at the home of Mrs. J. H. Richardson with about 20 present. The president, Mrs. Brunt, opened the meeting, and all repeated the apostles' creed. The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Nichols, and two of the Heralds responded with interesting clippings.

The devotional leaflet was read by Mrs. George Johnson, and Miss Irene Eastbrooke favored with a beautiful solo.

Mrs. J. H. Richardson then introduced the new study book, "Building With India." She also gave a short sketch of the work's work.

Mrs. J. J. Earley gave the closing prayer. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Earl McLean, the meeting to be an open one.
