

A black and white woodcut-style illustration of a Native American man on horseback. The man is depicted from the waist up, wearing a long, dark tunic. He has a serious expression and is looking slightly to the right. He wears a headdress made of several long, dark feathers. His right hand is raised to his forehead, and his left hand holds a long, thin rifle. He is seated on a horse that is facing left. The horse is shown in profile, with its head turned slightly towards the viewer. The background is plain white, and the entire illustration is rendered in a simple, bold line style characteristic of woodcut prints.
