policy development, public education, aid programs and other activities contribute to sometimes overlapping efforts on the part of NGOs, DFAIT, and CIDA. Relationships among these three actors must be redefined and restructured, keeping in mind the rapidly changing work environment and the fact that recruitment pools are already shared.