then would have been slightly more forcible!

You will agree with me perhaps that in no instance has the Government of the day in Canada measured up to the standard of the real bulk of public opinion of its citizens, nor has any real measure ever been taken through except under pressure from the people themselves - This is not altogether peculiar to Canada, but is exaggerated because of our weakness, and
