WILD SWAN BY HUNDREDS GATHER NEAR KINGSVILLE

Large Numbers of Fowl Stop Near Miner's Famous Bird Sanctuary For First Time on Their Flight South—
About 500 in Flock.

Special to The Advertiser.
Kingsville, Nov. 15.—About 500 wild swan have appeared on the lake in front of the town. Although swan by the thousands have congregated here in the spring for the past three years, this is the first time that any appreciable number have been seen in the fall.

This is the only place in Ontario where wild native swan can be seen, and they gather here as the result of work done by Jack Miner, who has a game sanctuary a few miles inshore. Thousands of people have come each year during the past few years to see the wild swan and the wild duck at the Miner farm, and local people hope that the government will extend the sanctuary so that the wild life will be protected at the lake as well as in the area now protected.

Students of wild life have been surprised that there were many wild swan in one flock as have appeared here during the past few years, and all are anxious that these birds should be protected and not exterminated by men who would sacrifice wild life just for the sake of shooting.

Sites for churches at Seaford, Brighton, and Worthing have been presented to the diocese. Land for future churches and schools has also been procured at Morden, Surrey, Swanley and Witley. At Billingshurst, a former nonconformist chapel, the bishop states, has been converted into a Catholic church and an Anglican hall at Hursley Point has been acquired for Catholic purposes.

The late Sir Edward Hulton left £5,000 to the diocese for Catholic purposes at Leatherhead. Another benefactor bequeathed £3,000, which will be utilized for the establishment of a secondary school for boys. Negotiations are pending for the erection of Catholic churches at Bellingham, Cooden, near Bexley, and at Ewell, Surrey, near Bexley, Southborough, Sydenham Hill and Tenterden. Convents are also to be established in different parts of the diocese.

SEWAGE DISPOSAL MAY BE DRIVING FISH AWAY

Port Stanley Fishermen Forced To Ply Trade Nearer
Other Stations.

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, Nov. 15.—Does the disposal of sewage through the new plant and Kettle Creek, drive the fish to points down the lake? This theory is advanced by many residents of Port Stanley, although discounted in the city. The theory has received support since the announcement by government men that a large quantity of sewage from the Detroit river was driving the fish further down the lake.

The industry at Port Stanley is on the decline, and instead of two dozen boats running out of there, they now have a paltry half dozen or so, and these work off Port Dover and Maitland a good part of the time.

Associated Press Despatch.

Writing in the current issue of the American Federationist, official organ of the American Federation of Labor, Lewis couples this advice with the statement that even if anthracite mining were resumed immediately it would not be able to overcome the shortage before next spring.
