is how the Archbishop of Quebeq regards though somboys they are accustomed to them and he avidently quotes papal author-

them and he evidently quotes papel author-ity for his course. On the other hand, the Kaights of Labor have a strong Triah Catholic fibrs running throughout their bond. Terrence Powderly is of Irish descent and of the Catholic faith. And so are many of the most active men in the movement. It is a comparatively easy matter for Mgr. Teschereau to fulminate against the Knights in order to prevent the French Canadians from estating the Association, for as yet yery few of that nationality are in it. But for the prelates of the States and of English tongued Canada to come out against the Order is to piace themselves in direct an-tagonism with large numbers of their flocks who are already Kaights and bound to be Knights. And, therefore, we notice with what care Arabbishop Lynch of Toronto and Arabbishop Corrigus and Bishop Quina of New York approach the question. They claim to be awaiting final instructions from Rome, but presciently they any we can hardly afford to antagonize the movement.

few unjustifiable acts; in the ey will triumph to the extent The Syracuse Courier states that although sot few unjustifiable acts; in the end usy will triamph to the estiont at least of an improvement in the condition of the laborer all along the line. Can the church, then, afford to oppose labor in this struggle? Arobbishop Lynch says his sympathies are with the laborer, max or woman. And many of his brethren will deter the crust woman. And many of his brethren will deter the crust woman. And many of his brethren will deter the crust woman. And many of his brethren will deter the crust we cannot pretend to say. It must deal with its own ohlidem and mast set its own fiscipline. Of a certainty, as Eudorins points each, that discripting is against secret societies, and therefore Arobbishop Tasche-rean would appear to be in the right; as a matter of policy the Link-American Bishops way. It remains to be seen how the motto of Reme, Semper Kadem, will stand the jar of such a crisis as seems to be at hand. The task which M. The task which Mr. Gladstone has cut out for himself is the proverbially difficult one of trying to sit between two stools. In one hand he dangles the tempting bait of Home Rule to the Parnellitum ; in the other he displays the equally seductive lure of as many maintain, may be doubtful, but land purchase to the Irish landlords. Were certain it is that such injustice exists to the the interests of these two parties at all loss of the municipalities. Publicity would identical, the task undertaken would be very make every taxpayer an investigator, and much simplified. Unfortunately, however, would produce much more than it would
