The various numbers are certoo numerous to mention. tend with in the musical world, in a plot so elaborate. The various numbers are certainly much above the average writing. For instance, the duet in D flat in the first is worthy of Donizetti. The ballads are worthy of the pen of Balfe or Wallace; in fact the whole musical portion has a color and treatment peculiarly in keeping with the various situations of the plot, and both released charges show the master hand. solos and choruses show the master hand. The orchestral treatment should not be forgotten, being in some instances masterly, viz., the trio, Sold, Sold. Should Jupiter Pluvius be more propitious, nusical Toronto should not fail to see the performance of this original composition. Miss Sallie Holman seemed to have fully recovered her voice last night, and gave each of her rumbers in her own effective way, particularly the Lullaby. Mr. J. T. Dalton, in the character of St. Clair has a part suited to his voice and capacity as a ballad singer, of which he takes full advantage, notably in the song, My Eva's Gone. Mr. O'Connor once more displayed his versatility as Toposev, and more than confirmed his position in Torento. Mr. Clifton was suitably lusubrious as Uncte Tom, and Mr. A. D. Holman created not a little mirth as Marks. ORANGE BLUSSOMS AT CHIPPEWA arriage of Mr. Widmer Hawke and Miss Annie Macklem-A Nice Affair. The marriage of Mr. Widmer Hawke of Toronto and Miss Annie Macklem of Chippawa, (only daughter of Mr. James F Macklem) was solemnized yesterday at noon at Trinity church, Chippaws, by-Right Rev. Bishop Fuller of Niagara, as sisted by Rev. E. J. Fessenden. The brides maids were Miss Bertha Kirkpatrick of Toronto and Miss Minnie Hawke, Miss Adelaide Thomas of Milwaukee, Miss Annie Bush of Niagara Falls, Ont, Miss Florence Tench of Chippawa, Miss Jessie Macklem of Ningara Falls, N.Y., and Miss May Kirkpatrick of Toronto. Mr. Edward H. pretty, especially the bell of flowers, three feet high, that was suspended over the altar, the work of the bride's brother, Mr. Leon C. Macklem, and decorated by his wife and Miss Bertha Kirkpatrick. The bride was followed by two pages, children of Mr. Sutherland Macklem, dress ed in pale blue velvet with silver braid. After the ceremony these little children preceded the bride and groom as they left the altar and strewed lovely flowers in the path. The bride's dress was much admired for its beauty and elegance. It consisted of a white brocaded gauze overdress and white satin trimmed with point lace with fringes of orange blossoms. The veil was of tulle with orange blossom wreaths; the ornaments were diamonds. The bridesmaids were beautfully attired in India muslin lace dresses with pink and blue ribbons and flowers for ornaments. Each one of them carried a basket of exquisite flowers. After the ceremony the bridal couple, followed by a host of relatives and friends, repaired to the residence of Mr. James F. Macklem, the bride's father where a splendid collation was served. father, where a splendid collation was served

The young couple sat at the head of the table, under a bell of flowers.

The health of the bride and groom was proposed by the right rev. bishop of Niag-ara in an appropriate speech, to which the groom made a fitting response. The health of the bridesmaids was next proposed b Rev. Mr. Fessenden. Mr. E. H. Hawke jr., responded. The regular toasts followed each other in rapid succession. The speeches made were lively and entertaining.

At 3 o'clock the bride and groom started At 3 o'clock the bride and groom started on their wedding trip amid a shower of rice and a number of old shoes, which were hurled after them by their friends as they departed, and all joined in wishing the young couple Godspeed, a pleasant journey and a safe return. The bridal trip will be to Rochester, Lake George, Saratoga, Albany, New York and Newport. Among the guests present were the following: Bishop and Mis. Fuller, Rev.
