Editorial Topics.

WHILE it is well to keep emphasizing from time to time the fact that Trinity is a University and an Arts' College, not a Divinity school merely, it is just as well, when fitting occasion presents itself, to remember that we have a school for training spiritual teachers and pastors. Any church which concerns itself only with itself may well consider seriously whether it is really Christian. It is a good sign, therefore, of the vitality of the Anglican Church in Canada and of Trinity's Divinity School, that missions abroad are of so great moment to them. More and more attention must be paid to the study of countries such as Japan, their political, social, and religious institutions, and, if possible, to their languages also. As with ourselves, so with foreigners, a message of any kind is more likely to receive a hearing if it be given to us by a sympathetic messenger who is fully alive to our modes of thought, our prepossessions, and our prejudices. There is not the glamour now about foreign missions which there used to be ten years ago and more. A journey to the so-called heathen countries is not so serious a thing as it was in earlier days, whereas life in some of them—particularly in Japan—tends to become more and more pleasant. Yet because of these very facts there is the more need for sympathy to be shown with those who go out as our representatives. Sympathy is what is needed also by many a struggling missionary in the domestic field. Money is needed by both classes of men, but sympathy is needed even more than money. And we who stay at home, whether clergy or laity, and go about our daily work have to remember to bring into that work more and more of the missionary, the Christ-like, spirit. Such are some of the thoughts re-awakened by farewell scenes of the kind presented to us on the evening of June 26th. To our alumni, Messrs. Shortt and Ryerson, we offer our good wishes for a prosperous voyage and for the highest success in the work to which they have given themselves—that of taking more light to those who have some light already, even if it be but that of Nature or of some great teacher of the past, whose rushlight is but a flicker caught from the dazzling light of eternal truth.

At the close of the college year we wish again to remind those whose subscriptions have not yet been paid that they have been due for some time. We have eight hundred nominal subscribers to THE REVIEW; but far more than half that number have not yet paid their subscriptions and still they expect to receive the paper. We must remind them that a paper of this sort cannot be kept up by good-will and kindly feelings; we feel that in most cases we receive that, but we must have something more substantial. We wish then that everyone who has received an account or whose subscription is due would kindly communicate with the Business Manager, either enclosing what is due or stating his reason for not doing so.

At a meeting of the Board of Editors THE NEW EDITOR- of THE REVIEW, held on June the 20th, IN-CHIEF. Mr. D. T. Owen was unanimously elected Editor-in-Chief in place of Mr. Strathy, '00, who has sent in his resignation, to date from July. Mr. Owen has been on the staff since January, 1899, and from the energy and ability he has shown in the past we feel sure that he will ably fulfil his new duties. Two new assistant-editors have also been elected to fill the places left vacant by the resignations of Messrs. Warren and Code. Mr. F. J. Sawers, '01, and Mr. E. M. Sait, '02, will fill their positions.

TRINITY VS. ST. ALBAN'S C.C.

ON Saturday, May 12th, Trinity received rather a bad beating at the hands of St. Alban's C. C. Trinity won the toss and went to bat. They managed to get only fifty-one runs, no one making double figures. Mr. Simpson headed the score with eight runs. The bowling of St. Alban's was nothing out of the ordinary, but Trinity lost seven wickets by putting up easy catches.

St. Alban's piled up a good score in their innings, making 118 for eight wickets. Trinity was rather at a loss for bowlers in this match. Mockridge bowled well, securing six wickets for thirty-seven runs, while Mr. Simpson and Lucas each took one wicket.

The scores were as follows:—
